DAILY DOSE

Feeling hot? It wasn't global warming

FROM STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

The original McDreamy might be spending some time in the Tar Heel State. George Clooney, who rose to fame as hunky Dr. Doug Ross on "ER," was checking out Salisbury on Monday for an upcoming movie called "Leatherheads." Jack Thomson, executive director of Historic Salisbury, said the Oscar-winning actor is considering taking a role in the romantic comedy, which is set in the 1920s with football as the backdrop. Clooney, 45, earlier this year won the best supporting actor Oscar for his role as a CIA operative in "Syriana."

"He came here because historic preservation is successful on a scale rarely matched elsewhere," Thomson said of the town. No wonder the Dose was feeling a little heat Monday.

NOTED. Third time's a charm? Try 19. A Thai snake charmer Khum Chaibuddee kissed 19 highly poisonous king cobras in an attempt to set a world record Saturday.

Gordon Cates of Alachua, Fla., kissed 11 venomous snakes in 1999.

Khum, who's been charming serpents for more than 12 years, urged children and onlookers not to try the feat on their own.

QUOTED. "If it's on the public right-of-way, you're under the same jurisdiction as if you're in a car."

— Trooper Anthony Coleman of Clayton, Ga., describing the charges of a woman charged with drunk driving — on a horse. Heather Darnell, 22, of Mountain City, Ga., is facing charges after she steered the horse she was riding onto the highway and tangled with a car, authorities said.
