

North Carolina cornerback Dre' Bly (31) sprints downfield after snagging his second of three interceptions Saturday.

Tar Heels fail to move forward in Associated Press rankings

While North Carolina's defense shone in the Tar Heels' 16-0 victory over Georgia Tech Saturday at Kenan Stadium, the shutout was not impressive enough to move UNC up in the polls.

Sunday's Associated Press Top 25 ranked the Tar Heels 11th, the same as last week's poll. "We're really not considering the polls," Tar Heel receiver Na Brown said Saturday. "We just want to go out every time and do the best we can."

UNC moved into the Top 25 at No. 23 on Sept. 1 after it whipped Clemson 45-0. Then, following the Tar Heels' 27-10 win at Syracuse on Sept. 7, UNC jumped to No. 13.

In 1993, UNC was 3-0 and ranked 13th when it squared off against top-rated Florida State in Chapel Hill.

And when the Tar Heels roll into Tallahassee, Fla., Saturday to tussle with the Seminoles, the circumstances will be much the same as in '93. No. 11 UNC is again 3-0, and the 'Noles are second in the country. But the '93 UNC team was undefeated thanks to wins over two mediocre opponents—Ohio and Maryland—and one legitimate threat, Southern Cal. On the other hand, two of UNC's victories this year have come against ranked foes.

"I think it's definitely the best three-game stretch (since 1988)," Mack Brown said.

"... This (stretch) has been much more satisfying because I think all three of these teams will end up in bowls."

Wrecking Tech

Saturday was sack day at Kenan Stadium, as the Tar Heels dropped the quarterback five times. Defensive lineman Vonnie Holliday slammed Tech quarterback Joe Hamilton to the ground twice, and fellow linemen Rick Terry, Greg Ellis and Teto Simpson each sacked the quarterback once.

Add to the sack total UNC's six tackles for losses, and the Tech ball carriers spent much of their time dodging Tar Heels in the backfield.

"We pressured (Hamilton) tremendously," UNC linebacker Kivusama Mays said.

"As you can see, (UNC cornerback) Dre' Bly with three picks, batted passes — (Hamilton) had to scramble a lot." — Joe Rolison

5-4 lead, but the Deacons again used aces by Kelley and Walker and several Tar Heel hitting errors to storm ahead 11-5 en route to the game three win.

Starks led the Tar Heels with 20 kills in the match, while freshman Tori Seibert added 16. Sagula dismissed any possibility that UNC's sluggish play stemmed from its emotional win over Duke the previous night.

"If we can't play back-to-back matches in the ACC at a high level, then the ACC tournament will be a major struggle for us," he said.

On Friday, UNC outlasted Duke (2-5, 0-1) in an epic five-game match which involved some chaos and confusion in the deciding fifth game.

The mystery stemmed from UNC's 11th point, which most everyone in Cameron Indoor Stadium appeared to miss.

A service error by Berg in the rally-score game gave Duke a 13-10 advantage when Sagula called timeout. Sometime between the timeout and the next point, the mysterious point 11 appeared on the scoreboard and in the official scorebook.

The Duke fans apparently noticed, yelling to anyone within earshot that the score was wrong.

"I thought it was 13-10, too," Sagula said. "I asked them at the timeout, 'Is that the correct score?' and they said, 'Yes.'"

Duke managed a 14-13 advantage on a kill by Jami Ediger. But UNC fought off match point to tie the game at 14.

Errors began to take their toll on the Blue Devils, who yielded the Tar Heels the next four points off hitting errors.

UNC put Duke away after a kill by Carlson and a block by Berg for the win.

"We played clutch at the end, which we haven't done yet," Carlson said. "At 14-14, we played aggressively and that resulted in the win."

For the match, Carlson led the Tar Heels with 26 kills, while Starks and Tori Seibert added 20 kills. Seibert produced a game-high .452 hitting percentage.

Midfielder Danielle Chellev went to her knees to make the save, cleared it, and gave a pat on the back to Barber, who was lying face down on the carpet in disbelief.

"I had numerous opportunities," Barber said. "Nancy had a couple, Cindy had a couple."

"It's tough luck, really. It's frustrating when you're out there, but ... hey, not much you can do about it."

Chellev victimized the Tar Heels again deep into the second overtime.

Awarded a penalty stroke off a UNC infraction in the circle, Chellev stoically wrenched the game-winner past a sprawling Withrow.

"I was just trying to concentrate on the ball and just react and hopefully I'd get it," Withrow said. "But she just got the best of me today."

The upset was an even larger shock considering the Tar Heels' dominating performance against UVa. on Saturday.

Werley, Pelligreen, Abbi Keller and Barber all notched goals for North Caro-

UNC coach JOE SAGULA said the Tar Heels must learn to play well in back-to-back matches.

'questionable' at the beginning of the season.

Junior Omar Brown and Terry Billups were the only experienced players returning to UNC's final line of defense.

But Billups was sidelined after shoulder surgery and Brown moved to safety, leaving Bly and sophomore Robert Williams as the starting cornerbacks.

Their speed, experience and nerves were questioned. Teammates say they've proven the answers.

"I don't have to worry about anything back there," Tar Heel linebacker Kivusama Mays said. "... When they throw a ball, the first thing that hits my mind is interception. I don't even doubt it. (The secondary) will intercept it or they'll knock it down."

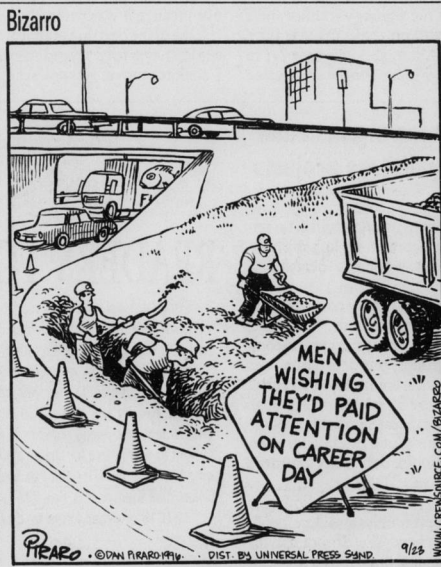

"Dre' Bly is fantastic. He's a young player, he's sharp and he celebrates a lot. He comes up and makes big plays. He's got my confidence. I enjoy watching him play, and I enjoy being out there with him."

Bly's hat trick gives him four for the year.

He said he also had a trio of interceptions as a junior at Western Branch High School in Chesapeake, Va., but never since.

"To have the excitement we had today, ... you have to have playmakers, and Dre' is a playmaker," Brown said.

"And when he excites the fans so much, he excites our football team team. And that's when you're good."
