

Volleyball Sweeps Davidson

Outside hitter Laura Greene tallied 12 kills and 10 digs against the Wildcats, her third double-double this year.

Staff Report

DAVIDSON - The North Carolina volleyball team defeated Davidson 3-0 Tuesday night at Belk Arena in Davidson. The Tar Heels won the first two games by narrow two-point margins, 30-28 in the first and 35-33 in the second, before taking the final game by a 30-16 count.

NCAA volleyball has changed its scoring this year. Instead of playing to 15 points, squads will play a 30-point rally game. This way, each play will end with one team being rewarded with a point. In other words, a team does not have to serve to receive a point.

Junior outside hitter Laura Greene tallied her third double-double of the season Tuesday, totaling 12 kills to go along with 10 digs. Nicole Reis was one dig away from her third double-double of the year, finishing with 15 kills and nine digs. Malaika Underwood filling in for injured setter Eve Rackham. Underwood totaled 38 sets and also had three kills and six digs.

With the win, the Tar Heels move to 3-0 for the season, while Davidson evens its record at 2-2. UNC is back in action this weekend at the Santa Clara Invitational in Santa Clara, Calif.

UNC will face UC-Santa Barbara at 10 a.m. PST and Creighton at 5 p.m. PST on Saturday, and Santa Clara on Sept. 9 at 1:30 p.m. PST.

Kluegel, Reddick to Train With U.S. Team

If women soccer players Catherine Reddick and Jena Kluegel make the U.S. team, they will miss five games.

From Staff Reports

North Carolina women's soccer players Jena Kluegel and Catherine Reddick left Tuesday to train with the U.S. national team and could be lost to the Tar Heels for up to 12 days.

Both UNC starters will be in a training camp with the national team until this coming Sunday. At that time the U.S. squad will be cut and will compete next week in Nike Cup games in Chicago, Kansas City and Columbus.

If Reddick and Kluegel do not make the team they will return for UNC's game against Clemson on Sept. 12. If the two players are chosen by national team coach April Heinrichs for the upcoming tournament they will miss the Tar Heels' next five games.

These personnel losses could not come at a worse time for the Tar Heels, who will play five games in 10 days from Sept. 7-16.

In other women's soccer news, North Carolina remains atop the NSCAA/Adidas Women's Division I poll following an opening weekend which saw it escape with a 1-0 victory at No. 17 Texas.

UCLA, Notre Dame and Nebraska also got off to undefeated starts and fill the next three positions, respectively. Portland rounds out the top five, by virtue of a 1-0 loss.

Senior midfielder Jena Kluegel played for the national team this summer and is trying out again.

Martin Named Player of the Week

North Carolina senior midfielder Abby Martin has earned ACC Player of the Week honors in field hockey after notching four goals and three assists for the Tar Heels in two victories last weekend. Saturday, Martin scored two goals and added one assist to help North Carolina to a 3-1 victory against No. 9 Penn State. On Sunday, Martin had two goals and two assists in a 13-0 win versus Virginia Commonwealth.

Martin, who is from Saratoga Springs, N.Y., leads the team in goals for the season with five. She also is the team's points leader with 13.

The top-ranked Tar Heels are now 3-0 and will travel to Philadelphia this weekend for the Temple Invitational on Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

Men's Soccer Reaches 4th in Poll

The North Carolina men's soccer team moved up a spot to No. 4 in the latest NSCAA/Adidas national poll, the National Soccer Coaches Association of America announced Tuesday. The Tar Heels, who have opened the 2001 campaign with back-to-back wins, were ranked No. 5 last week.

UNC is the highest-ranked ACC team in the NSCAA/Adidas poll for the second week in a row. The Tar Heels also are ranked No. 1 in the South Region rankings, a key factor in NCAA Tournament seedings and selections.

The Tar Heels opened their 2001 season with a 8-1 victory against East Carolina last Friday and followed up that win with a 3-0 shutout of Appalachian on Monday evening.

Swimming Schedule Announced

The North Carolina swimming and diving teams will face challenging schedules again during the 2001-02 season.

UNC coach Frank Comfort's team will open the season at home against Georgia on Oct. 17. This year's home schedule includes dual meets against Georgia, Clemson, Virginia and N.C. State.

"We look forward to competing against some very good teams this year," Comfort said. "It is always a challenge to open up with Georgia, and the Bulldogs' women's team has been the dominant team in the nation the past few years. But we look forward to those kinds of challenges."

Finley Golf Course Lauded

North Carolina's Finley Golf Course, was recently named one of the state of North Carolina's top 25 golf courses by Pub Links Golf Magazine. Finley was ranked ninth in the annual golf course ratings for the Tar Heel state for 2001.

Finley Golf Course has received several other accolades recently. It was voted Best Public Golf Course by triangle.citysearch.com using Internet voting. Finley Golf Course was also ranked 12th by members of the North Carolina Magazine Golf Panel.
