15 Different Tar Heels Tally Goals As Lacrosse Bushwhacks Buckeyes

BY REUBEN SACK
STAFF WRITER

At the beginning of Tuesday night's game at Fetzer Field, North Carolina had another tied game on their hands. Fortunately for the Tar Heels, the tie didn't last long, and they went on to blow out Ohio State 20-3.

Last week, unranked Lehigh matched the Tar Heels for three overtimes before UNC scored.

It was a different story this week. After a first quarter lead of 11-1, it looked as if No. 8 North Carolina (4-2) might match their largest margin of victory, a 29-1 shellacking of Ohio State in 1989.

The Tar Heel defense owned the unranked Buckeyes (2-2). After a first quarter goal by Keith Paradine, the brother of former UNC All-American defenseman Greg Paradine, Ohio State failed to score until the fourth quarter.

North Carolina outplayed Ohio State in virtually every category, and managed to capitalize on a number of Buckeye miscues, including three EMO goals. OSU failed to clear the ball in 24 of 42 attempts and advanced the ball past midfield once in the third quarter, failing 14 times.

"We just have more better players," UNC coach Dave Klarman said. "It wasn't coaching, we just have better guys. We just have to play with this crispness against the big boys."

Fifteen different UNC players scored, including Billy Walsh and Mike Maier, who canned the first goals of their careers.

UNC attacked OSU with a number of quick-scoring assaults. With 3:45 left in the first quarter, North Carolina scored three times in just over a minute and didn't look back. John Solter started the barrage with the first of his three goals off of a dish from attackman Merrill Turnbull.

"I made the switch to attack from midfield," Solter said. "I'm just happy to get in the game and play."

With 2:34 left in the first quarter, Turnbull came from behind the goal and "dunked" the ball in mid-air, landing in the crease, extending the lead to five goals.

North Carolina pushed the lead to 10 at Brendan Carey (9), defended by Buckeye longstick Pat Sullivan, tallied two goals and an assist in UNC's 20-3 dismantling of Ohio State Tuesday night.

the half, scoring its last two goals of the second quarter in 10 seconds. The team continued to dominate in the third quarter, scoring six more goals. Turnbull fed Mark Phillips with a pin-point pass for the second of his two goals to start the Tar Heels' second half scoring.

Ohio State ended its 40:53 scoring drought with T.J. Rose's goal 26 seconds into the fourth quarter, cutting the lead to 17-2. UNC responded with three more goals, including an unassisted goal by Solter to complete his hat trick.

Tar Heel Bats Hot in UMBC Romp

Yoder Tames Retrievers As Offense Gets Early Lead, Puts Up 8 in First 4 Innings

BY AARON BEARD
STAFF WRITER

It takes some baseball teams several innings to get their bats warmed up.

Against Maryland-Baltimore County, North Carolina was not one of those teams.

In an impressive performance, the Tar Heels (17-8) jumped out to a 9-0 lead in the first four innings and cruised to an 11-3 victory over the Retrievers (6-7).

Sophomore designated hitter Brett Kaplan crushed his fifth home run of the season, and junior center fielder Antawan Smith went 3 for 5 with an RBI.

Junior Gil Gonzalez returned to the starting lineup in grand fashion during the third inning. Gonzalez followed Kaplan's two-run blast with his own home run off Retriever pitcher Chris Archambault.

"I didn't feel any pressure," Gonzalez said. "I really don't ever look for a pitch. I basically love to swing at the first pitch. But I tried to be patient at the plate and let things happen."

UNC head coach Mike Roberts said: "He did a real good job for us. You gotta have people to drive in runs, and lately Antawan Smith, Gonzalez, and Kaplan have really driven in a lot of runs for us."

The flood gates opened early.

In the fourth inning, junior Mike Stoner, junior Mitch Jones, Smith, Kaplan and Gonzalez all crossed the plate in a five-run outburst.

UNC sophomore pitcher A.Y. Yoder (2-1) scattered three runs and struck out eight over eight innings.

"I thought A.Y. Yoder had his best performance of the year for us," Roberts said. "He started throwing strikes today and was a little more confident than he's been. To get eight innings out of a pitcher is good. I just thought he threw the ball well."

Over the first six innings, Yoder stifled the UMBC offense, holding the Retrievers scoreless while giving up only four hits.

"I felt through the first six innings I was keeping the ball down and getting ahead," Yoder said. "I got a little tired towards the end, and I gave up a couple of hits. But I thought the defense played really well behind me. We had only one error. When they're making the plays, it's easy."

Until the seventh inning, scoring for the Retrievers was anything but easy.

But UMBC got rolling in the seventh, getting three runs off Yoder to get on the board. Two of those runs came via a homer by UMBC second baseman Jeff Berman.

"In the seventh, I got a little tired," Yoder said. "When I get tired, the ball tends to run up on me. The guys took advantage of it and hit the ball. But we got out of it, scored some runs, and everything was all right."

"It's the longest I've been out there this year, so I was pleased that I was able to stay ahead of hitters, keep them off-stride through eight innings, and give us a chance to win the ballgame."

Junior reliever Josh Potter came in at the top of the ninth to finish off UMBC, giving up only one hit while striking out one.

UNC travels to Kinston today to face East Carolina.

The Tar Heels return to Boshamer Stadium this weekend for a series with Georgia Tech.

Coach Mike Roberts said A.Y. YODER had his best outing of the year Tuesday.
