DAILY DOSE

Dad sends 9-year-old on beer run

FROM STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

On the eve of Thanksgiving, a father and son tried to start a new family tradition.

Joshua Fagan was arrested for endangering a minor and has been charged with child abuse after having his 9-year-old son make a beer run.

Fagan said he is always too drunk to drive and thought he was playing it safe by making his son take the wheel instead.

Neighbors said Fagan lost his job in construction, his wife divorced him and he is a single father caring for two sons.

"They go camping; they go fishing; they love each other," said Fagan's neighbor Leslie Gower. "I know he's a good father, but he's probably stressed."

NOTED. More than 160 mountain bikers suffered food poisoning caused by contaminated sheep droppings along the Welsh countryside.

The cyclists tested positive for a bacterium that is usually caused by consuming uncooked meat and poultry. They are believed to have gotten sick by eating snacks and meals during the event without washing their hands first.

NOTED. Utah State Sen. Chris Butters wants to outlaw "Happy Holidays" from retail marketing.

He is sponsoring a resolution that asks the legislature to oppose what he calls the "War on Christmas."

Butters said retailers should embrace Christmas in their promotions and celebrate the fact that the United States is a Christian nation.

POLICE LOG

■ A Pittsboro resident was arrested Monday for possession of crack cocaine, according to Chapel Hill police reports.

Authorities found 0.3 grams of the drug in Andras Miguel Lahocinsky's, 40, yellow-blue Mazda Blazer. Lahocinsky faces a felony charge of possession of a schedule II narcotic and a misdemeanor charge of possession of drug paraphernalia, reports state.

He was released in lieu of $3,000 bond and is expected in court today, according to reports.

■ Police were at the scene of an accident Sunday when the car's owner called to report it stolen, according to Carrboro police reports.

Police found the owner intoxicated by his home after he did not meet authorities by his car, which was overturned in a ditch on Old Pittsboro Road, reports state.

The owner said he parked the car at a friend's house and took a taxi home, although a Carrboro firefighter said he saw the owner and another person walking away from the wrecked car, reports state.

The owner's keys and cell phone were in the vehicle, reports state.

■ A suspicious man carrying a dog was reported Monday, according to Carrboro police reports.

The complainant said that when her children approached the man on Pathway Drive, he said, "You don't want to pet this dog," reports state. Police couldn't locate the man.
