pounded the ball up the middle during the early part of the drive, the Tar Heels finished the drive with five straight runs by Scott.

And when Miami leveled the score once again with 2:25 remaining, UNC had one last response. The Tar Heels moved the ball 65 yards to set up Barth — who had missed from 39 yards earlier in the game.

The kick sent the frenzied crowd onto the Kenan Stadium field for the second home game in a row, and students tore down the goalposts for the first time since the Tar Heels stunned Florida State in 2001.

"It was a mob scene out there, and the next thing I saw was the goal post going down, which was kind of cool," Bunting said. "(Director of Athletics) Dick Baddour said he would be glad to pay for them week in and week out."

And with the win, which effectively ended Miami's national title dreams, the Tar Heels sent a message to the college football world.

"Tell Lee Corso, Kirk Herbstreit, Mark May, all the ESPN staff, because I was watching the (Virginia Tech-Georgia Tech) game Thursday night, and they said that we didn't have a chance," Holley shouted.

"They can all break that pencil in three and chew on it because we went out there and beat the (No. 4) team in the country when everybody said we couldn't."

Women finish 2nd at ACCs

FROM WIRE REPORTS

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — After claiming the ACC crown last season, the North Carolina women's cross country team finished second in this year's ACC championships Saturday.

Carol Henry, Erin Donohue and Alice Schmidt all earned All-ACC honors for their performances in the 6K race, but they were unable to overtake Duke, who finished with five runners in the top 10 overall and won the meet with 29 total points.

The win was the Blue Devils' first ACC title in the sport.

Henry and Donohue were second and third overall, respectively. Schmidt took 11th, while Jennie Sucher (16th) and Meghan Owen (24th) rounded out the scorers for UNC. Jessica Perry, Nicole Boykin and Anna Hay also competed for the Tar Heels.

The Tar Heel men ran in the 8K championship. Jesse Rappole was the first UNC harrier to cross the line, finishing 48th in 26 minutes, 36 seconds.

Alex Ray (52nd), Tom Falvey (67th), Brian McGovern (71st) and Matt Daly (73rd) rounded out the top five finishers for UNC. Jeffrey Peterson also participated.

The Tar Heels finished 10th in the team competition. N.C. State edged out Florida State by one point to win the men's championship.

Tar Heels finish season 18-1

NORFOLK, Va. — The North Carolina field hockey team wrapped up its regular season Saturday afternoon with a 4-1 win at No. 7 Old Dominion.

Kelsey Keeran, Karen Mann and Laura Douglas scored for the Tar Heels, who lost the shutout when the Monarchs scored their only goal with seconds remaining in the game.

No. 2 UNC is 18-1 and the top seed heading into the ACC Tournament. Play begins Thursday in Winston-Salem, and UNC will see its first action Friday against the winner of No. 1 Wake Forest and No. 16 Virginia.

"I'm proud of the team for closing out the regular season with a tremendous record against a very difficult schedule," said UNC coach

Karen Shelton.

"To be 18-1 against the schedule we play is significant. We use the season to prepare for the post-season, and we're anxious to get started."

Keeran, a senior forward, scored for UNC just four minutes into the game. Mann, a junior forward, added another first-half goal to put UNC up 2-0 at the break.

In the second half, Mann scored again on a pass from sophomore Ashley Judge to put the Tar Heels up 3-0 before senior Laura Douglas converted a penalty stroke for UNC's final goal.
