English Language vs Non-English Language Programs

Do you want to learn a new language? Do you want to improve upon your foreign language skills? Do you want to attend classes taught in English? Different program options enable students to begin a new language, to complete language requirements, or to gain fluency. Students may also choose a program which allows them to take classes exclusively or primarily in English. Such programs are found around the world, especially in Asian, European and African countries.

Study Abroad Mission Statement

Each program offered is expected to meet UNC-CH's high academic standards and to provide course credits towards graduation.

The Office provides the following services:

- Student Advising Services in liaison with the Office of Undergraduate Education
- Assistance to UNC faculty in designing & managing study abroad programs
- Pre-Departure Orientation and Cultural Adaptation training for students
- Coordination with other UNC student services offices on campus (Registrar, Financial Aid, UNC Cashier, UNC Housing) to provide smooth transitions for students
- Communication with program administration abroad
- Information for students seeking internal and external scholarship opportunities

What Our Students Say

- Studying abroad at AUC gave me a chance to step outside of my comfort zone and meet new people, from Egypt and also from other Universities in the U.S. It was also an invaluable experience to live in the Middle East and see world politics from a very different perspective. - Lisa Stratton, Egypt
- Spending the year abroad was the best decision about my UNC education that I have made. I love Chapel Hill, but being away from it for a year has taught me more about myself, the rest of the world, and my home than I ever could have learned by sitting in the classroom. The only way to really know a place is to leave it, so I would recommend that every person go out and spend some time in a foreign land having priceless experiences learning about a new culture and in the process learning a little about where you came from yourself. - Liz Barrett, Japan/UK
- Studying in London was a remarkable way to learn about British politics, World War II, and the economics of the European Union. Only 20% of Americans own a passport; this is an opportunity to get out of the Chapel Hill bubble and avoid being a statistic. You will meet people with a totally different perspective than you and experience places you've only seen in movies. Study abroad at UNC is a once-in-a-lifetime chance. - Julia Brown, London
