

Sampras Falls to Unheralded Peruvian at Open

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW YORK — So exhausted he was close to passing out on court, Pete Sampras could barely move, much less swing his racket, every muscle in his body aching and only his pride holding him up.
 He pushed himself to the limit, "hit the wall," as he and a doctor described it, and still he refused to quit, his reputation on the line as much as the U.S. Open title he was defending.

 Jaime Yzaga would have to win this match, not have it handed to him. It took 3 1/2 hours Tuesday, from midday sunshine to evening shadows, but Yzaga won it at last, 3-6, 6-3, 4-6, 7-6 (7-4), 7-5, with a final return that broke Sampras' vaunted serve.
 Sampras had a blister the size of a quarter on his big right toe and another one on his other foot that hurt, but it was sheer fatigue that slowed him to a crawl.

 No. 1 by far in the rankings after winning four of the last five Grand Slams, Sampras was idled for six weeks because of an ankle injury going into the Open.
 "I just hit the wall today," the two-time Open champion said. "The last four or five games, I was running on the adrenalin of the crowd. My whole body was sore. It just caught up with me. I didn't have anything left in the fourth and fifth. I'm not in great shape, and to win a Slam, you have to be in great shape."

 Sampras had worked out hard in the gym to get in shape, but it wasn't enough.
 "You need to play matches, and you can't get that on an exercise bike," said Sampras' coach, Tim Gullikson. "I've never seen Pete pack it in, and I can't fault his effort here today. After the third set, he looked like he was going to pass out."

It was the first time since seedings began in the U.S. championships in 1927 that none of the top three men reached the quarters.
 Sampras played parts of this match as if he were slugging through mud, while Yzaga bounced around like a rubber ball.
 Yet the No. 1 seed wouldn't concede the match to the up-start Peruvian.
 "I was going to go the distance," he said. "I thought I fought pretty hard. I wasn't going to give up, retire, and let him not earn it. It's just pride. If he's going to beat me, he'd have to go the distance."

Serving to stay in the tournament at 5-6 in the fifth, he slapped a forehand crosscourt well wide, then watched Yzaga slam a backhand return past him for the match.
 The blisters were only the latest foot problems for Sampras since he switched sneakers to a specially designed, super-duper new model for $18 million or so, courtesy of Nike.
 He sprained his right ankle at Wimbledon and developed tendinitis in his left ankle at the Davis Cup, sidelining him since mid-July until the start of the Open. A few days ago, the nail on one toe, cut into another, requiring repairs on court. This time, he yanked off his right sneaker, and called over a trainer to apply a pad to the blister early in the fourth set.
 Sampras took rests whenever and wherever he could find them, sitting at times on a court-side barrier, leaning against a wall, even stretching out behind the baseline for a few moments after slipping late in the fifth set. All the while, he was breathing deeply with a constant expression of worry and weariness.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Werley ACC Player of Week

Midfielder Cindy Werley of the North Carolina field hockey team was named the ACC Player of the Week for her contribution on three of UNC's goals in its 5-2 against William & Mary Sunday.
 Werley had one goal and three assists against the Tribe, and she also scored in UNC's 5-1 exhibition loss to England on Saturday.

Sanchez Vicario to Meet Sabatini in Open Semis

NEW YORK — Arantxa Sanchez Vicario and Gabriela Sabatini set up a meeting in the women's semifinals, each winning easily Tuesday.
 Sanchez Vicario beat Kimiko Date 6-3, 6-0; Sabatini beat Gigi Fernandez 6-2, 7-5.
 "I'm going to have to be very aggressive and fight a lot," Sabatini said. "It's going to be a different match. I'm going to have to play more tennis."

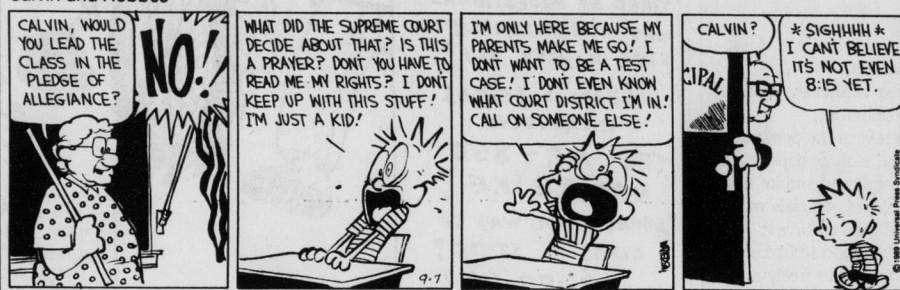

U.S. Set to Challenge World Cup-less England

LONDON — Just as it has in the past 15 months, the United States soccer team intends to continue shocking people Wednesday when it makes its Wembley Stadium debut against England.
 The United States embarrassed the English with a 2-0 defeat last year, and surprised most soccer experts when it advanced to the second round of the World Cup this summer.
 "We have a lot to prove," midfielder Cobi Jones said. "We've got to show that we've come a long way."

Neely Agrees to Contract

BOSTON — Cam Neely, one of the NHL's top goal-scorsers despite a succession of serious injuries, ended his holdout Tuesday by agreeing to a one-year contract with the Boston Bruins.
 Sinden had been pushing for a clause which would allow the Bruins to match any offer Neely might get when he becomes a free agent after next season.
 Terms of the pact were not released, but Neely and the Bruins reportedly had reached agreement earlier on a base salary of $1.4 million.
