from behind the arc.
"That zone, we were trying to get the ball inside, but once he blocked a couple shots in there it forced us to try different things," Peterson said. "I know we jacked up a lot there late. But we took more than I wanted to early. We hit a couple, and it's like fool's gold - we think we can keep making it."

UNC (2-0) got hot while Tulsa went cold. The Tar Heels shot 52 percent from the field in the second half and led by as many as 18. The offense looked much better than it did against Winthrop (0-2).

"We didn't run as many set plays," Doherty said. "I think that helped us get into a better rhythm. I thought that (Friday) night we didn't get into a rhythm."

The Tar Heels shot 39 percent Friday. The Eagles not only shot a higher percentage than UNC, but they also pulled down more rebounds.

UNC's shooting woes began early as the Tar Heels missed six of their first seven shots and fell behind 12-4.

Then Doherty was whistled for a technical foul just six minutes into his first game as UNC coach. He said that it was a misunderstanding. He was stomping on the floor to get Brian Morrison's attention, and the referee thought Doherty's actions were directed at him.

Regardless, the technical motivated the Tar Heels, who ran off nine straight points after a Winthrop free throw to pull into a tie.

"It was a very timely technical, let's just say that," Winthrop coach Gregg Marshall said. "It changed the complexion of the basketball game."

NABC Classic Notes

Haywood and Forte made the all-tournament team. They were joined by forward Shawn Redhage of Arizona State, Winthrop guard Pierre Wooten and Tulsa forward Marcus Hill, who scored 23 points against UNC.

UNC forward Kris Lang didn't start against Tulsa because he showed up a few minutes late to the team's pregame meal.

Michael Brooker got the start in Lang's place, a bit of a surprise considering he played in 18 of UNC's 34 games last year. Doherty said Brooker moved to the first team in practice last week after Max Owens was injured.

Doherty said he was pleased with Brooker's defense and hard play along with his shooting abilities. "As long as he keeps making the simple pass, he'll keep getting playing time."

Flanagan, Tar Heels Run to NCAAs

From Staff Reports

FURMAN, S.C. - In what looked like a repeat of the ACC Championships, freshman Shalane Flanagan led North Carolina to a second-place finish in cross country at the NCAA Southeast regional on Saturday morning.

N.C. State, the 2000 ACC champion, finished first with 72 points. North Carolina tallied 83 points. The Tar Heels' second-place finish guarantees them a trip to the NCAA Championships at Iowa State on Nov. 20.

Flanagan crossed the line first in 20 minutes, 51 seconds to finish 20 seconds ahead of Duke sophomore Sheila Agrawal, who placed second.

UNC senior Kim Timberlake crossed the line fifth in 21:41, and Victoria Jackson and Beth George finished 20th and 24th, respectively.

On the men's side, the Tar Heels placed 11th with 349 points. William & Mary took the title with 49 points, followed by N.C. State with 59 points.

Duke's Terry Brennan crossed the line first overall in 30:37. UNC's Matt Weiss finished 32nd overall and first for the Tar Heels with a time of 31:54. Nick Iauco was 48th, Roger Donaghy finished 52nd, Kris Kurjiako placed 80th and Matt Sciandra was 157th.

Volleyball Falls to Tech, Loses Top Seed

ATLANTA - The North Carolina volleyball team dropped the final two games and lost to Georgia Tech 3-2 (15-11, 13-15, 15-17, 15-11, 15-13) on Saturday night.

UNC is 23-7 overall and 13-3 in the ACC. Georgia Tech, which is also 13-3 in the conference, captured the top seed in the ACC tournament.

By virtue of a tie-breaker with the Tar Heels, Tech will enter the tournament as the No. 1 seed. The two teams split their matches this season, with each team winning in five games, so the next tie-breaker is games won and lost within the ACC.

UNC had 44 wins and 26 losses, and Georgia Tech recorded 44 wins and 17 losses during the conference season.

The ACC tournament begins Thursday and runs through Sunday.

Freshman Nicole Reis led the Tar Heels with 30 kills, 21 digs and five block assists. Teammate Casey Simpson had 28 kills and 19 digs, and Krista Buchholz notched 24 kills and 11 block assists.

Rowing Competes in Rivanna Romp

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. - The North Carolina rowing team competed at the Rivanna Romp on Sunday.

In their final regatta of the fall season, the Tar Heels got their best result of the day in the pairs race. Duke won with a time of 17:20.01, and UNC finished second in 17:20.01.

In the women's varsity-eight race, UNC finished ninth in a time of 14:35.7. Virginia won in 13:45.7. In the varsity four, UNC finished 14th and 17th, while Virginia won in a time of 15:08.2.

But her UMass counterpart, Zowie Tucker, would have her hands full with the Tar Heel offense. UNC had 26 shots and 14 penalty corners on the day.

"I think we did what we needed to do in the first 10 minutes," Shea said. "Then, when we got the goal in, we went away from what we needed to be doing."

After those 10 minutes were up, it became UNC's game. The Tar Heels controlled the game, allowing UMass only two other chances to get near the goal and preventing the Minutewomen from getting any shots off.

"The fact that (UMass) scored so early in the game can have a calming effect because there's so much more time to play," UNC coach Karen Shelton said.

UNC didn't let UMass hold the lead for long, tying the game six minutes later. UNC back Jana Toepel passed the ball to Carrie Lingo, who was waiting at the top of the circle. Lingo drove in a few feet and shot straight into the net.

"It's been a point of contention for us that we haven't been scoring as many goals as we think we are capable of doing," Shelton said. "I'm pleased when we're able to generate so much offense against a talented UMass team."

Lingo finished the game with two goals, as did sweeper Abby Martin. Martin had a big weekend for UNC, scoring four goals and tallying two assists.

UNC held UMass in check for 60 of the 70 minutes but had a bit of trouble finishing off Kent State on Saturday.

Forward Els Brouwer had a hand in each of the Golden Flashes' three goals. She scored with eight minutes left in the game and assisted Arlette van Cleeff's goal with 5:52 remaining.

Awaiting UNC in the final four will be a Maryland team with revenge on its mind. UNC topped the Terps 1-0 in overtime in College Park on Oct. 22.

"Our execution was amazing (Sunday) - our execution all weekend, and we hope to carry it into the final four and bring home a ring," Martin said. "I know I want one. Bad."
