

Despite Broken Hand, Cheerleader Grabs Mike

Love him or hate him, the mike man is loud. This year, Scotty Teel tries to get the crowd behind the Tar Heels.

"For the first quarter I'm screaming, for the second quarter I'm screaming, and by the fourth quarter it's all I can do not to crack and sound like I'm going through puberty."

Oh, the trials of being a mike man. The man behind the microphone at this year's football games is Scotty Teel, a sophomore from Berkeley Lake, Ga. He's the force behind the cheering voice broadcast through speakers directed at the stands in Kenan Stadium.

"I've always been the guy who was standing up, yelling and screaming and cussing," he said. "Everybody in high school told me I should be a cheerleader, so that affected my decision."

Teel's aspirations didn't include being manding schedule.

"But I think the Virginia game is evidence we are a very good defensive team. The challenge is to keep that play up and get even better."

In that Virginia game, the Cavs were held to 266 yards of total offense. Tailback Tiki Barber, who had been averaging 109 yards per game, was held to 65 yards.

Defensive end Greg Ellis has been the story for the Tar Heels, leading the team with seven sacks.

On the offensive side of the ball, senior quarterback Mike Thomas has begun to live up to his preseason billing, leading the ACC in total offense. Tailback Leon Johnson exploded in the Virginia game, passing for a TD and running for two more.

The Tar Heels lead the series with Wake Forest 60-29-2, with UNC taking the last are being sold for $2 in the Pit.

Thursday

The traditional Step Show, beginning at 7 p.m. in the Great Hall, originates from African traditional dances. Black Greek organizations have been performing this style of dance for almost 20 years.

"Last year, the step show was practically sold out," Allen said. "It has been a long tradition at UNC."

Friday

Another new event, the Homecoming Festival, will take place in the Pit from noon to 2 p.m.. Different game stations will be set up, including a basketball toss and tic-tac-toe contests. Carolina Fever will be co-sponsoring the festival. Token prizes, such as candy and boxer shorts, will be awarded to participants in the Homecoming Festival events.

Since Carolina Fever is a division of the CAA, the Homecoming committee thought it would be a good idea to delegate the responsibilities.

The annual Homecoming Parade on Friday evening will begin at 6:30 p.m. at Morehead Planetarium. Various student organizations will march in the parade, which will end in front of Kenan Stadium.

The pep rally, which in past years was held on Franklin Street, will follow the parade in Kenan Stadium. Allen thought there would be more school spirit if the rally was moved from Franklin Street to Kenan Stadium. "We think by moving the pep rally to Kenan Stadium, there will be more hype," said Allen. "Hopefully there will be a stronger student attendance because the venue is larger."

The pep rally will feature an address by Coach Mack Brown and the senior football players. They will give a brief pep talk to those in attendance.

At 8 p.m. a rap concert, featuring Keith Murray and Holly Canada, will be held in Carmichael Auditorium. The Homecoming party afterwards will be hosted by the popular "Big Lez." The rap concert and party are co-sponsored by the BSM.

Homecoming committee members hope that the concert will get more people involved. "People who wouldn't normally take part in events will hopefully get more involved," Allen said. "We wanted to reach the portion of campus that may not have participated in the past."

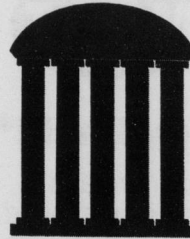

Tickets will be sold during the week at the Union box office for $12.50.

Saturday

The final event of Rampage '95 is Tail Great, co-sponsored by the Educational Foundation at 11 a.m. in the Great Hall. Students and the community are invited to enjoy food before the football game at 1:30.
