Another Scientific Wonder!

GREAT CURE FOR

DYSPEPSIA!

DR. J. S. HOUGHTON'S

PEPSIN THE TRUE DIGESTIVE FLUID, OR, GASTRIC JUICE.

Prepared from RENNET, or the fourth STOM-ACH OF THE OX, after directions of BARON LEEBIG, the great Physiological Chemist, by J.
S. HOUGHTON, M. D., Philadelphia, Pa.

This is a truly wonderful remedy for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Liver Complaint, Constipation, and Debility, Curing after Nature's own method, by Nature's own Agent, the Gastric Juice.

Half a teaspoonful of Pepsin, infused in water, will digest or dissolve, Five Pounds of Roast Beef in about two hours, out of the stomach.

PEPSIN is the chief element, or Great Digesting Principle of the Gastric Juice—the Solvent of the Food, the Purifying, Preserving, and Stimulating Agent of the Stomach and Intestines. It is extracted from the Digestive Stomach of the Ox, thus forming an Artificial Digestive Fluid, precisely like the natural Gastric Juice in its Chemical powers, and furnishing a complete and perfect substitute for it. By the aid of this preparation, the pains and evils of Indigestion and Dyspepsia are removed just as they would be by a healthy Stomach. It is doing wonders for Dyspepsia, curing cases of Debility, Emaciation, Nervous Decline, and Dyspeptic Consumption, supposed to be on the verge of the grave. The Scientific Evidence upon which it is based, is in the highest degree curious and remarkable.

SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE!
BARON LEBIG in his celebrated work on Animal Chemistry, says: "An Artificial Digestive Fluid, analogous to the Gastric Juice, may be readily prepared from the mucous membrane of the stomach of the Calf, in which various articles of food, as meat and eggs, will be softened, changed, and digested, just in the same manner as they would be in the human stomach."

Dr. COVENS, in his valuable writings on the "Physiology of Digestion," observes that "a diminution of the due quantity of the Gastric Juice is a prominent and all-prevailing cause of Dyspepsia," and he states that "a distinguished professor of medicine in London, who was severely afflicted with this complaint, finding everything else to fail, had recourse to the Gastric Juice, obtained from the stomachs of living animals, which proved completely successful."

Dr. GRAHAM, author of the famous works on "Vegetable Diet," says: "It is a remarkable fact in physiology, that the stomachs of animals, macerated in water, impart to the fluid the property of dissolving various articles of food, and of effecting a kind of artificial digestion of them in no wise different from the natural digestive process."

Call on the Agent, and get a Descriptive Circular, gratis, giving a large amount of scientific evidence, similar to the above, together with Reports of remarkable cures, from all parts of the United States

AS A DYSPEPSIA CURER.

Dr. HOUGHTON'S Pepsin has produced the most marvellous effects, in curing cases of Debility, Emaciation, Nervous Decline, and Dyspeptic Consumption.
It is impossible to give the details of cases in the limits of this advertisement; but authenticated certificates have been given of more than two hundred remarkable cures, in Philadelphia, New York and Boston alone. These were nearly all desperate cases, and the cures were not only rapid and wonderful, but permanent.

It is a great Nervous Antidote, and particularly useful for tendency to Bilious disorder, Liver Complaint, Fever and Ague, or badly treated Fever & Ague, and the evil effects of Quinine, Mercury, and other drugs upon the Digestive Organs, after a long sickness. Also, for excess in eating, and the too free use of ardent spirits. It almost reconciles Health with Intemperance.

Dr. HOUGHTON'S Pepsin, is sold by nearly all the dealers in fine drugs and Popular Medicines, throughout the United States. It is prepared in Powder and in Fluid form—and in Prescription vials for the use of Physicians.

Private Circulars for the use of Physicians, may be obtained of Dr. Houghton or his Agents, describing the whole process of preparation, and giving the authorities upon which the claims of this new remedy are based. As it is not a secret remedy, no objection can be raised against its use by Physician inrespectable standing and regular practice. Price ONE DOLLAR per bottle.

The Irishman and the Deacon.

A few months ago, as Deacon Ingalls, of Swampscot, R. I. was traveling through the western part of the State of New York, he fell in with an Irishman who had lately arrived in this country, and who was in quest of a brother that came before him and settled in some of the diggings in that vicinity.

Pat was a strong athletic man; a true Catholic, and had never seen the interior of a Protestant church. It was a pleasant Sabbath morning that brother Ingalls met Pat, who inquired for the road nearest to the church.

Ingalls was a good pious man. He told Pat he was going to church himself, and invited his new made acquaintance to accompany him thither, his place of destination being a small Methodist meeting house near by. There was a great revival there at that time, and one of the deacons, (who by the way, was very small in stature,) invited brother I to take a seat in his pew. He accepted the invitation and walked in, followed by Pat, who looked in vain to find the altar, &c.
After he was seated he turned to brother I, and in a whisper which could be heard all around, inquired—

"Sure, and isn't this a heretic church?"
"Hush!" said Ingalls "if you speak a loud word they will put you out."

"Devil a word will I speak at all," replied Pat.
The meeting was opened with prayer by the pastor. Pat was eyeing him very closely, when presently an old gentleman who was standing in the pew directly in front of Pat, shouted "glory." "His-st, ye clear devil," rejoined Pat, with his loud whisper, which was heard by the minister, "be decent and don't make a blackguard of yourself!"

The parsons grew more and more fervent in their devotions. Presently the deacon uttered an inaudible groan. "His-st, ye blackguard, have ye no decency at all, at all?" said Pat at the same moment giving the deacon a punch in the ribs, which caused him to lose his equilibrium.
The minister stopped, and extending his hand in a supplicating manner, said, "Brethren, we cannot be disturbed in this way, will some one be kind enough to put that man out?"

"Yes, your reverence," shouted Pat, "I will."
And suiting the action to the word, he collared the deacon, and to the utter horror and astonishment of the pastor, brother Ingalls, and the whole congregation, he dragged him through the aisle, and with a tremendous kick, a posteriori, as the logicians say, he landed him in the vestibule of the church.

A Whisper to Gentlemen.

BY FANNY FEEN.

Jupiter Ammon! don't I Wish I was a man, just to show the masculines how to play their part in the world a little better! In the first place, there ain't a mother's son of you that has got as far as A B C in the art of making love, (and I've seen a few abortions in that way, myself, as well as the rest of the sisters.) What woman wants to be told that "her feet and eyes are pretty," or "her form and smile bewitching?" Just as if she didn't know all her fine points as soon as she is tall enough to peep into the looking glass!

No, you ineffable donkey, if you must use the small coin of flattery to pay toll at the bridge of your affections, let me whisper a secret in your long ears. Compliment her upon some mental attraction she does not possess, (if you can find one!) and don't wear the knees of your pet pants threadbare, at her feet, trying to make her believe that she is your "first love." We all know that is among the things that were, after you are out of jackets and trousers.

What a splendiferous husband I (Fanny) should have made, to be sure! had Providence only so ordained it! Do you suppose when the mother of my glorious boys wanted a sixpence to buy their shoestrings, I'd scowl at her like a hyena, and pull my porte-monee out of my pocket as if I were drawing a tooth? Do you suppose when her blue eyes grew lustreless, and the rose paled on her fair cheek, trotting round the domestic tread-mill day after day, that I'd come home at night sulky and silent, and smoke my cigar in her face till her eyes were as red as a rabbit's? or take myself off to a club or a game at nine pins, or any other game and leave her to the exhilarating relaxation of darning my stockings.

Do you suppose I'd trot along, like a loose pony at her side in the street, and leave her to keep up with me or not, as her strength would permit?
Do you suppose I'd fly into a passion and utter words to crush the life from out her young heart, and then insult her by offering a healing plaster in the shape of a new bonnet? And don't you suppose when the anniversary of our wedding day came round, I'd write a dainty little note and leave it on her toilet table, and let her know I was still a married lover?

Pshaw! I'm sick of you all. You don't deserve the love of a generous, high souled woman! If you want a housekeeper, hire one and be done with it. If you want a wife—but you don't!

One woman will answer as well as another, to sew on your buttons, and straps, and strings, and make your puddings, and so on and so forth.

Do you suppose we have cultivated our minds and improved the bright and glorious gift of intellect, to the best of our capacity, to minister only to your physical wants? Not a bit of it!— When that's over we want something rational.
Do you ever think of that, you selfish wretch, when you sit, with your feet on the mantelpiece, reading the newspaper all to yourself or sit from tea time till ten o'clock, staring the ashes in the grate out of countenance?

Lord Harry! If I had such a block of a husband, I'd scare up the ghost of a lover, somewhere if there's any wit in woman!

From the New York Sun.

A Horrible Affair.

A German named Ronge, and his wife residing in Newark, N. J., were found, on Wednesday, dead, and their bodies in an advanced state of decomposition. They had been missed by the other occupants of the house since Saturday evening. Suspicious being excited by the stench issuing from the room, the door was burst open, when a most appalling sight was presented.— They were found lying upon the bed, bloated, disfigured and corrupted to a great extent.— They were in their night clothes under the coverlet, with their faces turned partially to each other. Their bodies were infested with vermin and the face and breast of the woman were disfigured by violence and corruption. The bed had been soaked in blood, the drops of which were also spattered about the room and on the furniture. A doubled barreled pistol was found between the bodies, which was evidently the instrument of destruction to the woman, as her forehead had been shattered by the bullet. An Inquest was held on the bodies, and the jury returned the following verdict:

"That the said Bernard Ronge and Caroline Ronge came to their death on the night of Saturday, June 26th, 1852, at the house No. 4 Academy street, in the city of Newark; that Caroline Ronge's death was caused by a pistol shot in the hands of her husband, Bernard Ronge, and that Bernard Ronge came to his death by a pistol shot in his own hands."

The parties formerly resided at No. 76, Christie street, N. Y. from whence they removed to Newark on the first of June. Ronge was some twenty years older than his wife, and it is said was jealous of her, on account of a young man who formerly resided at the same house with them in New York. Mrs. Ronge was intending to visit New York, on the following day.

The following letter was taken from the post office by the coroner. It shows the relation existing between Mr. Ronge and Gotthart Denij.
It is addressed to Mrs. Carolina Denij, his usual method of addressing her being the same as if she were his wife. The letter is post-marked June 13. On last Friday a letter was found in the room by Ronge, who not being himself able to read, had procured some of his friends to read it to him. The certain information obtained from this letter, of his wife's connexion, probably was the ultimate incentive to the desperate deed.
The original letter was enclosed in two envelopes the outer being directed to Mrs. Denij. (Ronge) and the inner one being intended to inclose her answer, as it was superscribed with Denij's own address. The following translation was made by officer Buchineyer, for the information of the jury:

NEW YORK, June 15.
MY DEAR CAROLINE.—I have no peace and no rest, my dear soul. I cannot wait for your letter.
Oh! dear child, what may you have suffered on my account. Comfort yourself, dear soul, and do not let yourself be ill-treated by him. Go away from him and leave your things behind.
When I came back I heard of my horror that he had been in my shop and in my boarding house, and made inquiry after— Beloved heart! from this time my whole aim shall be to leave this place. I see it will not do to remain.
To-morrow I'll write to you from another place. Good child, write only three lines, how things went on with you when you arrived home.
Did he do anything to you? Oh! my beloved I would be the most miserable being, if so. How can I reward you, good child; you have sacrificed your life and every thing for me. I would rather die at any hour than to leave you behind.
P. S. I'll finish this, beloved one, with the hope that these few lines may reach you in good health and spirits. Don't take it to heart, and trust to your eternally faithful Gotthart, who will at every time assist you in need, even with his life, at every minute. Farewell—forever well—until we see each other again. A thousand kisses from your faithful Gotthart.

It is now half past five o'clock. I go to the shop to regain the time I have lost.
