

"We're Not the Tourists You're Looking For"

PHOTOGRAPHER AND NATIONAL PUBLIC RADIO STORYTELLER JESSE KALISHER

Wednesday, November 10, 2004 • 7:00 p.m.
Cobb Theater • Sonja Haynes Stone Center for Black Culture and History

Free admission in celebration of the groundbreaking of the Global Education Center

Performed in the tradition of Spalding Gray, Kalisher relates his experience traveling with his wife, Helen, in Syria on September 11th, 2001, as well as in Jordan, Israel, and Egypt in the weeks and months following the attack. The engaging performance, which lets us experience some of the couple's more outrageous adventures, makes it an evening not to miss!

Jesse Kalisher, a frequent contributor to National Public Radio, has appeared as a commentator for "Marketplace" and as a storyteller for "Savvy Traveler" and "Day-to-Day."

This one-man show was performed at San Francisco's Commonwealth Club and Las Vegas's Luxor Hotel & Casino, as well as to sold-out audiences in San Francisco's Marsh Theater.
