

Accuser's Friend: No Crime Committed

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
CHICAGO—Mike Tyson has not been charged in a nightclub incident, and a woman who accompanied the boxer's accuser says she does not believe anything sexually improper occurred.

Tammie Batty said the woman, a Gary, Ind., beautician, told her after leaving the trendy South Side club that Tyson had bitten her face while kissing her and had touched her.

Batty, however, said she saw no signs of a bite.

"I don't believe it happened," Batty said Wednesday. "You don't mess with anybody's reputation like that."

Prosecutors said they had not been contacted by police—a necessary step before any charges could be filed against Tyson, a convicted rapist on probation.

Police said they were still investigating. "Rather than get into the specifics, I will only say we're taking appropriate action," police spokesman Paul Jenkins said.

Tyson, through a spokesman, declined immediate comment.

A lawyer for the woman said the incident occurred in a private room at The Clique, a frequent stomping ground of professional athletes.

"She is distraught. She is angry and disturbed," said attorney Charles Graddick, who would not identify the woman.

Graddick refused to describe what occurred, other than to say in Indiana it would amount to a charge of sexual battery, a felony punishable by 18 months in prison.

Ira Nathanson, a spokesman for the Cook County State's Attorney's office, said a comparable charge in Illinois, where any charges would be filed, is criminal sexual abuse, a misdemeanor punishable by up to a year in prison or probation.

An owner of the club who spoke only on condition of anonymity said he did not believe it happened. "If any such incident occurred, it's inconceivable we wouldn't have known about it," he said.

The owner said the club was crawling with security because Tyson had called in advance to tell them he would be stopping by.

"We knew he was coming and we asked our friends to step (security) up a notch," he said. He added that Tyson was in close proximity to the security during his visit.

"All I know is the woman wanted to come up and talk with Mr. Tyson. ... He said, OK, come up."

Graddick, a former judge and failed mayoral candidate in Gary, Ind., said the woman tried to report the incident at the club and was rebuffed—an allegation the owner denied.

"She was one of the last people to leave," he said. "She never said anything. What's up with that? We had police walking around, security walking around and she has nothing to say and all of a sudden the complaint comes up. That's not very good credibility."

Van Exel Shoves Referee, Gets 7-Game Suspension

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
MINNEAPOLIS—Nick Van Exel of the Los Angeles Lakers was suspended for the final seven regular-season games and fined an NBA-record $25,000 on Wednesday for shoving a referee—a message to the rest of the league to leave officials alone.

"I think everybody understands that if this happens again the penalty will be even more severe," said Rod Thorn, the NBA's director of league operations.

The Los Angeles point guard's suspension, which began with Wednesday night's game against Minnesota, came less than a month after Chicago Bulls forward Dennis Rodman was suspended six games and fined $20,000 for head-butting a referee. Rodman's suspension had been the third-longest in NBA history for an on-court incident until Wednesday. The league's action will cost Van Exel about $187,000, including $161,000 in pay during the suspension.

The incident occurred with 3:23 left in the Lakers' 98-91 loss to Denver. Van Exel apparently made a sarcastic remark about a foul called on the Nuggets' Dale Ellis, and referee Ron Garretson signaled a technical during a timeout.

Van Exel had turned away before the technical, and he then followed Garretson to the scorer's table to protest. Court-side observers reported that Van Exel called Garretson a "little midget" during an argument, and Garretson gave out the second technical.

Van Exel then erupted, using a forearm to shove Garretson onto the scorer's table.
