Child of two faces worshipped as deity

FROM STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

A baby with two faces born last month in India is being worshipped as the reincarnation of a Hindu goddess.

The baby, named Lali, shows the signs of an extremely rare condition known as craniofacial duplication. Except for her ears, all of Lali's facial features are duplicated, though she has no other detectable health problems. She can drink milk from both mouths and open and shut all four eyes at one time.

About 100 people have been visiting Lali every day to touch her feet out of respect, offer money and receive blessings, her father said. The little girl is being hailed as a return of Durga, the Hindu goddess of valor, a deity traditionally depicted with three eyes and many arms.

NOTED. An argument over who ate the last English muffin ended with head injuries, according to a Beaufort County, S.C., sheriff's report.

A 23-year-old man, thought to be inebriated, became angry upon finding the English muffins gone when he wanted an 11:30 p.m. snack. He chucked a shot glass that hit his roommate, 20, in the face. The roommate then hit him with a vodka bottle. Neither decided to press charges.

QUOTED. "You thought you'd heard it all." — Mara Wilhite, manager of a Wisconsin post office, after it wasn't snow or hail, but wild turkeys that were trying to stop the mailman.

The fowl have been pecking at the postal workers as they make their rounds, attacking the letter carriers with the sharp spurs on their legs and even entered a mail truck to scratch the driver.

CAROLINA 2008 SENIOR CAMPAIGN FOR CAROLINA

PARTICIPATE IN THE 2008 SENIOR CAMPAIGN FOR CAROLINA!

While the senior marshals endorse Carolina for Kibera (CFK), gifts made by seniors to any University fund count toward campaign participation.

If we reach our goal of 30.5% class participation (1,151 donors), an anonymous donor will give $25,000 to CFK. Also, if you choose to give to CFK, David '69 and Becky Pardue will match your gift $1 for $1 up to $25,000.

Wherever you choose to give, your gift will have an immediate impact. Private support provides 24% of Carolina's budget and helps open doors of opportunity for students, the community and the world.
