

How do you Look Up to a company that ...

Discriminates Against Women?

Doesn't Provide Health Care for More than Half of its Employees?

Destroys Local Businesses?

Higher Expectations Week
A National Week of Action
NOVEMBER 13-19, 2005

Local Screenings of the New Documentary Film:
"Wal-Mart: The High Cost of Low Price"

Monday 11/14 7:00 p.m. Carolina Theater –
309 W. Morgan St.
(Durham)

Movie screening hosted by North Carolina Justice Center, Independent Weekly and the Institute for Southern Studies.

Tuesday 11/15 7:00 p.m. Captain John's Dockside Restaurant –
11550 US 15-501 N
(Chapel Hill)

Movie screening hosted by Chatham First.

Tuesday 11/15 7:00 p.m. Galaxy Cinema –
770 Cary Towne Blvd.
(Cary)

Movie screening sponsored by Independent Weekly, North Carolina Justice Center and the Institute for Southern Studies.

Thursday 11/17 7:15 p.m. Community Church of Chapel Hill –
106 Purefoy Road
(Chapel Hill)

Movie screening hosted by Community Church of Chapel Hill and Students United for a Responsible Global Environment.

For more information on local events, call 1-877-557-2981.

A N N O U N C I N G

Higher Expectations Week
A National Week of Action

From November 13th-19th, over 400 organizations across the country – from small business owners to environmentalists to women's groups – are coming together to stand up to Wal-Mart.

Wal-Mart Watch is sponsoring over 1,000 public events in all 50 states, including town hall meetings with elected officials, sermons by religious leaders, and premiere screenings of the new documentary film, "Wal-Mart: The High Cost of Low Price."

Wal-Mart Watch wants your ideas, participation, and commitment to set higher standards for the world's largest company. As Wal-Mart founder Sam Walton once said, "High expectations are the key to everything". We agree.

Learn more at www.walmartwatch.com.

WAL-MART WATCH

"Perhaps no other group is scrutinizing the company more thoroughly than Wal-Mart Watch."

– Arkansas Democrat Gazette, 6/5/05

This is your week to fight back!