DAILY PROGRESS

WEDNESDAY MORNING, DEC. 8, 1858.

Written for the Daily Progress. Lines to a Friend,

BY BEATRICE. When first we met, 'twas bright Spring hours;

All nature smiling seemed, The gardens blushed in blooming flowers,

The trees were dressed in green? When next we met, 'twas a summer night, The wind went softly by: The stars came out like diamonds bright

Set in the azure sky. How sweetly then the moments passed When thou wert by my side; I thought the charm would ever last,

I wished for nought beside. Twas sweet to live beneath the gaze Of thy pure truthful eyes, That seemed to catch their sparkling rays

From diamonds in the sky? But now, alas! thou art far away; The days will come and go, And I may in the dark tomb lay 'Ere I shall see thee more?

Yet while to me my life is given I'll ever think of thee? And will thou too, till life is riven. My friend, remember me? Newbern, Dec. 1858.

The change was astonishing; the full-blown belle at one moment, the next looked like a lamp post with a silk dress tied around it. For a moment also the young lady was quite unconscious of the accident. In another she saw the full extent of it, and for the next half hour had, undoubtedly, the most brilliant complexion in the

THE TELEGRAPH TO CUBA .- The long talkedof project of establishing telegraphic communication between the United States and Cuba is, according to the Washington Star, about to be carried into effect. C. C. Walden. Esq., late Deputy Collector at New York, Superintendant in this country of the Cuban Telegraph Company, has received instructions from Havana to commence the construction of the route between Savannah and Fernandia, and Messrs. Mora Brothers and Eavaro have placed the necessary funds at his disposal.

The Key West Key of the Gulf learns from Havana that the application to the Spanish Court for permission to run the sub-marine cable from that city to Key West, has been granted by her Catholic Majesty, solely upon the condition that both ends of the cable are to be under Spanish control; and, if otherwise, the application is to be considered rejected.

If this be true, it will not be a source of regret if it proves as unsuccessful as its Atlantic cousin has done. - Aug. Georgia Dispatch.

THE DEVIL TO BE DRIVEN OUT OF NEW YORK. This morning, the Mayor received a communication from a man giving his name as Jesse B. He says he can effectually wipe out all vagabonds, rascals and thieves from existence. Gotham would be a grand place for him to make his debut, as there is elenty of materials to work upon. It is advisable that the major part of the inhabitants of this city look out, or they may be "wiped" out berore they know it.—New York Day Book, 25th.
