Women's Tennis Sweeps in Arizona

TEMPE, Ariz. - The No. 12 UNC women's tennis team capped a three-match road swing Friday with a 6-1 vic-tory against Purdue. The Tar Heels returned with a 3-0 record during the road trip, including a 4-3 victory over ninth-ranked host Arizona State on Wednesday.

Kate Pinchbeck and Julie Rotondi led the way for the Tar Heels (12-3) with easy victories. Pinchbeck defeated Gretchen Haynor, 6-0, 6-2 to score the point at No. 2, while Rotondi swept Melissa Woods, 6-0, 6-1 at No. 3. Pinchbeck's victory improves her record to 15-0 on the season

Other Tar Heel winners were Marlene Mejia at No. 1, Caroline Hill at No. 5 and Kendall Cline at No. 6. Carolina also scored the doubles point

Women's Indoor Track Takes 5th at NCAAs

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. - UNC's women's indoor track team totaled 25 points to finish in a fifth-place tie with Rice and Stanford at the 2002 NCAA Championships held last weekend.

The Tar Heel men totaled 13 points to tie Northern Iowa for 12th place. LSU won the women's title with 57 points, while Tennessee tallied 62.5 points to win the men's. The finish for the women was the highest ever for UNC, and the men's finish was the third-highest. Senior Sal Gigante had a career-best throw of 71 feet, 8 inches in the weight throw to take fourth for the men. Friday, UNC's distance medley relay team of Erin Donohue, Anissa Gainey, Alice Schmidt and Shalane Flanagan set a new American record with a time of 10 minutes, 59.76 seconds.

The team finished second to UCLA, which ran 10:58.19 but is credited with the American record since all four team nbers are from the United States. members are from the United State UCLA had a Swedish team member.

Kenny Wins 4th Title At Wrestling ACCs

RALEIGH - The UNC wrestling team totaled 72.5 points to finish second to N.C. State's 83 points on March 8 at the 2002 ACC wrestling championships held at Reynolds Coliseum in Raleigh.

UNC's Matt Kenny was the Tar Heels' lone champion, but four Tar Heels placed second and four added

third-place finishes.

Kenny captured his fourth-consecutive title in the heavyweight division and joins Justin Harty as the only Tar Heels to win four ACC heavyweight titles.

After the championship round, NCAA Tournament qualifiers were announced, and five Tar Heels earned berths. Kenny, Chris Rodrigues, Evan Sola, Brad Byers and Mark Canty will represent UNC at nationals on March 21-23 in Albany, N.Y.

Women's Golf Takes 8th Place in S.C.

BLYTHEWOOD, S.C. - The North Carolina women's golf team shot an 895 over the weekend to take eighth place at the Lady Gamecock Classic.

Ashley Prange shot 73 all three days to take fourth place individually with a score of 219.

North Carolina's score was 21 strokes back of No. 3 Duke, which posted a tournament-record 10-over-par 874 to capture its sixth title in seven years

Softball Goes 4-6 During Trip to Florida

The North Carolina softball team returned to school after going 4-6 in its week-long trip to Florida.

The Tar Heels (12-13) lost four of their first five games, before winning three of their final five.

Among UNC's triumphs was Coach

Donna Papa's 600th career win, a 9-1 victory against Rhode Island on

Gymnastics Wins Regular-Season Finale

HARRISONBURG, Va. - The No. 21 North Carolina gymnastics team won its last regular season meet Friday against James Madison University 193.750-191.025 after losing at No. 9

Minnesota on March 9. Sophomore Anna Wilson won the all-around with a score of 38.825. Wilson claimed first place on floor with a score of 9.925 and second place on bars with a 9.750. Against the Golden Gophers, UNC 195.725-194.275. Monica Middleton captured second place in the all-around with a 38.925.

Teasley's Pass-First Mentality Leads UNC in Win

By RACHEL CARTER

The last time the Harvard women's basketball team faced North Carolina, there was an unusually tall girl running UNC's point – Marion Jones.
This time, there was another unusually tall girl running the point, and Nikki Teasley didn't make things any easier on the Crimson than did Jones.

"Marion Jones spoiled me," said UNC coach Sylvia Hatchell. "When I had Marion, you know, you could see over other people and they can't press them and all that."

The 6-foot Teasley was at least two inches taller than all of Harvard's guards, and she towered over 5-foot-6 Crimson point guard Jennifer Monti. And Teasley had no problem taking that edge and running with it. She finished with 11 assists to compensate for a 2-of-9 performance from the floor. Teasley's assists gave her 710 for her career. Teasley, who owns UNC's assist record, now is 20 away from the ACC record for dimes. The record is held by former Virginia guard Dawn Staley.

"As a point guard, my obligation is to dish the basketball," Teasley said. "As dish the basketball," Teasley said. "As I'm looking at the stat sheet, I'm glad I did, looking at my shooting percentage." Teasley hit wide-open Jennifer Thomas under the basket from the top of the key with a no-look pass with 15:43 left in the game, making the score 55-34. The basket marked the fifth and sixth points of the nine Thomas scored in the 4 minutes, 53 seconds before the first official timeout of the half. All of Thomas' three baskets came off of

"Nikki's always looking to pass more than she's looking to score," Hatchell said. "She had 11 assists and she did a nice job getting the ball to Candace (Sutton), Jennifer and Coretta (Brown)."

One of Teasley's more highlight-wor thy assists went to backcourt mate Brown, who got the play started by tipping a pass at halfcourt. Teasley got her hand up and slapped the ball to the ground, and Brown hit it back toward the basket. Teasley streaked to the hoop with Monti hot on her heels.

As she passed the hoop, Teasley flicked the ball over her shoulder to Brown, who scooped it up for an easy lay-in.

Golden Season Continues

Fifth-seeded Minnesota kept its remarkable season alive by thumping UNLV 74-54 in the first game Saturday. The No. 18 Golden Gophers, armed with first-year coach, Brenda Oldfield, finished 21-7 overall and third in the Big Ten in the regular season.

All-American candidate Lindsay Whalen gave Minnesota 29 points, including 9 of 10 from the free-throw line.

"We talked before the game about being a contender or a pretender," Oldfield said. "Contenders are ready to play and aren't going to be nervous and pretenders use it as an excuse not to be ready to play. We talked about stepping out and setting the tempo from the minute we started, and it was exciting to see."

With their advancement to the second round guaranteed by a 25-plus lead in the closing minutes of the game, the Tar Heels' happiest moment didn't come when the buzzer sounded.
Instead, the bench erupted when mior Elizabeth Coughran hit a turnout jumper with 1:59 to go.

Coughran served as one of the team's managers last year and made it onto the team as a walk-on this year. She's often the last person off the bench during a blowout and hadn't scored a point until Saturday.

THE LOWDOWN

Game: Minnesota at North Carolina
Time/Location: Monday, 6:36 p.m. at Carmichael Auditorium
Radio/Television: The game will be aired on WCHL-1360 AM and ESPN2.
Keys for Minnesota: The Golden Gophers need to neutralize UNC's high-scoring guard tandem of Nikki Teasley and Coretta Brown. In its game against UNIV on Saturday, Minnesota shut down Rebel star Linda Frohlich with a diamond-and-one zone. Expect the Gophers to try to stop the Tar Heels' potent combo with some sort of triangles—and-two defense. On offense, Minnesota's game runs through guard Lindsay Whalen, who averages 21.9 points a game, but the Gophers have three other players who average double digits.
Keys for UNIC: Defensively, UNC needs to pressure the Golden Gophers with a variety of defensive stest and looks. In Minnesota's 71-54 win against UNILY, Whalen went off for 29 points on 10-of-16 shooting. The Tar Heels will start Coretta Brown on Whalen, but they also could put Nikita Bell, Nikki Teasley and Leah Metcalf on Whalen to vary the type of pressure she sees. Offensively, the Tar Heels need only to see the game tape from their Saturday win against Harvard to see how well their inside-outside attack can work. UNC needs to establish its inside game early and hope its outside shooters are on line.

from an old play called the Blind Pig. The Blue Devils looked puzzled, and the crowd seemed confused, booing at first but then cheering for the underdog Tar Heels. UNC led four times early and trailed by six at halftime, by three midway through the second half and by five with 4:35 to go.
"We did very well; we were patient," said Kris Lang, who was UNC's lone double-figure scorer with 14 in his last double-nigure scorer with 14 in his last collegiate game. He totaled 14 points in the previous Duke matchups, but the fruit-fly offense freed him up more often. "When the crowd was booing, we pulled it out and we waited. We executed well."

The fans weren't the only ones frustrated with the style of play. The exas-perated Blue Devils had something to say on the court about the Tar Heels'

"They started talking to us," Jawad Williams said. "We just kept running around and making them chase us. It was funny to look at them and see how mad they were getting. They called us everything. Everything."

Duke's agitated players repeatedly smacked the floor to stay alert and intimidating in their defensive crouches while waiting out UNC's ball-holding.

On the next possession, the Blue Devils delayed themselves, and Williams hit an open 3. Then Chris Duhon nailed a deep bomb as the shot clock expired for an 11-point advantage at the 1:16 mark.

The Tar Heels went home, their season over with no NCAA tournament for the first time since 1974, and the Blue Devils moved into a final No. 1 ranking and on with their quest to repeat as national champions. But they moved on impressed.

"That was a heck of a basketball game," Krzyzewski said. "That is a tournament game. North Carolina was superb. Immense credit should be given to them for their preparation for this game. It was a well-conceived, well

BASEBALL

Friday, Scott Autrey retired 20 of the Maryland's first 21 batters before getting into trouble in the seventh. Maryland (13-5, 0-3) erased a 2-0 deficit, scoring three runs on four straight hits. But UNC tied the game in the seventh and a pinch-hit sacrifice fly by Chase Younts in the bottom of the eighth to put UNC up 4-3 proved to be the game-winner.
On Saturday, Ryan Blake had a career-high five hits and drove in three runs as UNC beat Maryland 8-2. Kevin Brower and Garry Bakker combined to allow just six hits, sending Maryland to its second consecutive loss.

Sunday's win came without Blake, who was held out of the lineup after colliding with Prosser chasing a fly ball on Saturday. UNC also was without the offense of Russ Adams, who was the only starter not to record a hit. Adams went 0-for-5, snapping an 11-game hitting streak. Still, 20 20 hits proved enough to give UNC its first 3-0 conference 3-0 conference start since 1998. Despite the trio of wins, Fox realizes there's much more to ACC success than taking three from the Terrapins.

Said Fox: "I'll go home, my wife will say, 'Oh good, you're 3-0,' and the first thing I'll think is, 'Yeah, I got 21 more to go.' Baseball's just a worrying kind of sport. I'll enjoy this one, though,
