Deputy hazed, Tased at bachelor party

FROM STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

A bachelor party for a Knox County, Maine, sheriff's deputy in which the groom-to-be was shot with a Taser, handcuffed, hog-tied with duct tape, oiled and feathered and then paraded through downtown strapped to a lawn chair on the back of a flatbed truck is now under investigation by Sheriff Donna Dennison after a video was uploaded to the Internet.

In the video, about 10 men are seen outdoors carousing on what appears to be private property, and drinking was involved.

"It will be under investigation," Dennison said. "Everybody in law enforcement is expected to act appropriately when out in public."

The penalty for a Class D crime is up to one year in jail and up to a $2,000 fine.

NOTED. A 22-year-old was arrested after allegedly selling phony crack cocaine to residents of a Jacksonville, Fla., nursing home.

Police said a man was selling small pieces of bread that looked like crack cocaine in Tylenol pill bottles to the clients at the center for $5.

The center was targeted, police said, because the man, Hillmon Arnold needed money to support his own drug habit, the report said.

QUOTED. "They have different ideas on how the baby should be raised. Basically, she said they cannot agree on which gang the baby would 'claim.'"

— Colorado police Sgt. Joe Sandoval, about a man arrested after fighting with his girlfriend about which gang their 4-year-old son should join. The mother is a member of the Crips, and the father is member of the Westside Ballers.

"I don't care about the sticker. What concerns me is did his emotional attachment to KU affect the preparation of the team for the game and their performance and will it be repeated whenever we meet KU again. Roy, put KU on the schedule and put the past behind you."
