

Do something for the environment!

Choose Duke

Where environmental science and policy come together

Earn a Master of Environmental Management (MEM) or Master of Forestry (MF) Degree. Or, take advantage of undergraduate and graduate courses at the Duke Marine Lab.

www.env.duke.edu • 919-613-8070

Please join us Nov. 1 for Prospective Student Visitation Day

Class of 2003 Celebrates Week With Spirit, Entertainment

By EMILY STEEL
Staff Writer

Just as Fall Break ends, the celebration begins for seniors at UNC.

Starting today, the senior class can escape its stresses by participating in the entertaining social and educational events of Senior Week that senior class officers and marshals have been planning for the past month.

"Senior Week is a time for seniors to forget about looking for jobs, applying to grad school and the poor economy and have fun," said Senior Class President Paymon Rouhanifard.

Although past Senior Weeks primarily consisted of informational events held in the early afternoon, this year's senior class wanted to create an entire week of celebration, said Jon Narveson, chairman of the senior class Special Projects Committee.

"We said, 'Why not make it more than events between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. and make it a whole week of spirit?'" he said.

Evolving from the framework of a high school spirit week, each day this week incorporates a different activity, theme and message. "This is definitely one of the most ambitious Senior Weeks that a senior class has ever decided to take on," Narveson said.

Seniors can show their spirit by wearing a senior T-shirt today, dressing retro Tuesday, sporting pajamas Wednesday and putting on a crazy hat Thursday.

"This will be a great time for seniors of all walks of life at Carolina to come together," said Rob Albright, senior class vice president.

Seniors can celebrate from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Polk Place during a concert and at 7:30 p.m. Friday at an outdoor showing of the film "Reality Bites." "It might be a little cold," Albright said, "but it will be a great time for the movie."

Seniors also can take advantage of discounts at Carolina Brewery, East End Oyster & Martini Bar, Linda's Bar & Grill, Ham's of Chapel Hill, Spanky's Restaurant and Top of the Hill by going out to lunch Thursday.

"We want seniors to celebrate being seniors and enjoy the different activities around campus that you wouldn't normally be doing during a normal week," Narveson said.

Senior week not only will be filled with recreation but also information. The class of 2003 can learn about upcoming senior activities and the three class gift options throughout the week. "We are working to get seniors to vote on the class gift on October 30," Albright said.

Through dressing up, going out and having fun, seniors can enjoy their last year at UNC. Narveson said, "Seniors should celebrate being a senior in one of the greatest universities in the country."

The University Editor can be reached at udesk@unc.edu.

Senior Week

Monday
Senior T-Shirt Day in the Pit will start off the week. Seniors will be able to buy shirts in the Pit, eat popcorn and get information about further Senior Week activities.

Tuesday
Dress retro. The Development Office will be in the Pit discussing the senior class gift ideas and Commencement. Bar night will be at Pantana Bob's — there will be $3 cover charge with proceeds going to the class gift.

Wednesday
It's Pajama Day. There will be cotton candy and University Career Services representatives in the Pit. From 5:30 p.m. until 7:30 p.m., there will be a free concert in Polk Place with three local bands.

Thursday
It's Crazy Hat Day. Seniors also can take advantage of discounts at certain Franklin Street restaurants, including Carolina Brewery, East End Oyster & Martini Bar, Linda's, Ham's, Spanky's and Top of the Hill.

Friday
There will be a 7:30 p.m. "Screen on the Green" showing of "Reality Bites."

Saturday
Seniors will watch the football game together at a yet-to-be announced location. DTH/STAFF

SOURCE: SENIOR CLASS SECRETARY, CHRISTINE BENEDETTI

Bond Tagged for 3rd High School

By MICHAEL DAVIS
Assistant City Editor

The Chapel Hill-Carrboro City Schools Board of Education agreed Thursday to shift 2001 bond funding to the construction of a third high school.

Faced with a burgeoning high school population, the district elected to move funds previously allocated for a 10th elementary school toward a new high school.

The resolution now moves to the Orange County Board of Commissioners for approval. The school board is considering several sites for the new high school, which is slated to open for the 2005-06 academic year. Plans call for the school to accommodate 1,000 students while allowing for expansion to 1,500 students.

Among the possible locations for the high school are several sites off of Smith Level Road in the southern part of the district and a site near N.C. 86 and Eubanks Road, north of Chapel Hill.

Board member Nick Didow said district employees are preparing reports on the sites to be presented to the board in the near future.

Didow said because some areas in the southern portion of the county do not have water and sewer access, the urban services boundary line might have to be shifted to accommodate the new school.

One resolution passed Thursday states that if the board chooses one of the potential sites to the east of Smith Level Road, it will ask the Chapel Hill Town Council to consider shifting the line to include more properties — solely for the purposes of the district, he said.

School board member Lisa Stuckey said that with a high population density and a large base of elementary-aged children in southern Orange, this region would be best for the third high school.

"I would very much prefer a southern site if that's possible," Stuckey said.

The board also agreed to work with the county commissioners to design a funding plan for the district's fifth middle school, slated to open between 2005 and 2007, and a 10th elementary school, scheduled to open between 2006 and 2010. "We do not have funding currently lined up for that (middle) school," Didow said. "We will work in partnership with the county commissioners for a funding plan."

Didow said the commissioners asked the school board to lay out its capital needs at the bodies' joint meeting in September, as this is what they attempted to accomplish with the resolutions passed last week. But he said that plans, especially those included in the latter years of proposed capital development, are subject to change.

The district also elected to convert the Lincoln Center, the administrative building, into a magnet high school to accommodate up to 500 students.

A new administrative building would be constructed across from Chapel Hill High School on Homestead Road, based on plans.

Kim Hoke, spokeswoman for Chapel Hill-Carrboro City Schools, said the Lincoln Center is a good location for a magnet facility because of its proximity to UNC and other resources. "For it to be an alternative high school ... seems like a logical solution," Hoke said.

She said with the district's student population doubling since the 1980s, leaders are trying to accommodate this surge in enrollment. "It sounds like an aggressive plan to meet the needs of a growing student population."

The City Editor can be reached at citydesk@unc.edu.

Campus Calendar

Today

7:30 p.m. — Come to Union 1505 for a time of fellowship and worship with the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Our

The Daily Tar Heel
P.O. Box 3257, Chapel Hill, NC 27515
Kim Minugh, Editor, 962-4086
Advertising & Business, 962-1163
News, Features, Sports, 962-0245
One copy per person; additional copies may be purchased at The Daily Tar Heel for $.25 each.
© 2002 DTH Publishing Corp.
All rights reserved.

speaker is Asheboro pastor Chris Thore.

Tuesday, Oct. 22

noon — To celebrate U.N. week, please join the United Nations Organization for a special discussion on Iraq. The guest speaker is political science Professor Jurg Steiner. Food is provided. The talk will be held until 1 p.m. Please contact either Saba Khan (skhan@email.unc.edu) or Karine Dube (dube@email.unc.edu) for further information.

Wednesday, Oct. 23

7 p.m. — What if it were your mother?

The Sonya Haynes Stone Black Cultural Center will be hosting a discussion about the movie "Ubuntu's Wounds" — the killer of a man's wife goes unpunished due to the rules of South African law!

Do some of the same ideals relate in American laws?

What would you do and how would you feel if it were your mother, sister or spouse murdered and the killer walks free?

Free food will be served. The movie will begin at 7 p.m. in the Varsity Theatre on Franklin Street.

Largest Selection of... Masquerade Rentals

Hat and Wig Rentals

Latex Masks
Theatrical Makeup
Costume Accessories

919.942.2131
Rams Plaza, Chapel Hill

Extended Witching Hours: Sat, Oct 26: 10am-6pm
Sun, Oct 27: 1-6pm & Mon-Thurs Oct 28-31: 10am-8pm

Show Your Student ID for a 10% Discount

3 MONTHS UNLIMITED for only $99

Tan Your Hide 2

933-2117
M-Thur 10:30-8:30
Fri 10:30-7 • Sat 11-5

151 E. Rosemary St.
Coupon expires November 1st

Ralph's FAMOUS Since 1928

ITALIAN ICES Over 80 Flavors

Introducing Our New Arctic Shakes & Fruit Smoothies

Buy One, Get One FREE
Small - Medium - Large
Only one per customer

Late Hours: Open until 3am Thurs, Fri, Sat - Open until Midnight Mon, Tues, Wed, Sun

We accept Carolina Meal Plan.

New in North Carolina - located across from Granville Towers