DOING IT...

Amanda Watson volunteered at an occupational therapy rehab center her sophomore year. If her athletics career doesn't slow down, Watson may soon need some rehab herself.

This fall, the 5'4" senior was a member of two Intramural Flag Football championship teams in the Women's and Co-ed Rec. divisions. She also played IM roller hockey.

In recent years, the Seaford, Delaware native has participated in IM tennis tournaments and played IM indoor and outdoor soccer, women's volleyball and co-ed basketball. She also helped organize her Phi Sigma Pi Honor Fraternity's Samaritan 5K race, from which all profits were donated to local charities.

Watson also holds a seat on service committees for the Ronald McDonald House and Central Children's Home, and works at a group home that assists disabled residents.

A psychology major, Watson plans to attend occupational therapy graduate school.

She'd better.

ATTENTION NIKE FANS!

The mystery continues. . . but not for long. The new NIKE student rep for UNC will be named soon. Watch this space to find out who it is. And, while you're at it, you can also find out about great NIKE events for the coming month. Got some news for NIKE HQ? Reach them at: sports.page@nike.com.

Calling all Women Runners: come out November 7 to the Pit for the first of many women's night runs. NIKE, in conjunction with P.O.W.E.R., the Campus Y's women's empowerment group, is helping to promote safety by providing night runs en masse. You might get some NIKE goodies. . . Snag a flying NIKE water bottle when our ladies score an ace at the women's volleyball game vs. Duke on November 5.

Tiger's Time

When 20-year-old Tiger Woods turned pro in late August, he had in mind a modest goal: to earn enough money in the remaining two months of the season to automatically qualify for the PGA tour again next spring. Anything beyond that would be gravy. Well, pass the gravy.

The first weekend in October, Woods won the Las Vegas Invitational. The win clinched an automatic spot on the tour for the next two years and a check for $297,000. Two weeks later, Woods won the Walt Disney World/Oldsmobile Classic and $216,000.

Woods has a chance to load up on even more gravy Thanksgiving weekend, and not just at the dinner table. The Skins Game is an annual made-for-television (ABC, specifically) event pitting four marquee golfers against each other in an unorthodox format that rewards clutch play. Tiger'll be the one pumping his fist.

Flag football players: Think you're ready to take your game to the national level? The NIKE College Flag Football regional tournament will be held November 8-10 at the University of North Carolina at Wilmington. Winners receive an expenses-paid trip to the National Championship in New Orleans the week of the Nokia Sugar Bowl in late December. Contact Tim McNeilly at (910) 395-3261 for more information. The 1996 NIKE College Flag Football Regional Championships are brought to you by Butterfinger.

In creating this SportsPage, NIKE has made every effort to accurately present the time and location for upcoming athletic events on campus. We regret any schedule changes or mistakes. If your club or intramural sport wasn't covered, let your NIKE student rep know and we'll try again next month.
