

The Daily Tar Heel

VOLUME 113, ISSUE 149

www.dailytarheel.com

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 2006

Hike talks create waves

BOG committee OKs all requests

BY KAVITA PILLAI
STATE & NATIONAL EDITOR

In an unsurprising move, the UNC-system Board of Governors took another step Thursday toward passing tuition and fee hike proposals for the 16 system schools.

The BOG's budget and finance committee approved tuition increase requests from all campuses, though the action was not without debate.

Committee member Ray Farris demanded that the approval motion be split, separating the nonresident tuition proposal for UNC-Chapel Hill into its own motion.

The move allowed Farris to cast the only vote against the $1,100 out-of-state hike, which he called unreasonable.

He said he objected to the request because of the pace at which the nonresident tuition rate is approaching the 75th percentile of peer institutions — the ceiling set by the UNC-CH Board of Trustees.

"You're trying to get to the 75th percentile too fast," Farris said. "And it's not fair to the students who bring tremendous good to the campus."

After the increase, UNC-CH will be about $6,000 short of the highest quartile.

SEE BUDGET, PAGE 6

Additional coverage

> Paging a nurse BOG group analyzes nursing shortage, online

> Bloggin' Committee meeting pits student vs. administrators, visit apps.dailytarheel.com/blogs/blueheaven.php

Attend the meeting

Time: 11 a.m. Date: Today
Location: General Administration Building, 910 Raleigh Road
Info: www.northcarolina.edu

UNC brass reconfigured

Few details on college dean search

BY BRIAN HUDSON
NEWS EDITOR

Call it the South Building shuffle.

In less than two weeks the campus has been called on to find replacements for UNC's top two academic positions.

After Provost Robert Shelton announced last month that he would leave UNC to become president of the University of Arizona, administrators tapped Bernadette Gray-Little, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, in a closed search process.

Now administrators must find a replacement for Gray-Little, who was announced Wednesday, but there's no indication yet of how they will go about that process.

If the process mirrors previous searches, an interim dean will be selected and administrators will form a search committee — likely overseen by one of the campus's deans.

Bernadette Gray-Little was named only 12 days after Shelton announced his departure Faculty both from within the college and from across the University probably will be called on to participate, said Steve Allred, executive associate provost.

He added that some schools, such as the School of Law, might be involved since they have a vested interest in the process.

"They are all schools that people move into from the General College," Allred said.

The last search for an arts and sciences dean lasted more than six months and saw more than

SEE DEAN SEARCH, PAGE 6

PERFECT SEASON RUNS FOUL

No. 6 Maryland upends top-ranked Heels in O.T.

BY JACOB KARABELL
SENIOR WRITER

Since North Carolina topped Duke on Jan. 29 to earn the No. 1 ranking, Coach Sylvia Hatchell has consistently warned her team that it will be taking every team's best shot.

On Thursday, No. 6 Maryland gave UNC that effort late in the second half — sprinkled with some luck.

The Terps, who trailed by 13 with eight minutes to play, stormed back and received an answer to Ashleigh Newman's prayer at the buzzer to send the game into overtime. In the extra session Maryland scored on its first four possessions and held on to stun the Tar Heels 98-95, dethroning the last of college basketball's unbeaten.

"I'll tell you — just a special win for this team," said Maryland coach Brenda Frese. "It's probably one of the proudest moments I've had as a coach to watch this team develop the way they have."

Trailing by four with 16 seconds left in the second half, Maryland (22-2, 9-1 in the ACC) forced the ball inside to star forward Crystal Langhorne, who deposited an easy layup to cut the deficit in half.

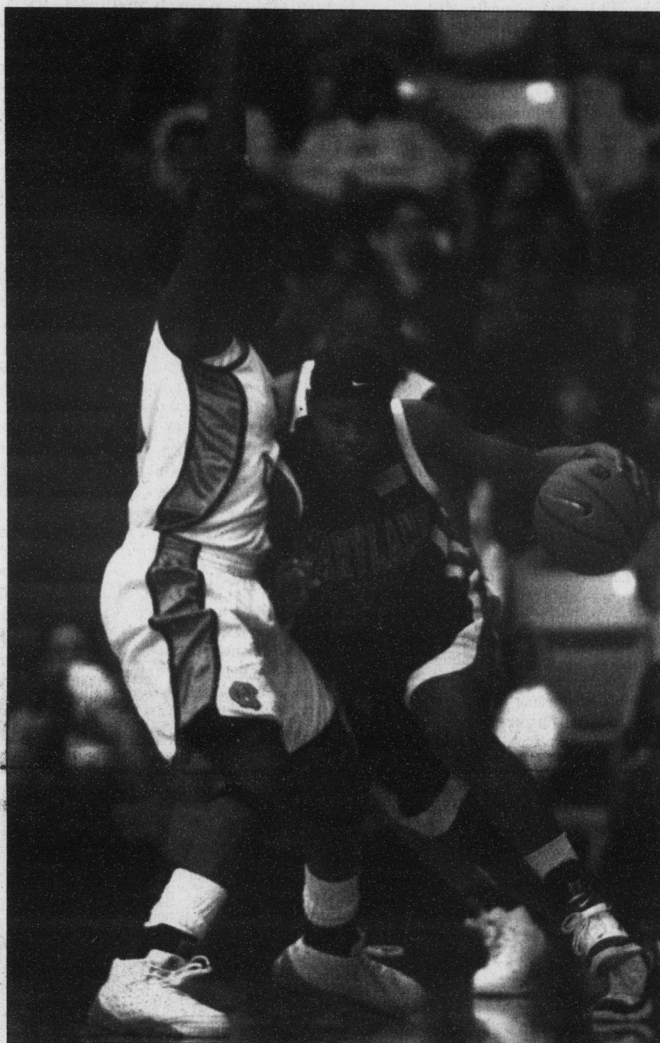

After a timeout, La'Tangela Atkinson inbounded the ball to Ivory Latta, who was quickly fouled.

Normally two easy points, the 88-percent foul shooter hit the first but clanged the second off the rim — the biggest of the Tar Heels' 14 missed free throws on the evening.

"If we had made some foul shots, it would have been a different game," Hatchell said.

The upset-minded Terps capitalized on their second chance, but barely. Shay Doron hit the back rim on her 3-point attempt, but the rebound rolled out to the

SEE MARYLAND, PAGE 6

Terrapin Ashleigh Newman, who sent the game into overtime with a dramatic 3, drives on Camille Little in the first half. UNC suffered its first loss of the year, 98-95.

DTH/JULIA BARKER

Downtown storefronts to sport new looks

Downtown sees multiple vacancies

As town organizations seek to diversify business and revitalize the downtown sector, several buildings remain vacant on Franklin and Rosemary streets. At least one of the six vacancies has drawn interest from a buyer. The Denver-based Chipotle Mexican Grill has put in an application with the town to open up a store at the former VisArt location.

Hector's among those to change

BY MEREDITH LEE MILLER
SENIOR WRITER

Several changes are in store for the local business scene, reinforcing the perception that Franklin Street has become a place of chronic turnover.

Recently, it was announced that El Rodeo and Hector's restaurants are moving; East End Martini Bar is expanding; and a Mexican chain might move into the old VisArt Video spot on West Franklin Street, which has sat vacant since summer 2004.

"I think one of the most exciting things about the downtown is that there's always going to be some level of activity," said Liz Parham, executive director of the Chapel Hill Downtown Partnership.

Where is Hector's going?

Hector's is slated to close its doors Saturday, but the restaurant does have plans to open a new location in downtown

SEE DOWNTOWN, PAGE 6

Programs target subject shortages

BY KATHRYN ROWLAND
STAFF WRITER

Science majors, want a taste of life outside the laboratory?

Try a high school classroom.

Arts and sciences students who decide late in their college careers that they want to teach soon might be able to enter the classroom within months of graduation.

Thomas James, dean of the School of Education, said he is in the process of implementing an accelerated education program for last-year students. James' vision is for students to be licensed to teach by the August after graduation.

"There is, of course, a dire shortage of science and math teachers," James said. "We've

SEE MATH, SCIENCE, PAGE 6

Teachers wanted

Based on 112 licensed teachers' responses, the subjects most in need of instructors for 2004-05.

LICENSE AREA	# IDENTIFYING
9-12 mathematics	89
Sp. ed.: general curriculum	83
9-12 science	71
6-9 mathematics	64
6-9 science	51
Sp. ed.: adapted curriculum	43
Cross categorical	42
Behavioral/emotional disabilities	39
Learning disabilities	34
Second Languages	34
Severely/Profoundly Disabled	26
Mental Disabilities	25
Speech Language Pathologist	15
ESL	15
6-9 Language Arts	14
6-12 Family/Consumer Sciences	10
Media Coordinator	10
Elementary Education	9

SOURCE: N.C. DEPT. OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION DTH/BOBBY SWEATT

AN INSPIRATION

DTH/RACHEL ZUBATCH

Senior Carter Berry teaches children at Frank Porter Graham Elementary about surface area Wednesday as part of the INSPIRE program, which pairs UNC students and local schools to give aspiring teachers classroom experience. Visit dailytarheel.com for the full story.

CORRECTION

Due to an editing error, Thursday's front page article "Gray-Little named new provost" incorrectly states that Robert Shelton will become president of the University of Arizona system.

He will be president of the University of Arizona.

The Daily Tar Heel apologizes for the error.

announcement

STATEMENT ON CARTOON

The Daily Tar Heel editor offers an explanation of why the Thursday cartoon was OK'd for publication at apps.dailytarheel.com/blogs/editor.php

online | dailytarheel.com

CARRBORO INC. Town business group eyes downtown redevelopment project

COME IN CARRBORO Newly elected Carrboro mayor opines on issues over air

FOR THE COMMUNITY U.S. legislators to examine community colleges' purpose

features | page 4

JUMP, JIVING

Freshman pair starts dance group called Dancing in the Moonlight, which meets to enjoy spontaneous dancing every other Friday.

today in history

FEB. 10, 2000

The Board of Governors' budget and finance committee votes for an even $300 tuition increase for both resident and nonresident UNC-CH students.

weather

Partly Cloudy
H 53, L 35

index

police log ..... 2
calendar ..... 2
crossword ..... 5
sports ..... 9
edit ..... 10