Golfing Prodigy Woods Wins U.S. Amateur

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla. — Tiger Woods won the last three holes of his 36-hole final match against Trip Kuehne on Sunday to become the youngest winner in the history of the U.S. Amateur Championships.

The 18-year-old from Cypress, Calif., scored what is believed to be the biggest comeback victory in the event. Woods, the three-time junior champion, is the first black champion in the 94 years of the tournament.

Woods registered a 2-up victory over the Stadium Course at TPC Sawgrass. He trailed Kuehne of McKinney, Texas, by six holes after the first 13 holes, but drew to just 4 down after the morning round. In the afternoon, he rallied to win six of the last 10 holes.

Woods took the lead for the first time by chipping in for birdie-2 from 12 feet on No. 17, after just missing the water surrounding the island green on his tee shot. He sealed his victory when Kuehne's long bid for birdie on the final hole rolled six feet by and he missed the comeback attempt.

"I knew if I just hung in there, sooner or later those putts were going to go in," said Woods, who will enter Stanford University this fall. "And they did. Coming back from 6 down means the most."

Woods earned invitations to next year's U.S. Open, Masters and British Open.

He finished at 7-under par for the day, while Kuehne was 5-under.

The Amateur is one of 13 national championships conducted annually by the U.S. Golf Association.

Jimmy V Golf Tourney Draws Crowd of 30,000

CARY — Organizers were hoping for a crowd at the inaugural Jimmy V Celebrity Golf Classic. They weren't disappointed.

An estimated 30,000 people turned out Sunday at Prestonwood Country Club to watch 40 sports and entertainment celebrities play in the charity event to benefit the Jimmy V Foundation.

Before former N.C. State basketball coach Jim Valvano died of cancer last year, he established a foundation to help find a cure for the disease. The response to the charity golfing event for the foundation exceeded expectations.

"What a reflection on Jimmy's popularity," said college basketball analyst Dick Vitale.

"As important as it is for us to find the dollars necessary for research, I think the bottom line here is the popularity of Jimmy."

Mrs. Valvano said everything had to be perfect to bring the tournament off. A practice round was doused by thunderstorms on Saturday, but not one drop of rain fell on a hot and humid Sunday.

"You learn a lot doing something for the first time and you make mistakes and you have to adjust while you go along," Mrs. Valvano said. "We basically just wanted it to be first-class, and have everybody have a good time and come away with a really warm feeling in their heart that they will carry with them for a long, long time."

Cornhuskers Whip West Virginia 31-0

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Nebraska, which ended last season with a heartbreaking loss in the Orange Bowl, started this season with an impressive victory in the Kickoff Classic.

Tommy Frazier ran for three touchdowns and passed for one, and Lawrence Phillips rushed for 126 yards as the fourth-ranked Cornhuskers routed No. 24 West Virginia 31-0 Sunday in the opening game of college football's 125th season.

Both teams went 11-0 last year before losing their bowl games. Nebraska missed a last-second field goal and fell to Florida State 18-16 in a national title showdown in the Orange Bowl. West Virginia was clobbered by Florida 41-7 in the Sugar Bowl.

The way the Cornhuskers played Sunday, they appear capable of reaching another championship game this season.

West Virginia didn't cross midfield until it recovered a fumble early in the fourth quarter and was shut out for the first time since a 19-0 loss to Penn State in 1986.

Nebraska gained 285 yards and 17 first downs in the first half while holding West Virginia to 4 yards and two first downs. For the game, the Cornhuskers outgained the Mountaineers 468-89, including 368-8 on the ground.

Frazier, a junior who has directed Nebraska's option attack since midway through his freshman season, helped the Cornhuskers take command in the second quarter after going ahead 3-0 on Tom Sieler's 32-yard field goal in the opening period.

Frazier scored on runs of 25 and 27 yards and threw a 12-yard touchdown pass to Reggie Baul to give Nebraska a 24-0 halftime lead. He added a 42-yard TD run in the fourth quarter.

Frazier, the game's most valuable player, ran 12 times for 130 yards and was 8-of-16 for 100 yards. Phillips, a sophomore making his first college start, carried 24 times and more than filled the gap left by the departure of star tailback Calvin Jones.

West Virginia, which averaged 34 points last season, could do nothing against Nebraska's quick, aggressive defense. Sophomores Chad Johnston and Eric Boykin alternated at quarterback for the Mountaineers, but neither could move the team against a Nebraska defense that had eight sacks.

West Virginia's Robert Walker, who gained a school-record 1,250 yards last season, was held to 46 yards on 12 carries.

The only bright spot for West Virginia was All-Big East punter Todd Sauerbrun, who averaged 60 yards on nine kicks, including a school-record 90-yarder in the first quarter.

The victory improved Nebraska's Kick-off Classic record to 3-0. It was West Virginia's first appearance in the game.

ATTITUDE

I realize there are parents that are doing what they can to make ends meet and don't have much time to be with their kids at home.

For those parents, I sympathize and ask that you trust the coaches in their attempts to build positive character.

I also ask all those involved in coaching today's youngsters to realize the responsibility in their position. Winning is great, but it's not the most important thing. Get to know your players as individuals who can help and not pawns in a personal search for championships.

To parents who are financially stable and have time to spend with their kids, I offer the following advice: Take time to actually stay at a practice and offer support, don't just drop them off or send them with a nanny. Positive reinforcement goes a long way in developing positive attitudes.

And finally, to the athletes who feel they have to talk trash and offer late hits to get attention: All the talk in the world can't win championships.

If you want to intimidate, take all the built-up frustration and vent it towards bettering your performance. If someone gets up in your face and starts talking trash, just walk off and ignore it.

Especially since retaliation now results in suspension, I don't think Mama can complain to ACC Commissioner Gene Corrigan.

VOLLEYBALL

But, as newcomers to the college volleyball scene, Peden and Carlson don't sound as sure of that.

"The college game is much more intense, it's overwhelming," Peden said.

Carlson added: "It's not really possible to prepare for it. Our first college match is against Stanford, that's the best in the nation. All you can do to mentally prepare is visualize."

To better their 4-10 record in the ACC in 1993, the Tar Heels will have to come out strong from the beginning of the season.

The Florida Gator Classic, beginning on Friday, will give the team a chance to show that Division I ACC volleyball can be competitive against the top teams in the nation, Sagula said.

"We just have to compete hard and play well," he said. "We need to come out of the weekend feeling that we can play the toughest teams around."

Montross Inks Deal, Gets Hitched Over Weekend

STAFF REPORT

Within two days, former North Carolina center Eric Montross signed on for the next 11 years and for the rest of his life.

Friday, he inked a contract with the Boston Celtics, who selected him with the ninth pick in the NBA Draft's first round. Saturday, he married Laura Elizabeth Leonard, a 1993 UNC graduate from Lexington he had been dating for approximately 3 1/2 years.

Although terms of Montross' contract have not been disclosed by the Celtics, the Boston Globe and the Boston Herald have reported that it is worth between $17 million and $20 million over 11 years.

Montross' father, Scott, negotiated the pact with Boston.

Saturday's wedding took place at University Presbyterian Church at 209 E. Franklin St. After the ceremony, the wedding party proceeded to a reception at the Carolina Inn via a Chapel Hill transit trolley.

Plans for the couple's honeymoon were not available.

Montross joins Rick Fox, his former teammate with the Tar Heels, in Celtic green.

The Indianapolis native could replace Celtic mainstay Robert Parish in the middle when the NBA season opens this fall.

Montross has previous experience playing against the NBA's best as a member of the squad that practiced against the first Dream Team prior to the 1992 Olympics.
