

Campus Calendar

Today

noon - The Sonja H. Stone Black Cultural Center will sponsor, "Around the Circle: Black Women and Self Love."

What do you see when you look in the mirror? Do you appreciate and love yourself for the beautiful black woman that you are?

Join us to explore ways in which black women express love for themselves or the challenges.

7 p.m. - Join the Association of English Majors for free pizza and Trevor Nunn's "Twelfth Night." Stay after for a discussion led by Dr. Richie Kendall of the English department in 222 Greenlaw Hall.

7:30 p.m. - The Orange County Peace Coalition, the curriculum in peace, war and defense and Back From the Brink will sponsor a talk by Ira Shorr, national director of Back From the Brink, in the School of Social Work Auditorium.

His talk is titled "The Real Missile

Threat: Thousands of Nuclear Weapons on Hair-Trigger Alert.

Ira Shorr has more than 20 years of experience working on nuclear weapons and has been a national leader on issues of limiting them and disarmament.

The Daily Tar Heel

Wednesday, April 11, 2001

Volume 109, Issue 29
P.O. Box 3257, Chapel Hill, NC 27515
Matt Dees, Editor, 962-4086
Advertising & Business, 962-1163
News, Features, Sports, 962-0245

For more information on the following stories, go to www.dailytarheel.com.

Governing Bodies to Hold Meeting Today to Discuss Local Growth
By Katie McNeill

Also check out Tuesday's police roundup.

Town-Gown Spat Focus of Bill

By SALLY FRANCIS
Staff Writer

As the town of Chapel Hill and UNC continue to battle over the Master Plan, a member of the N.C. General Assembly has made plans for the legislature to assume responsibility if a conclusion is not made soon.

Sen. Walter Dalton, D-Rutherfordton, recently proposed "An Act to Resolve Any Controversy Between the Town of Chapel Hill and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill" to the Senate floor that could entitle the state legislature to make decisions regarding the University's rights for expansion.

The bill is a security measure in case a conclusion is not made between the school and the town. It is a blank bill that was created to meet the bill-filing deadline and will be filled in later with content if the state needs to get involved. "Some type of bill needed to be filed in the event the legislature needs to be involved," Dalton said. "We don't know how this will progress."

He said the current controversy is similar to a parent whose two children are in an argument. "You hope they can reach an agreement on their own, but if they can't, then you step in," Dalton said.

Last month the UNC Board of Trustees unanimously approved a plan to add 5 million square feet of building space to the campus, increasing the total to 18.6 million square feet.

But the town of Chapel Hill has a development regulation cap at 14 million square feet, making it impossible for the University to carry out all its expansion proposals until the cap is removed.

Both Dalton and local officials are confident the University and the town will be able to resolve the conflict and that the state will not need to intervene.

Rep. Verla Insko, D-Orange, said the University and town have a strong, more than 200 year history and that she is positive they will be able to work together to resolve the conflict.

"We have able people in Chancellor (James) Moeser and Mayor (Rosemary) Waldorf working on the issue," Insko said. "Both have collaboration as a top priority."

On Monday night, the Chapel Hill Town Council met and drafted a response to Moeser's request asking for the University to be exempt from the town's zoning regulations.

The council unanimously approved a statement that allows the University to complete all the bond and housing projects in the time allotted if the school meets community responsibilities.

The town wants the school to assume a larger fiscal responsibility by paying for the cost of its growth, Waldorf said.

"The University exists to serve the state," she said. "It doesn't seem fair that the University not pay the costs that it brings to the local community."

The University will respond to the town's proposal modifications in a meeting April 18, but if both cannot reach an agreement in the near future, the state legislature might possibly become involved under rights given to it by Dalton's act.

The State & National Editor can be reached at stntdesk@unc.edu.

Spring Job Fair

Seniors & Graduate Students

Graduating this Spring or Summer

TODAY!

11:00 a.m. - 3:30 p.m.
GREAT HALL
STUDENT UNION

Preview participating company descriptions on our website at <http://careers.unc.edu>

Sponsored by UNIVERSITY CAREER SERVICES Division of Student Affairs • UNC-Chapel Hill

TODAY @ Carolina

Baseball vs. Charlotte
Boshamer Stadium 7 pm

Women's Lacrosse vs. James Madison
Fetzer Field 5 pm

Hardee's SPORTS SHORTS
Students & Faculty Admitted FREE w/ID!

BUB O'MALLEY'S

157 E. ROSEMARY ST. (UPSTAIRS) 942-6903

MONDAY $1.⁵⁰ Domestic Longnecks
TUESDAY $2 Pints, 80's Night - Live DJ
WEDNESDAY $2 Micro & Import Bottles
THURSDAY $3.⁵⁰ Pitchers Karaoke Night
FRIDAY $2.⁵⁰ 22oz. Bottles
SATURDAY $2.⁵⁰ 22oz. Bottles
SUNDAY Ping Pong Tournament and Brewery Night

30 Taps! 100 Different Bottled Beers!
JOIN BUB'S BEER CLUB!

Parking 2001

The Department of Public Safety is offering parking pre-registration for all eligible students for the 2001/2002 academic year now through May 24th, 2001. Visit the Department of Public Safety's website to pre-register and find out more information about student parking for next Fall:

www.dps.unc.edu

The pre-registration process is a lottery; all those who pre-register between April 2nd and May 24th, 2001 have an equal chance of receiving a permit. So, pre-register online, and put yourself in the driver's seat when it comes to parking next year.

For more info, call the Department of Public Safety:

at (919) 962-3951

The UNC-CH Department of Public Safety

do you agree with marty?

Hear Marty talk.

Today. 5 p.m. South Building.

FREE CHIK-FIL-A.