Sheriff writes himself a traffic ticket FROM STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

rown County Sheriff Dennis Kocken, of Wisconsin, didn't have to write himself a ticket. But he says it was the right thing to do. Kocken issued himself a ticket March 27 for an unsafe lane change, three weeks after he rear-ended a suspected speeder that slowed down to turn. Neither the deputy who completed the accident report nor the Brown County district attorney's office felt that Kocken deserved a citation.

"As sheriff, I'm held to the highest standard in law enforcement. How can I hold officers accountable if I don't hold myself accountable?" He said. "I'm satisfied I'm doing the right thing."

The ticket carries a $160.80 fine that Kocken said he fully intends to pay.

NOTED. Moose and reindeer at a Stockholm wildlife park have been invited to an unusual taste panel that will help decide which type of salt should be used to de-ice the country's roads in wintertime.

The less they like it, the better. The National Road Administration plans to introduce a new, sweeter blend of road salt, but wants to make sure it doesn't attract wildlife to Sweden's highways.

QUOTED. "This might be mid-life, but it's not a crisis. It's mid-life excitement. I don't need it all. I don't use it all. I just have it all. Actually, it has me.'

 Lisa Perry, 45, of Minnesota, on how she put all her belongings — except her dog, her cat, photo albums and some clothing — up for auc-tion on eBay to make a fresh start. As of Sunday night, the top bid for her items was $100.
