

FOOTBALL

FROM PAGE 16

Heels went to work from there. Johnson gained eight yards up the middle, and Keldorf then found LJ over the middle on a short pass that Johnson turned into a 47-yard gain. Keldorf then found wideout L.C. Stevens in a crossing pattern for 20 yards, giving UNC a first-and-10 at the State 19.

Keldorf capped the drive by lofting a ball to wide-open fullback Chris Watson in the right corner of the field, and UNC led 33-14. The drive took all of 1:11, and Watson scored a TD for the third straight game.

"Chris Keldorf continues to amaze me," UNC coach Mack Brown said. "The throw he makes to Chris Watson is his fourth read for the touchdown in the corner on the flag route."

State caught a break at the start of the second half when UNC's Keith Newman fumbled the opening kickoff, and the Pack recovered at the Tar Heel 24. Barnette needed just one play to find Mark Thomas for a 24-yard touchdown, closing the score to 33-20.

Once more UNC tried to one-up the Wolfpack. Keldorf and Johnson keyed a 67-yard drive over the next 5:30 that ended with a pass from Keldorf to a sliding Octavus Barnes in the end zone. The QB eluded several would-be tacklers in the backfield before heaving the ball downfield, and the 26-yard TD put UNC up 39-20.

The score seemed to break State, and the Tar Heels held the Wolfpack to virtually nothing for the rest of the game. Stephens, no longer able to find the holes that seemed so huge at the game's start, managed only six second-half rushing yards. Forced to go to the air, Barnette struggled to escape UNC's pass rush and could not connect with his receivers.

"I'm not so sure we protected (Barnette) at all in the second half," State coach Mike O' Cain said. "He was running for his life. We had him in too many second-and-long, third-and-long situations."

But there was one offensive statement still to be made. State pinned UNC at its own 1-yard line late in the third, but even poor field position couldn't stop the Tar Heel onslaught. Power backs Maurice McGregor and Jonathan Linton barreled UNC out of danger, and Keldorf began airing it out. Six minutes later Johnson capped the drive with a 2-yard run up the middle, and UNC led 45-20 following a failed two-point conversion.

"We were backed up and we took it all the way, the distance, and scored," Johnson said. "We ... let other teams know that we can move the ball even though we're backed down in a hole." UNC closed the scoring later in the fourth with a 63-yard pass from Keldorf to Barnes that made the score 52-20 and left State demoralized on both sides of the ball.

UNC 52, N.C. State 20

Score Box

Table with 5 columns: Team, Q1, Q2, Q3, Q4, Total. Rows for N.C. State and UNC.

Scoring Summary

First Quarter

UNC - Mays fumble recovery (kick failed), 14:47
UNC - L. Johnson 1 run (conversion incomplete), 6:52
UNC - L. Johnson 1 run (McGee kick), 1:19

Second Quarter

NCSU - Holt 12 pass from Barnette (Primanti kick), 10:48
UNC - L. Johnson 39 punt return (McGee kick), 7:23
NCSU - Barnette 3 run (Primanti kick), 6:29

Third Quarter

NCSU - Thomas 24 pass from Barnette (conversion incomplete), 14:52
UNC - Barnes 26 pass from Keldorf (conversion failed), 9:22

Fourth Quarter

UNC - L. Johnson 2 run (conversion incomplete), 12:55
UNC - Barnes 63 pass from Keldorf (McGee kick), 9:39

Attendance - 47,000

Table with 3 columns: Category, NCSU, UNC. Rows for First Downs, Rushing-yards, Passing-yards, etc.

Individual Statistics

Rushing: NCSU - Stephens 15-106, Brown 3-21, King 2-8, Spikes 2-7, Chevis 1(-1), Barnette 17(-66). UNC - L. Johnson 22-90, Linton 10-32, Watson 4-25, Geter 3-18, McGregor 2-8, Dyer 1-7, Keldorf 4-6.
Passing: NCSU - Barnette 12-32-0-165. UNC - Keldorf 16-22-0-315, Davenport 0-1-0.
Receiving: NCSU - Thomas 4-66, Grissett 3-39, Holt 2-19, King 2-5, Whitted 1-36. UNC - F. Jones 6-60, Barnes 3-109, L. Johnson 3-69, Watson 2-23, N. Brown 1-34, Stevens 1-20.

GODLOCK

FROM PAGE 16

"We were on a hill, and that's when I decided to make my move," Godlock said. "I'll never take over the race until I'm definite that I can."

Despite Godlock's track record in the event, Nesbit had her doubts that her runner could manage another such victory, especially against Nichols. But Godlock was up for the chase.

"Christy Nichols is legit," Nesbit said. "She's one of the best freshman State has ever had. Karen just kept a mental tether tied to Christy the whole race."

In the men's 8K, UNC's David Mabe paced the Tar Heel runners, finishing a team-high fourth with a time of 24:25.8.

Brandon Coonse and Bryan Calloway placed 15th and 16th, respectively, logging times within one second of each other.

"The men had their best effort of the season in that race," Nesbit said. "Last time we faced Wake Forest, Wake put six runners ahead of their one runner. This time, we split them up pretty good."

But the story of the meet was Godlock, who will next run in the District III Championships in two weeks.

"It's her gift," Nesbit said. "She's meant to run. She takes care of her talent, and she is a professional."

BARNETTE

FROM PAGE 16

off it," UNC defensive end Greg Ellis said. "And I said, 'We've got him now.' But that wasn't the case."

"He still came back and led his team to a lot of yards and a lot of touchdowns." But then something happened.

UNC's rush came faster, it came more forcefully, and State gave up on its running game. So Barnette, who had riddled the Tar Heel defense when he scrambled, was relegated to dropping back and firing away. And when he did get off a decent aerial, the Wolfpack receivers usually bobbed away the pass.

State had drawn so close, yet suddenly, it was miles away from overtaking UNC.

"He was running for his life," State coach Mike O' Cain said.

When the final gun sounded, Barnette had completed only one-third of his passes and thrown for only 60 yards in the second half.

But dropped balls and murderous blitzes aside, Barnette had done what other, big-name QBs hadn't - thoroughly confuse the UNC 'D.'

"He was very elusive," Ellis said. "He was a good athlete. I hate that I gotta play against him next year."

WOMEN'S SOCCER

FROM PAGE 16

"She gets more and more confident every game," Dorrance said. "She was confident trapping the ball and trying to take players on."

The Tar Heels grabbed the momentum early in the second stanza when Tiffany Roberts drilled in a no-look pass from Laurie Schwoy during the period's first minute. Keller added UNC's final tally when she nudged a pass from Sarah Dacey into the net.

Schwoy's adaptation to the midfield has been crucial to the higher level of play UNC has exhibited of late. She has continued to display other skills besides scoring that she couldn't showcase from the wing position.

"She defends like the best collection of midfielders I've ever coached," Dorrance said. "Also what we're seeing is a sophisticated level of playmaking out of her."

While the score indicated another Tar Heel rout, the North Carolina defense failed to dominate as it had since the 2-1 loss to Notre Dame. UNC gave up only one score - a late looper from Shannon Blair - but allowed several open chances on which the Wolfpack failed to capitalize.

The best opportunity came toward the end of the first half when speedy State forward Monica Hall tipped the ball past oncoming goalkeeper Gretchen Overgaard. Hall then cautiously directed a weak attempt at the goal, but defender Lorrie Fair intercepted the low-roller, nullifying the easy opportunity.

"There's no doubt we needed to score every time we had the chance," State coach Alvin Corneal said. "But I thought for moments in time we were doing the job we needed to do."

Hall led a late flurry of counterattacks by the Pack, but State couldn't find the nylon when chances arose.

By no means is it time for the Tar Heel 'D' to panic, but State's sporadic offensive successes did offer a wakeup call to the UNC backfield that hadn't allowed a goal in its last eight contests.

"We knew they could sneak one in, and that's exactly what happened," Tar Heel Neil Fetting said. "So it's a really good step on our toes, to make us realize that we can't let any team breathe for just one second."

Tar Heel sophomore CINDY PARLOW scored two goals against N.C. State.

one score - a late looper from Shannon Blair - but allowed several open chances on which the Wolfpack failed to capitalize. The best opportunity came toward the end of the first half when speedy State forward Monica Hall tipped the ball past oncoming goalkeeper Gretchen Overgaard. Hall then cautiously directed a weak attempt at the goal, but defender Lorrie Fair intercepted the low-roller, nullifying the easy opportunity. "There's no doubt we needed to score every time we had the chance," State coach Alvin Corneal said. "But I thought for moments in time we were doing the job we needed to do." Hall led a late flurry of counterattacks by the Pack, but State couldn't find the nylon when chances arose. By no means is it time for the Tar Heel 'D' to panic, but State's sporadic offensive successes did offer a wakeup call to the UNC backfield that hadn't allowed a goal in its last eight contests. "We knew they could sneak one in, and that's exactly what happened," Tar Heel Neil Fetting said. "So it's a really good step on our toes, to make us realize that we can't let any team breathe for just one second."

Ram Triple advertisement with showtimes and prices for movies like A Time to Kill, Phenomenon, and Independence Day.

Plaza Theatres advertisement listing movies like Thinner, The Associate, and High School High.

Pepper's Pizza advertisement with phone number 967-7766 and address in downtown Chapel Hill.

Gold's Gym advertisement for Ric Hair's Gold's Gym, featuring a muscular man image and phone number 933-6377.

Plaza Theatres advertisement listing movies like Dear God, Larger Than Life, Gillian, The Long Kiss Goodnight, and Fly Away Home.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT, THIS GUY IS IN CLASS.

Excitement and adventure is the course description, and Army ROTC is the name. It's the one college elective that builds your self-confidence, develops your leadership potential and helps you take on the challenge of command.

ARMY ROTC

THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE

For details, visit Room 111, Naval Armory or call 962-5546 or (800) 305-6687

Meineke Discount Mufflers and Brakes advertisement offering $20 off any service with a student ID.

Planned Parenthood advertisement titled 'AFFORDABLE' offering health care services.

The Daily Tar Heel

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

Grid of classified advertisements including: Wheels for Sale, Sublets, Rooms, Sublets, Travel/Vacations, Services, Word Processing, Music, Rooms, Rooms, Rooms, Roommates, Travel/Vacation, Travel/Vacations, Services, Tutoring, Term Paper Assistance, Lost & Found, Services, and BTH Classifieds.