Flying bra causes wreck

FROM STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

Bras can be difficult for men to handle. James Campbell, 37, was driving in Toledo, Ohio, when a girl in the car in front of him threw her bra out the window. Campbell swerved, flipping his car several times and breaking a vertebra in his neck in the process. Emily Davis, 17, will be charged with misdemeanor littering.

A State Highway Patrol crash report said that the girls told investigators that before the accident the men were motioning to them to lift up their shirts.

NOTED. The Pit Preacher — multiplied by 500? The city of Dallas has been invaded by a group of nearly 500 street preachers spreading the word.

Last week the preachers were at every single gate of the Texas State Fair. Organizers of the group call it an invasion because they believe Christians need to be more aggressive.

QUOTED. "One of these days, if the opportunity's there, that's something I'd love to do. It's a high calling to serve the community, and if you can do it, I think you should."

— Country singer Tim McGraw on whether or not he will ever run for office. McGraw told Time magazine that he is an "innate" Democrat.
