

Calvin and Hobbes

THE Daily Crossword by Gerald R. Ferguson

- ACROSS
- 1 Colleague of Lassie
 - 5 Fanatical
 - 10 Teddy material
 - 14 Sea swallow
 - 15 Rope fiber
 - 16 Holland export
 - 17 Send signals
 - 18 Folkways
 - 19 Mackerel shark
 - 20 Tool for John Henry?
 - 23 Slangy negative
 - 24 Insuperous
 - 25 Midler
 - 28 Consumed
 - 31 Israeli port
 - 32 Bubble on a bomber
 - 34 Hose part
 - 37 Hitchcock film, (with "The")
 - 40 Dance
 - 41 Coupon word
 - 42 Uriah —
 - 43 Chilchua
 - 44 Hybrid animal
 - 45 Flexible wrap
 - 48 Wise — owl
 - 50 Maxwell Smart's deskick
 - 57 U.S. president
 - 58 Wear away slowly
 - 59 Golden calf, for one
- DOWN
- 1 Egyptian deity
 - 2 Convoy member
 - 3 Triplet
 - 4 Pangolin
 - 5 Novarro of silents
 - 6 Circa
 - 7 Bus garage
 - 8 Finished cupcakes
 - 9 Sprint
 - 10 Oscar-winning actor
 - 11 John or Abigail
 - 12 Forms into a compact mass
 - 13 Atlanta university
 - 21 Patisserie item
 - 22 Throws in with
 - 25 Balneation
 - 26 Reverberate
 - 27 Journey
 - 28 Indians
 - 29 English composer
 - 30 Be full
 - 32 Nautical lines
 - 33 Nullify
 - 34 Adolescent
 - 35 Unwrap
 - 36 Catch sight of
 - 38 Staffordshire river
 - 39 On the slim side
 - 43 Storage room for food
 - 44 Fodder
 - 45 Squelched
 - 46 Guam's capital
 - 47 Direct (to)
 - 48 Mosquito genus
 - 49 Stone marker
 - 51 —do-well
 - 52 Dies —
 - 53 Proboscis
 - 54 Sneaking suspicion
 - 55 Beery or Webster
 - 56 Logan or Raines

© 1995 Tribune Media Services, Inc. All rights reserved.

Thursday's Puzzle solved:

HERO

FROM PAGE 1

and becoming a doctor. But for every hour he spent poring over textbooks in Davis Library, he spent several serving in key leadership roles on campus.

He's the president of Phi Beta Kappa, an honor that goes to the student with the highest grade point average; he's on the steering committee for Carolina Contact, which tries to sell the University to some of the top high school students in the country; and he was the director of Heels to Heaven, a campus Christian singing group.

Combine that with his four to six hours of studying a day and you've got a very busy man. "I was always committed to doing my best and always kept that up," the senior from Atlanta said. "I'm very self-motivated."

Dunlevie got involved with Carolina Contact after two years of service as a volunteer tour guide for the Office of Undergraduate Admissions. Today, the program will bring to campus 200 high school students in the top third of their class who have already been admitted to UNC.

The point is to sway those who are still teetering between several schools and to entice those who have already accepted to get involved in campus groups.

Dunlevie is responsible for bringing student leaders and faculty together with the high schoolers for a luncheon in the Morehead Banquet Hall. He said the program was usually well-received by the high school students.

"It gives them the chance to see the human side of Carolina," said Dunlevie, who added that walking backwards was the only obstacle in leading tours. "When they go on the tours, they see the architecture, but they don't really see the who."

Lisa Bay Vogelbacker, a junior from Norcross, Ga., who heads the program's steering committee, said Dunlevie had been instrumental in organizing the event.

"He's definitely done a tremendous job getting a diverse group of student leaders and faculty," Vogelbacker said. "He's been an asset to the community."

Monday will also be busy for Dunlevie, who will oversee the Phi Beta Kappa induction. His main duties included recruiting a speaker, who will be outgoing Chancellor Paul Hardin, and setting up the music for the event. Other than that, the group doesn't take up too much of his time. "I don't do much but shake hands," he said.

Dunlevie has wanted to be a doctor for as long as he can remember. The idea of helping people and interacting with patients has always been appealing.

So, naturally, he majored in English.

"When I came here I was pre-med, but I decided it was important to broaden my horizons," he said. "I've always liked English, so before I ended up in a lab for the next four years I wanted to spend a little time in Greenlaw."

He minored in chemistry so he could get a dose of Keats for every chemical and a Milton for every molecule. In fact, he spent Thursday afternoon defending his honor's thesis on the 17th-century author of "Paradise Lost."

"He's an outstanding student and a very agreeable one, too," said English Professor Christopher Armitage, who supervised Dunlevie's thesis. "He did extremely well in his oral defense."

With only 2 1/2 weeks to go in the semester, it's too late for an academic turnaround for most seniors. But freshmen, sophomores and juniors might learn something from Dunlevie's success. He attributes his to the faculty at Westminster High School in Atlanta and to his diligence as a student. His recipe for academic accolades includes studying hard while leaving time for socializing through different campus organizations. He summed up the secret to his success as "Lots of hard work but even more prayer."

Dunlevie cites his devout Christian faith as another reason for his success. He believes that God gives everyone gifts and that people have to use them to the best of their abilities. He's tried to do just that.

"Christianity has helped me keep things in perspective," he said. "Ultimately, grades are important, but then again, they're really not."

He developed his faith through Heels to Heaven and as an active member of InterVarsity Christian Fellowship as a freshman and sophomore.

As director of the 70-member Heels to Heaven, Dunlevie had his work cut out for him. It was a tough job to get so many different voices, and keep so many personalities, working together. "It had its ups and downs. The best thing about it was being a part of music again. It was a great outlet for me. It was a wonderful experience."

When he's not minding his schoolwork, Dunlevie enjoys playing the piano and watching movies. He's recently gotten into film noir and is a classic film buff, listing the "meaty," and long, "Ben Hur" and "Gone With the Wind" as two of his favorites.

Ironically, he's even taken to running. "It's an outlet now," he said.

Dunlevie isn't sure what he'll do immediately after he graduates May 14. He's considering heading out West for a month this summer, just to see some of the country. But mainly he'll just be biding his time until he starts medical school at UNC in the fall.

Looking back on his college career as his time as an undergraduate comes to a close, Dunlevie has few regrets. He didn't come in expecting straight A's and never had that as a goal. But he'll take it.

"I believe in getting the most out of the college experience as you can," he said. "That means different things for different people. For me, it meant going on two different academic trails and trying a lot of different organizations. You always hear college is the best years of your life."

CHAMBERS

FROM PAGE 3

Even if congress passes the resolution, there are other possible hurdles it would have to clear, such as whether Di-Phi would charge a fee for use of the chambers, which it does for other student groups.

"That question has not come up yet," Lineberger said.

"We are pursuing this as a normal request for use of the chambers with the fee waived for the trial meeting, after which point negotiations will be made."

"I personally do not see how we can waive the fee unless Student Congress can provide us with some justification," he said.

Lineberger did not rule out the possibility that the move would take place. "Mr. Granato and the members of congress do have a chance, provided that they are on their best behavior. Several (Di-Phi) senators do plan to attend the first meeting."

Members of Student Congress are interested in moving their meetings to the chambers because of student government's historical ties to the room, Granato said. "Historically, that's where student government started," he said. "It will bring back a lot of credibility to student government to have our meetings there again."

MEDIA

FROM PAGE 3

Smith said developing critical viewing skills would help juveniles' viewing habits.

She said juveniles were the largest consumers of pornographic materials, which adversely affect their relationships with members of the opposite sex.

"They become exposed to this material, and it becomes an informal source of sex education," Smith said.

The panelists include David Price, professor of public policy at Duke University; Marti Pryor-Cook, director of the Orange County Department of Social Services; and Margaret Henderson, director of the Orange County Rape Crisis Center.

WHITEWATER RAFTING
 West Virginia's New River Gorge
STUDENT SPRING FLING
 2 For $99.50
LIMITED OFFER CALL TODAY! 1-800-633-RAFT

Trip Includes

- *FULL DAY LOWER NEW RIVER
- *2 NIGHTS CAMPING
- *PROFESSIONAL GUIDE
- *ALL RAFTING SAFETY EQUIPMENT
- *ALL-YOU-CAN-EAT DELI-STYLE LUNCH
- *REFRESHMENTS BEFORE & AFTER THE TRIP
- *ALL TAXES & FEES

Drift-a-Bit, Inc.
 P.O. Box 885
 Fayetteville, WV 25840
 (304) 574-3282

Live Jazz

Starting April 14 & 15 Every Friday at 9pm-untill & Saturday at 10pm-untill

at CRACOVIA RESTAURANT

NO COVER CHARGE 929-9162

Green Games

Keep UNC Green!

The Green Games are monthly contests between teams of residence halls for recycling and energy & water conservation. The contests will begin in September and last through March 1995. Contact the SEAC Office at 962-5453 for more details.

Congratulations to Henderson & Cobb

You have won the November Green Games Prize

A free showing of Pulp Fiction!

Saturday, April 8 at 2:00 pm in the Union Theatre

Bring Dorm Key! Limited Seating!

SPONSORS

- Student Environmental Action Coalition
- UNC Housing
- UNC Physical Plant
- Ben & Jerry's
- Blockbuster Video
- Emilberry's
- Residence Hall Association
- Body Billboards

Green Games Tip Of The Month

Help control the bee problems-rinse out all containers before recycling.

Please Recycle This Newspaper

J.CREW

WAREHOUSE SALE

Fashions from the pages of the J.Crew catalog discounted 50%-70%

April 6, 7, 8, 10, 11 9am-9pm
 April 9 & 12 9am-5pm

Burlington Outlet Mall (former Bur-Mart building)
 2589 Eric Lane, Burlington, NC
 (919) 570-1218

We accept MasterCard, VISA, American Express, and J.Crew Credit Cards.

Directions to J.Crew Warehouse Sale:
 I-85/40 to exit 143 South
 Burlington Outlet Mall, turn right on to Eric Lane
 Sale located in the old Bur-Mart building, past the Waccamaw Pottery