The Daily Tar Heel

VOLUME 116, ISSUE 34

www.dailytarheel.com

FRIDAY, APRIL 18, 2008

MUM'S THE WORD

Tyler Hansbrough watches video footage with Marcus Ginyard during the team's end-of-year banquet Thursday night. Wayne Ellington, Ty Lawson and Hansbrough have yet to announce their NBA plans.

No announcement on NBA futures

BY DAVID ELY

On a night meant for laughter and fun, fans of the North Carolina men's basketball team had to be reminded of such during the middle of UNC's annual end-of-vear awards ceremony Thursday night at the Smith Center

This is a night about celebration," assistant coach Steve Robinson pleaded to a group of forlorn-looking Tar Heel fans.

He went on to tell the attend-ees about his days at Florida State, where people would "cut some arms and legs off to have a 36-win season" just to lighten up the mood.

But who could blame the UNC faithful for being a little anxious during all the festivities, what with the black cloud of the NBA hanging above the heads of Wayne Ellington. Tyler Hansbrough and Ty Lawson.

And for those hoping for a repeat of last season's banquet in which Hansbrough and Lawson announced their returns to Chapel Hill, mum was the word Thursday.
None of the three has announced a decision on his basketball future, and all declined to speak with the media after the event.

"What are they going to say?" head coach Roy Williams said. "They haven't made a decision."

Williams said, however, that by today he will have spoken to 18 NBA teams to gauge the trio's pro pros-pects and that he expected a deci-sion to be made before the April 27 deadline to declare for the draft.

Until then, though, people throughout Chapel Hill will be forced to prolong the now-13-day-

SEE BANQUET, PAGE 5

Police say this photo is of Lawrence Alvin Lovette attempting to use Eve Carson's ATM card. Reports suggest it was taken before her death.

Carson warrants still are sealed

BY MAX ROSE

Six search warrants and affidavits related to the shooting death of Eve Carson remain sealed at the request of Chapel Hill police.
Police Chief Brian Curran confirmed Thursday that Superior Court Judge Carl Fox ordered the contents kept from public record.

The documents include search warrants for the homes of both Demario James Atwater and Lawrence Alvin Lovette, Curran said. Both have been indicted for first-degree murder in the case.

Documents can be sealed to protect witnesses or to prevent the distribution of information that only the suspect would know, he said.

"That's how we separate real witnesses from fake ones," Curran

But The Durham Herald Company, which operates the Chapel Hill Herald, is suing to have the warrants unsealed.

"We suspect that the information in those warrants should be a matter of public record," Herald-Sun Editor Bob Ashley said.

The April 28 hearing, at which a judge is likely to decide whether to open the files, might give the pub-lic its first glimpse of the events of the morning Carson died.

"I do think on the 28th there vill be some information," said Jim Woodall, Orange County district attorney and prosecutor in the case

"I'm assuming the judge will want some discussion of what the state alleges to be the facts in this

The (Raleigh) News & Observer is reporting that a surveillance photo police say is of Lovette attempting to use Carson's ATM card was time stamped at 3:55 a.m., slightly more than one hour before police found Carson's body at the intersection of Hillcrest Circle and Hillcrest Road.

The newspaper is reporting that the ATM was at Bank of America near University Mall, about a threeminute drive from the crime scene.

Police would not confirm the time of the photo or say whether they think Carson was in the car.

More information might be released at a May 5 hearing, when Woodall expects to announce whether he intends to seek a death sentence for Atwater.

> Staff Writer Kristen Cresante contributed reporting. Contact the City Editor at citydesk@unc.edu.

Districts change commissioner race

The difference between an Efland farmer and a Chapel Hill banker couldn't be more clear.

But many residents aren't sure if area-specific representation will be good for the county as a whole.

Tuesday's INSIDE early voting Profiles of two marks the first candidates up county commisfor the board of sioner race since commissioners. a 2006 move to PAGE 3 allocate seats between two voting districts. Previously, all comoners were elected at large.

The board also will expand by Current commissioners said they hope the change will diver-sify the board. Some, however, are nervous taneously register and vote early for the May 6 N.C. primary. As of 4 p.m., 584 people had voted at the planetarium site. Chief Judge of Elections James Weathers said most voters were students stopping by between class. He added that he expects turnout to grow, predicting lines out the door by next Tuesday.

Chancellor James Moeser, Chapel Hill Mayor Kevin Foy and Student Body President J.J.

Raynor filled out their ballots early in the afternoon.

"I think people should always that the redistricting will divide the county. Chairman Barry Jacobs said he is concerned that commissioners might be more preoccupied with their districts than with the county as a whole. "I've been told that by elected officials, former elected officials and managers," he said. Steve Yuhasz is one of four candidates competing for the seat available in district two, which represents the northern, more rural part of the county outside of the Chapel Hill-Carborro area.

He thinks the redistricting will ensure representation for northern Orange County.

"Certain people in basically what is the O.C. school district area have felt that they didn't have a voice," he said.

"The district two residents

One-stop voting kicks off in county primary day. "I don't think you

Outside the planetarium Students for Barack Obama gave voters cookies and blue balloons. Members of Heels for Hillary and supporters of Hampton and supporters of Hampton Dellinger for lieutenant governor also came to campaign.

Raven Moeslinger, a volunteer for Obama, said the group plans to be outside the planetarium until one-stop voting ends May 3.

"We've gotten a lot of nods," said Noel Bynum, assistant director of Heels for Hillary. "I'll be out here again."

Offe-stop voting kicked off
Thursday at four Orange County locations, including the Morehead Planetarium. Residents can simul
ON THE BALLOT:

ON THE BALLOT:

Presidential can

Presidential can

U.S. Senate

uld waste a vote."

haven't had anyone who is directly the importance of internalizing the needs of the county as a whole, the districts are dramatically different

Presidential candidates

Commissioner of Insurance
Commissioner of Labor

■ N.C. Senate District 23

County Commission

■ Superintendent of Public

Court of Appeals judge
District Court judge
Land transfer tax referendum

— Compiled by staff writers Becca Denison and Evan Rose.

■ U.S. Senate

■ N.C. Governor

■ State Auditor

N.C. Lt. Governor

Although candidates also stressed accountable to them."

Orange County elections

Where commissioners and candidates live in relation to recent redistricting:

DISTRICTS (Previously not divided) District 1 District 2

DISTRICT I CANDIDATES (Two seats)

Democrat Ø Republican

DISTRICT 2 CANDIDATES (One seat)

Democrat Republican

AT-LARGE (One seat)

Democrat Republican

SOURCE: WWW.CO.ORANGE.NC.US DTH/REBECCA ROLFE AND ALLIE WASSUM

areas with unique needs Luther Brooks, another district two candidate, is opposed to the land-transfer tax, which is more SEE ELECTION, PAGE 5

Jewish community prepares for Passover

STAFF WRITER

Six-year-old Mendel Bluming of Chapel Hill searched his house for bread Thursday using a feather, a spoon and a candle.
"The candle represents our souls that have to find bad parts in our bodies that tell us not to do the right thing," Mendel said as his father, Rabbi Zalman Bluming, quizzed him on Jewish traditions. Mendel was searching for the Chometz as part of the Bluming family's preparation for Passover, the Jewish festival of freedom.

Passover, which begins Saturday is a week-long Jewish holiday and festival commemorating the liberation from slavery under the Egyptian pharaoh and the following exodus of the Israelites led by Moses.

The holiday is also meant for worshippers to focus on finding freedom from vices, or their own pharaohs, Rabbi Bluming said. There are two Seder meals, which take place on the first and second nights of Passover. At those meals. families gather over a Kosher meal and pass on Jewish traditions.

The Blumings belong to the local Chabad chapter, which serves students on the campuses of UNC and Duke University. Chabad is the largest outreach Jewish organization in the world.

Passover celebrations at Chapel

SEE PASSOVER, PAGE 5

Rabbi Zalman Bluming and his son, Mendel, seen holding matza, practice for Saturday's Jewish Passover celebration.

Passover gatherings

Minyan Shabbat Morning

➤ 10 a.m. today ➤ 127 Mallette St.

Hillel Passover Seder ➤ 6 p.m. Saturday

➤ 210 W. Cameron Ave. ➤ Register at nchillel.org

Chabad Peasach Seder

> 7:45 p.m. Saturday and Sunday ➤ 127 Mallette St.

➤ Suggested donation $18, with reservations made to Yehudis Bluming at 942-7663

online | dailytarheel.com

re again."

UNIVERSITY The APPLES servicelearning program hands out awards.

CITY A Carrboro task force is lobbying for a library in the town.

10-year-old Sadie Frank hosts a bilingual radio show for WCOM. STATE Students plan a petition to support undocumented students.

The Supreme Court upholds the use of Kentucky's lethal injection method.

ARTS 'Franco-Arabic Cultures Today,' a film festival, is this weekend.

city page 4

Chancellor James Moeser gets his ballot in the Morehead

Planetarium to vote early for the May 6 N.C. primary.

ON THE AIRWAVES

Town and University leaders, as well as activist and arts groups, met Thursday during the annual WCHL forum to discuss issues facing the community.

this day in history

APRIL 18, 1982 ...

The UNC men's baseball team beats Duke's nine, 3-0. The game is the team's seventh win in a row in the midst of a 24-23 record.

weather

index

police log sports 9