The Baily Tar Heel

VOLUME 114, ISSUE 61

THURSDAY, AUGUST 31, 2006

EX-STUDENT ATTACKS SCHOOL

POLICE: MAN KILLED FATHER BEFORE ATTACKING SCHOOL

HILLSBOROUGH - A former Orange High School student opened fired on school grounds Wednesday afternoon and was arrested on charges of first-degree murder stem-ming from an earlier incident.

Orange County Sheriff Lindy Pendergrass said Alvaro Rafael Castillo, 19, of 230 Lipps Lane, shot his father at home before heading to the school at about 1

Castillo is being held in Orange County Jail.

No serious injuries were report-ed at the school, though two stuents did sustain minor wounds.

School district spokeswoman Anne D'Annunzio said the first sign something was wrong came as Castillo's silver minivan sped past the guard who sits at the entrance to the student parking lot.

"It stopped up there by the patio," sophomore Jarrett Remington said. "This guy jumped out, and he started lighting fireworks or flares, and then he just started shooting."

Students often sit on the patio, which runs between two main halls of the school, and eat their lunches.

A bullet grazed one female stu-dent's shoulder, and flying glass very slightly hurt a male student.

The woman was treated and released from a hospital, and D'Annunzio said she saw the girl talking and laughing after the incident. The other student wasn't transported to the hospital.

mington said the shooter wore a black trench coat and a bandana. Two school resource officers saw the man shooting, approached him as he was firing and ordered him to drop his weapon and handcuffed him, according to a press release from the Orange County Sheriff's Department.

Castillo then told officials he had murdered his father, Rafael Huezo Castillo, the release states

Officials found two rifles with Castillo, Pendergrass said.

Castillo had weapons, ammu-nition and homemade pipe bombs inside the van, the relea se states

The Durham County Sheriff's Office Bomb Squad was called to take the bombs.

Police believe the crimes were premeditated.

Pendergrass said charges stemming from the school incident likely will follow today. Castillo is scheduled to be in court today for his first appearance.

As Castillo was led from the sheriff's office to the squad car waiting

SEE SHOOTING, PAGE 5

Alvaro Rafael Castillo is placed into a squad car Wednesday after driving to Orange High School and shooting at students. Castillo also is accused of killing his father at his residence. No students were seriously injured, and Castillo will make his first appearance in court today in Hillsborough.

A home after the storm

BY JULIE TURKEWITZ

The trio shows up regularly at Tupelo's, a Southern—and Creole-style bistro in Hillsborough. They order gumbo or shrimp remoulade and talk about home - New Tracy Carroll, co-owner of Tupelo's, doesn't know their names or even exactly where they're from.

What she knows is that the husband, wife and child who frequent are just a few of the former

Gulf Coast residents who came to North Carolina after Hurricane Katrina - and decided to stay.

A year after the hurricane, the largest pockets of families tossed by Katrina's winds into North Carolina reside in the Triangle and

They have joined churches, enrolled in schools and transport-ed morsels of Crescent City culture

The Federal Emergency Management Agency received 5,037
applications from individuals, families and couples who games and couples who gave an N.C. address when requesting hurricane-related aid, according to Renee

Four-year strategy

pushed to October

BY ELIZABETH DEORNELLAS

Brian Battistella moved to Clayton after Hurricane Katrina and opened his dream restaurant, Louise's A Taste of Louisiana. Among the menu favorites are a variety of authentic po'boys.

Hoffman at the state Department of Crime Control and Public Safety.

But it's impossible to deter-mine the total number that came through the state, she said. And no one has tracked just how many decided to stay.

There's a reason for that, said Seanyea Rains, coordinator for the Durham Job Link Career Center's Katrina Project, which links former Gulf Coast residents in the Triangle

SEE FAMILIES, PAGE 5

Evacuees in N.C.

Sorority rush season kicks off with a bang BY KELLY GIEDRAITIS

It's official: Rush has begun. Wednesday's Panhellenic kick-off event marked the occasion as nine hand-clapping, foot-stomping cheers introduced each sorority to potential new members.

Despite having to trek through the rain hundreds of students poured into the Student Union's Great Hall to learn more about the rush process.

No seat was left empty, and even those standing in the back had to cozy up with their neighbors.

The event allowed rushees to learn more about Panhellenic sororities and to meet the members of their rush groups - sets of about 20 women who tour houses and meet sorority members on

About 600 potential new members have signed up to participate in this fall's Panhellenic rush, said senior Sara Loges, a recruitment counselor coordinator.

Both new and returning students attended the event, eager to learn more about

"I wanted to find out what it's like to be Greek," sophomore Sophia Estrada said. She said that negative stereotypes sorority members discouraged her from rushing last year but that now most of her friends are in sororities. "I think coming into Carolina I had no interest in joining," Estrada said. "But after being here and seeing the girls it changed Many said they hope to make long-last-ing friendships by joining a sorority or just meet new people during the rush process.

"Everyone said it was a really good experience," freshman Amanda Leger said. "It's a way to meet new people and get really good friends."

Speakers at the event introduced nine Panhellenic sororities on campus and encouraged potential new members to get excited about the rush experience.

They also explained that sororities are more than social outings and are committed to completing philanthropy

After an informational slideshow and the introduction of the sororities, rushees met

Senior Rachel Madsen tries to locate the women in her recruitment group at an event Wednesday in the Great Hall signaling the beginning of rush season for sororities.

their recruitment counselors - temporarily unaffiliated sorority members who serve as unbiased guides throughout the hectic rush

In keeping with the enforcement of the "no boys, no alcohol" rule for sorority embers during the rush period, the kickoff event — which last year was held in Fraternity Court — relocated to the more neutral territory of the Student Union, said Lisa Foltz, president of the Panhellenic The rule also will force sororities to focus more on the potential new members' per-sonalities rather than social encounters, she said.

"In the past girls have complained that they've not enough time to meet members," Foltz said. "We're working to change that Sororities are working to promote Greek life for everyone, not to recruit from certain social cliques, Loges said.

"They're trying to promote more the chapter experience," Loges said.

"It's not about, 'Oh, we're the hottest girls on campus, and we hang out with these

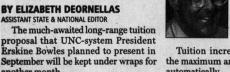

> Contact the University Editor at udesk@unc.edu.

The president was planning to present his four-year tuition plan to the tuition pol-

another month.

icy task force at its September meeting.

The proposal will determine the maximum annual tuition increase that each campus can request in the next four

Bowles delays tuition proposal

President Erskine Bowles wanted more time to consult leaders from campuses at all 16 schools.

Tuition increases that fall short of the maximum amount will be approved

Charles Mercer, co-chairman of the tuition policy task force, said he doubts the committee will meet in September. "I imagine we will postpone our meeting.

Jim Phillips, chairman of the UNC-system Board of Governors, said that Bowles has solicited a wide range of opinions about his tuition plan and that the president is delaying his proposal to carefully consider all the advice he has "His feeling is that we've got one chance to get this right," Phillips said. Hannah Gage, co-chairwoman of the tuition policy task force, said Bowles wanted to meet individually with all 32 board members, as well as the chancellors.

"He wanted some more time so that he could complete the process," she said. The president is seeking input on all aspects of tuition policy, from financial aid concerns to guidelines on allocating money from tuition increases, Gage said.

SEE TUITION DELAY, PAGE 5

announcement

WE'RE HIRING

Want to be part of the nation's top college newspaper? Attend an interest meeting from 5:30 pm. to 6:30 p.m.

today in Union 3503.

online | dailytarheel.com

VOLUNTEERS APLENTY Students turn out in droves to join service efforts

RESPECTING ELDERS UNC makes push to help nurses care for older folks

EDITOR'S BLOG Why joining the DTH is the best way to get involved on campus

sports | page 15 FILLING HOLES

Two days before the season is slated to kick off the Tar Heels still have openings at key positions after injuries have plagued the team.

this day in history

AUGUST 31, 1989 ...

Greeting cards and posters are among merchandise no longer available for purchase at Student Stores because of the inplementation of the Umstead Act.

weather

police log calendar

13 sports opinion