UNC Swim Teams Hand Out Postseason Awards

Ten members of the North Carolina men's and women's swimming and diving teams were recognized Tuesday night with awards UNC at the program's annual banquet.

Two sophomores - Katie Hathaway for the women and Chris Helin for the men - were named as the winners of the teams' Most Hathaway captured two ACC individual championships and was a firstteam All-American in two events at the NCAA Championships. Helin was a finalist in three events at ACCs.

The Most Outstanding Swimmer
Awards went to a pair of freshmen – Christy Watkins for the women's team and Sean Quinn for the men's squad. Watkins won a pair of ACC individ-ual championships for the Tar Heels this breaking the 17-year-old ACC record in the 100yard backstroke.

Quinn, who was named the the year, won the 200-yard breaststroke at the ACC Championships in record time. He later earned first-team All-America honors in that event at the NCAA Championships.

The Most Improved Swimmer awards were nabbed by freshman Janna Turner for the women and sophomore Andrew Biedrzycki for the men

The Hill Carrow Spirit awards went to senior Jennifer Strasburger, a four-time All-America selection for the women's team, and junior Jonah Turner for the men's squad.

Men's Soccer Wraps Up Spring Season

The North Carolina men's soccer team completed its spring season on April 19 with a 2-0 loss to the Raleigh Capital Express of the professional A-League at the WRAL Soccer Center. The Tar Heels finished the spring with a combined 3-1-3 record.

Midfielder Carson White put the Express ahead in the 62nd minute with a one-touch goal on an assist from Randy Merkel.

Express goalkeeper Chris Lewis stopped a direct kick from UNC's Daniel Jackson to thwart the Tar Heels' best scoring opportunity of the night.

Keith Ratberg finished the scoring for the Express with an unassisted goal in the game's final minute.
