

National and World News

FROM THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Ohio delivers jolt of life to Clinton

Hillary Clinton's campaign earned a much-needed victory after she was declared the projected winner in the Ohio primary. As of 11:30 p.m. Tuesday, with 72 percent of the polls reporting, Clinton led Barack Obama 56 percent to 42 percent.

Clinton also won in Rhode Island, with 58 percent of the vote. Obama clinched the race in Vermont with 60 percent of the vote.

Texas has two voting phases — the primary and the precinct convention. As of 11:30 p.m. the primary was too close to call, with 54 percent of the polls reporting, and Clinton leading Obama 50 percent to 48 percent. No precinct convention results were in yet.

John McCain swept the four states, earning four more than the necessary 1,191 votes to secure the Republican nomination.

Mike Huckabee officially conceded the race to McCain after his projected losses were announced Tuesday evening.

See Thursday's paper for an analysis of what these results mean for the remainder of the campaign.

— From CNN reports

Venezuela masses troops in protest of Colombia's hit on rebels in Ecuador

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Hundreds of Venezuelan troops moved Tuesday toward the border with Colombia, where trade was slowing amid heightening tension over Colombia's cross-border strike on a rebel base in Ecuador.

The Organization of American States scheduled an emergency afternoon meeting in Washington, pitting U.S.-backed Colombia against Venezuela's leftist President Hugo Chavez and his allies. Colombian and Ecuadorian officials, meanwhile, traded accusations in the United Nations and the International Criminal Court. The escalation of tensions was triggered over the weekend when Colombia troops crossed the border with Ecuador and killed Raul Reyes, a top commander of the Colombian FARC rebels who had set up a camp there.

Chavez, who sympathizes with the leftist rebels, condemned the killing and angrily ordered about 9,000 soldiers — 10 battalions — to Venezuela's border with Colombia. He warned Colombian President Alvaro Uribe that any strike on Venezuelan soil could provoke a South American war.

Israeli tanks roll into Gaza Strip

KHAN YOUNIS, Gaza Strip (AP) — About 25 Israeli armored vehicles rumbled into southern Gaza after nightfall Tuesday, and troops clashed with militants, Palestinian witnesses said.

The Israeli tanks fired shells and attack helicopters fired missiles during the clashes, witnesses said. Three militants were wounded, according to medical officials.

Israeli defense officials said it was a "pinpoint" operation aimed at Gaza militants. It came just a day after Israel ended a destructive and bloody ground operation in northern Gaza against Palestinian rocket squads.

Iran ignores UN nuclear sanctions

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iran vowed to push ahead with uranium enrichment Tuesday, a day after the U.N. Security Council passed a third round of sanctions that Tehran called "worthless" and politically biased.

The council approved the measures in a 14-0 vote. The sanctions ordered a freeze on assets of additional Iranian officials and companies with links to the country's nuclear and missile programs and banned for the first time trade with Iran in some goods that have both civilian and military uses.

Visiting artist uses mixed media to deliver message

BY WILL AUGEROT
STAFF WRITER

Wangechi Mutu's works of art are "visual ammunition" she uses to challenge traditional Western conceptions of the African woman.

Her mixed media collages are made with clippings from sources ranging from National Geographic magazine to hard-core pornography.

The Kenyan-born artist spoke about her life and art Tuesday in Nelson Mandela Auditorium at the FedEx Global Education Center.

Mutu was born in 1972 in Nairobi, Kenya, where she lived for years before moving to study in Wales and the U.S.

The artist said when she arrived in New York to attend Cooper Union, the way her fellow classmates treated her made her start "to evaluate this notion of being the other."

During Tuesday's lecture Mutu showed a historical photograph of African women from the early 20th century. She called it an example of a "faux-ethnographic" image.

"(Women's) domestic roles are implied in every one of their positions," Mutu said.

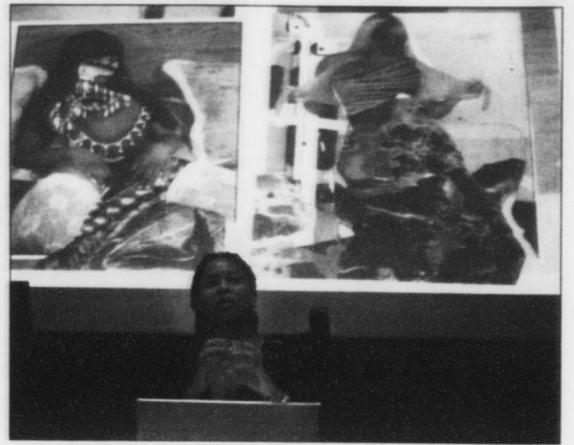

The artist showed many of her own works, which respond to such images, including "Preying Mantra," a depiction of a woman lounging under a tree with contrasting textures and surreal patterns. She also showcased "A Shady Promise," which has a tree growing back into the ground while a woman straddles one of the sets of roots.

She also showed slides of American-born entertainer, Josephine Baker, whose successes as a black singer and entertainer in the early 20th century defied the confines of society.

"(Baker is) a woman who's left her own place of birth in order to construct a fictional African," Mutu said. "The beautiful thing is that she got away with it."

Mutu also noted being influenced by absurdist philosopher Albert Camus' views about violence and quoted him during the talk.

"We used to wonder where war lived, what it was that made it so vile," the quote read. "And now we realize that we know where it lives, that it is inside ourselves."

DTH/RACHEL RODEMANN
Wangechi Mutu speaks as part of the Hanes Visiting Artist Lecture Series about collages from her body of work, "The Ark Collection."

Mutu uses oppressive imagery in a subversive way to empower, UNC professor Jesse Prinz, who teaches philosophy of art, said in an interview Monday.

"Her subjects are painted, dissected, wounded, sexualized, contorted and medicalized," he said. "Despite all this, they have a stirring dignity, simultaneously grotesque and defiant."

Jim Hirschfield, chairman of the art department's intellectual life committee, which selected Mutu for the series, said, "(Mutu's) figures become an embodiment of the disjointed facets of modern Africa, caught in the flux of Western pre-conception, internal turmoil, ancient tradition and blossoming futures."

Saratu Abiola, a junior from Nigeria who attended the lecture, said, "(Mutu's work is) an interesting way of looking at social commentary that doesn't claim to have all the answers. It's a more honest way of looking at things."

Contact the Arts Editor at artsdesk@unc.edu.

SPELLING BEE

FROM PAGE 3

should be entertaining.

While organizers said they expect the spelling bee to draw excitement and laughter from participants, McKay said this year's word selection will be more challenging than those of previous years.

"The words are going to be difficult. We got them from the national spelling bee competition," Smith said.

The Scripps National Spelling Bee's consolidated word list includes words such as aeronautic, bruxomania, feijoada, exaugural and laureation.

The event will be conducted in "The words are going to be difficult. We got them from the national spelling bee competition."

STACIE SMITH, BULL'S HEAD BOOKSHOP FLOOR SALES MANAGER

rounds, following the national bee's format.

Each participant will be required to spell one word in each round. Before each attempted spelling, the competitor is allowed to ask for details about the word, such as its part of speech or language of origin.

But eventually they must attempt to spell the word.

Any incorrect answer will end the candidate's quest for spelling glory.

McKay said he expects the bee to last about an hour and a half, and Smith suggested it could go on much longer.

"We've had it come down to where it was two or three people, and it kept going," Smith said. "They kept spelling it right, or each person would get it wrong."

Contact the Arts Editor at artsdesk@unc.edu.

games

Sudoku

By The Mephram Group

© 2007 The Mephram Group. Distributed by Tribune Media Services. All rights reserved.

Level: 1 2 3 4

4	2							9
7		8				6			3
9				5
	9		2		7			6
	7		9		1			4
				7					6
3			5				1		2
	1							5	4

Solution to Tuesday's puzzle

8	1	6	7	4	2	9	3	5
3	7	9	5	6	1	4	2	8
4	2	5	8	3	9	7	6	1
9	4	1	2	5	6	3	8	7
5	3	2	9	7	8	1	4	6
7	6	8	3	1	4	5	9	2
2	5	4	6	9	7	8	1	3
6	9	7	1	8	3	2	5	4
1	8	3	4	2	5	6	7	9

Town vision

Chapel Hill will review its Economic Development Plan at three public forums. See pg. 4 for story.

UNC baseball

The Tar Heels beat out William & Mary 10-2 Tuesday in Cary. See pg. 6 for story.

Chapel Hill cheating

Some students are worried about their high school's reputation after a cheating scandal. See pg. 3 for story.

Men's hoops

The Tar Heels defeated Florida State on Senior Night 90-77. See pg. 7 for story.

False alarm

Reports of a gunman on Appalachian State's campus were a hoax. See pg. 1 for story.

I love my kids but I need a night out.

DTH Classified Ads

bringing people together

919-962-1163

go to www.dailytarheel.com and click on classifieds

I love kids and I could use some extra cash

THE Daily Crossword Edited by Wayne Robert Williams

©2008 Tribune Media Services, Inc. All rights reserved.

ACROSS

- 1 Plot for roses
- 4 Unbroken
- 9 Aromatic wood
- 14 Had a meal
- 15 Eccentric
- 16 Pain pill brand
- 17 Eve's address on her rap sheet
- 20 Paramount
- 21 Fountain of Rome
- 22 Art sch. course
- 23 Postpones
- 26 OSS successor
- 29 Napoleon's marshal
- 30 Fanatical
- 31 Indonesian island
- 32 Literary category
- 33 Hang around
- 35 Notation on Eve's rap sheet
- 38 Lavishly showy
- 39 Knights' wives
- 40 Noblewoman
- 41 Some lawnmowers
- 42 Bell and Barker
- 45 Indigo or wood
- 46 Bizet opera
- 48 Breathe heavily
- 49 Welsh dog
- 51 Eagle's nest
- 52 17A, on Eve's rap sheet
- 57 Traffic diverters
- 58 More inadequate
- 59 Short snooze
- 60 Tiny amounts

DOWN

- 1 Robin's partner
- 2 Constituent of natural gas
- 3 Record player?
- 4 Fly high
- 5 James Coburn movie, "Man Flint"
- 6 Inc. in England
- 7 Anger
- 8 Pockmarked
- 9 Coffeehouses
- 10 Hgt.
- 11 Name an inspiration
- 12 Old Roman greeting
- 13 Stimp's pal
- 18 "You've ___ Mail"
- 19 Hockey defensive great
- 23 "Divine Comedy" poet

24 Spanish river

- 25 Feudal lord's domain
- 27 Robert of "The Sopranos"
- 28 Melodic tune
- 30 Take a break
- 31 Auction actions
- 32 Go-with-anything color
- 33 Tart citrus fruit
- 34 Washington bills
- 35 Ravel
- 36 "___ Proposal"
- 37 Cabby's customer
- 38 Ancient

41 Triviality

- 42 Docking facility
- 43 Beast
- 44 Precipitous slopes
- 46 Salad green
- 47 In the past
- 48 According to
- 50 SSS classification
- 51 Lot of land
- 52 Part of B.S.
- 53 Pigeon's sound
- 54 Tic-toe tie
- 55 Med. group
- 56 Lamprey or moray

GRIT	DOTS	PESTO
RUDI	EZRA	AVAIL
ABET	COIN	PINED
DEAL	ORNODEAL
EPEE	LYSINS
BADDIE	ASIA	NOT
ADIEU	CUED	ETRE
LOVEME	ORLEAVEME
BRED	NCAA	PENAL
OER	OVAL	HARDLY
ARTURO	BORG
TRICK	KORTREAT
PASTE	HISS	ELLA
UPPER	ALOE	ESAU
TEARY	TOMS	NEST

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13
14			15					16
17			18					19
20								21
22								23	24	25		26	27	28
29								30				31
32								33				34
35								36				37
38								39				40
41								42				43
44								45				46
47								48				49
50								51				52
53								54				55
56								57				58
59								60				61
62								63				64

PURSUE YOUR PASSION

Enroll in the Minor in Entrepreneurship

Commercial • Social • Scientific • Artistic

Open to undergraduates in the College of Arts and Sciences
Permission required before registration

Get details at www.unc.edu/cei/minor

UNC
CAROLINA ENTREPRENEURIAL INITIATIVE

Turning Ideas into Enterprises
www.unc.edu/cei • cei@unc.edu