

Relaxation Helps Tar Heels Earn Sweep

By MATT TERRY
Staff Writer

DURHAM - After starting the weekend 8-10 in the ACC, including a dismal 1-8 on the road, North Carolina changed its approach for its weekend series at Duke's Coombs Field.

"Coach Fox had a talk with us at practice on Wednesday, and he told us, 'We're going to go over there, and we're going to play relaxed,'" right fielder Matt McCay said.

Between games of Saturday's doubleheader, Duke chose to huddle in its third-base dugout while most of the Tar Heels were out and about on the first base side, choosing not to act their age.

Fox's young children, daughter Morgan and son Matthew, made up a formidable battery against McCay. One of Morgan's heaters caught McCay in the shoulder, and McCay "charged" the mound.

Morgan went in the other direction, giggling.

A circle of Tar Heels that included lefty Ryan Snare - a 16-1 winner Thursday - and infielder Chris Maples, played a baseball version of "two-ball." One player tossed two balls into the air, both of which were to be caught by the next player in line.

And at least 10 Tar Heels were playing long-toss in the outfield grass. Laughter and a few balls tossed behind the back or under a leg were par for the course.

While there's probably no scientific evidence to support the claim that goofing off makes for better baseball, UNC was at least at ease against Duke.

"It seems like every time when we go on the road in the conference, we tighten up," McCay said. "We were really looking forward to getting out here and playing well, and I think the first game (Thursday) really got us loose. And then we continued."

After pounding out 16 runs and 19 hits Thursday, the Tar Heels were tied 3-3 with Duke in Saturday's first game.

The Blue Devils had runners at second and third with one out in the ninth, but Derrick DePriest indicated a shallow fly ball from designated hitter Matt Lynch. He then struck out right fielder David Mason.

With two outs in the Tar Heels' half of the 10th, UNC got a game-winning single from left fielder Tyrell Godwin and another RBI single from pinch-hitter Ryan Mathews.

The newly relaxed Tar Heels used several two-out hits, like Godwin's, to sweep the series by a combined score of 31-10. In doing so, UNC climbed to 39-11, 11-10 in the ACC to surpass the .500 mark in the conference for the first time all season.

"We have kind of felt that we have put too much pressure on ourselves," Fox said. "After you lose a few, it begins to creep into your mindset. So we did think a little about, 'Hey, let's just loosen up and just try to play and enjoy ourselves a little bit.' It's got to start with me."

And his kids.

"My little girl can loosen up anybody," Fox said with a chuckle. "She doesn't care, win or lose."

North Carolina right fielder Matt McCay (center) helped the Tar Heels stay relaxed in between their two victories Saturday against Duke.
