What is your best or worst?

Brandon Woodruff
Year: Junior

"The best would be junior year of high school where my girlfriend at the time came over. We skipped school, and we spent the whole day together sitting in the hot tub. The worst was senior year of high school when I went over to my girlfriend's house to give her a present and found her with another guy. It's just another day, but it's very important to express your love to the ones you love — that's an all-the-time thing."

"Well, I can certainly tell you about last year. ... It was an incredibly hectic Valentine's Day, of course, because it was Election Day. I knew I had to be in the Pit at 7 in the morning and campaigning all day 'til 10 at night. ... So I knew I wasn't going to be able to see my girlfriend all day. I ended up sneaking over to her dorm around 6 in the morning and leaving a rose outside of her door with a little note about 'Sorry I won't be around today but I'll make it up to you this weekend.'"

"I don't really have a favorite Valentine's Day memory. My least favorite Valentine's memory was in middle school one time. You know, they send those candygrams around, and I think all my friends got one except me. So I didn't get any love on Valentine's Day in like sixth or seventh grade. Other than that, I can't think of a favorite one. As long as I get some kind of love and support."

Pinar Gurel
Year: Sophomore
Major: Chemistry

"My best Valentine's Day experience was probably when it was senior year, and I had never done anything for Valentine's Day in my life. It was lunchtime and I went out to my car and there were flowers on my car. ... And you think getting flowers is stupid, but then it happens to you and it's awesome. Then later, that person becomes my boyfriend. ... Before that I was like this holiday is really dumb. But it's really cute when you have someone to celebrate with."
