

The Daily Tar Heel

VOLUME 115, ISSUE 147

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 2008

www.dailytarheel.com

WHERE THEY STAND

RESULTS OF SUPER TUESDAY

In a race that is increasingly dependent on delegate numbers, garnering votes from the more than 20 states holding primaries or caucuses Tuesday was key for candidates of both parties. Take a look at how the race was shaping up as of midnight Tuesday.

STATES DECIDED BEFORE TUESDAY

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE RESULTS

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE RESULTS

SOURCE: HTTP://WWW.CNN.COM

DTH/MINDY NICHAMIN AND REBECCA ROLFE

1 loose after prison break

4 other inmates back in custody

BY MAX ROSE
ASSISTANT CITY EDITOR

Four of the five inmates who escaped from the Chatham County Jail late Monday night are back in custody.

As of 11 p.m. Tuesday, officers and bloodhounds still were searching for 30-year-old Stewart Wendell Baldwin.

Baldwin was unarmed and on foot when he escaped from the jail at 295 West St. in Pittsboro, 30 minutes southwest of Chapel Hill, said Maj. Gary Blankenship, chief of staff of the Chatham County Sheriff's Office.

Stewart Wendell Baldwin escaped from jail Monday.

"Who knows by now?" he said. Baldwin, of 130 Mann's Chapel Road in Pittsboro, was in jail for felony drug charges and possession of weapons.

To escape, the five inmates jumped two unarmed detention officers during the nightly lockdown at about 11:30 p.m. Monday. The officers were the only ones downstairs in the detention center.

The inmates hid behind a corner and locked up the officers in their own handcuffs, Blankenship said. "(The officers) were just handcuffed and put in a different area of the detention center," he said.

He said the inmates then went into the property area and changed into civilian clothes.

They scaled the perimeter fence and wire, Blankenship said. The jail does not have watch towers.

"We learned of it when one of the officers had a prisoner and took him downstairs, and nobody answered the door," he said.

The detention officers did not suffer serious injury but were visibly shaken, he said.

On learning of the escape, Chatham County officers set up a perimeter with about a dozen checkpoints and about 65 officers.

Chatham County sheriffs apprehended Kyle Evan Kettrey, Brian Keith Blackwell and Adrian Carlos Reyes at a checkpoint on U.S. 15-501 on the way to Chapel Hill early Tuesday.

A woman was driving the three inmates into Chapel Hill when they were arrested without resistance at the checkpoint around 3:30 a.m. Police still are investigating the woman's connection to the inmates.

SEE ESCAPE, PAGE 7

UNC to host Iron & Wine

Folk-rock act will perform in April

"We're definitely expecting this to be one of our biggest shows of this year."

BY ALEXANDRIA SHEALY
ARTS EDITOR

The Carolina Union Activities Board announced Tuesday it will partner with Carrboro music venue Cat's Cradle to bring folk-rock act Iron & Wine to the Memorial Hall stage April 15.

Ticket prices and on-sale dates were not immediately made available.

Iron & Wine is the fourth concert the two organizations have brought to UNC in recent years, following rock acts Wilco and Sufjan Stevens in 2006 and Ben Folds in 2007. All three previous acts sold out.

"We're definitely expecting this to be one of our biggest shows this year," said Tom Allin, CUAB's music chairman.

Robert Gurdian, Carolina Union president, said the cost to bring Iron & Wine was "not much more" than the price of singer Jose Gonzalez, who will headline the Student Union Great Hall on March 3.

Iron & Wine, the recording and stage name of Sam Beam, released its third studio-length album in September 2007 and has been featured in TV commercials and the soundtrack to the 2004 film "Garden State."

TOM ALLIN, CAROLINA UNION ACTIVITIES BOARD MUSIC CHAIRMAN

"Iron & Wine haven't shied away from trying to experiment with a new sound," Allin said. "They have a great worldly sound, especially in

SEE IRON & WINE, PAGE 7

Sam Beam will perform as the folk-rock act Iron & Wine in Memorial Hall April 15 in a Carolina Union Activities Board and Cat's Cradle partnership.

COURTESY OF KIM BLACKSUB POP RECORDS

6

Days until student elections stories page 3

online | dailytarheel.com

CODE FORUM Attendees and Student Congress discuss Student Code revisions.

DEBATE A presidential debate becomes more about the moderator than the issues.

GOT PICTURES? Submit your photos from the Duke game or postgame festivities to nwyche@gmail.com.

university | page 5

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

Contestants will be in the Pit at noon today to try to win tickets to tonight's Duke-UNC game. In past years, students have eaten condiment concoctions (left).

this day in history

FEB. 6, 1967 ...

An unknown man is seen prowling through two rooms of Whitehead Dormitory. Police say the man may have been hiding until everyone was asleep to walk around.

weather

Mostly sunny
H 71, L 44

index

- police log 2
- calendar 2
- sports 4
- games 7
- opinion 8