Laughter filled the North Carolina women's tennis team's locker room after its last home match against Wake Forest This seemed like a somewhat odd response, considering the No. 2 Demon Deacons pounded the Tar Heels 8-1. The defeat was the third conference loss in a row for UNC – not a funny Women's Tennis

Wake Forest ...8 joke But the Tar UNC .....I Heels (9-11, 2-5 in the ACC) could go easy on themselves because their loss had nothing to do with poor effort.

"Our preparation for this match was the best we've had all year," UNC sophomore Caroline Hill said. "We on't be satisfied with a loss, but instead of getting down, we'll use it to fire us up." Freshman Kendrick Bunn, playing at

No. 4, was the lone Tar Heel to win in singles for the third match in a row. Bunn extended her winning streak in singles to five matches, defeating Maren Haus 4-6, 6-3, 6-0.

"It's not as enjoyable being the only one to win if the team doesn't win as well," Bunn said. "I'd rather me lose and the team win."

Senior Jessica Zaganczyk lost her final match in the Tar Heels' domain. She fell in straight sets to Bea Bielik, who is ranked No. 19 in the country.

"I've been in a slump, and she had a big serve," Zaganczyk said. "She was a beast.

Freshman Marlene Mejia was back playing at No. 1 after being out for three matches with tendinitis in her knee. Adria Engel, ranked fifth in the nation, dominated Mejia and swept the sets 6-2, 6-0. "It was hard to come out against No. 5 without recent match play," Mejia said. "But you have to suck it up.

Despite the fact that the match was decided at the end of singles with the score 5-1, the teams still played doubles. The Demon Deacons (17-1, 7-0) continued on their tirade and swept doubles.

"Their top seeds were the best we've seen," UNC coach Roland Thornqvist said. "We couldn't have done more
