DAILY DOSE

Tar Heels to get comedic Kazakh treat

FROM STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

Borat, the somewhat politically incorrect Kazakh alter ego of comedian Sacha Baron Cohen, will make his Chapel Hill big-screen debut at 8 p.m. today in the Student Union auditorium. "Borat: Cultural Learnings of America for Make Benefit Glorious Nation of Kazakhstan" — yes, that's the name of the movie — doesn't open officially until Nov. 3, but the Student Union Activities Board snagged a sneak preview.

"I definitely think it will be a full auditorium. ... There's just been a really high level of excitement," said Erika Stallings, Student Union president and admitted Cohen fan. The auditorium has 380 seats, she said, and bracelets for seats will be available starting at 6:30 p.m.

NOTED. Elvis Presley might not be the King anymore, at least according to Forbes.com. The Web site announced this week that the rock 'n' roller lost his title as top-earning dead celebrity.

Nirvana lead singer Kurt Cobain, who made $50 million between October 2005 and October 2006, is now the highest-earning deceased celeb. Presley made a mere $42 million this year.

QUOTED. "In many ways we feel like we already are married. I know I'm with the woman I want to spend the rest of my life with. So the wedding — that's just the party."

— Tom Cruise in a June interview. The actor announced this week that the much-talked-about party — his marriage to Katie Holmes — finally will happen Nov. 18, exactly 7 months after the birth of their daughter.
