PRESIDENT BUCHANAN AND HIS HABITS OF LIFE. -One of the Washington correspondents of the New York Tribune gives the following as to President Buchanan's routine of life at Washington:

"He is exacting in the department of decipline and like Nelson, expected every man to do his duty. He works systematically after his fashion ten or twelve hours a day, and is by no means pleased when members of the cabinet are absent. No former President ever explored details in the same manner, and this may be one of the reasons why he is subjeted to so many small annoyances, and hears so much personally that had better come through a preparatory channel.

"The door of his reception room is thrown open regularly at one o'clock, except on cabinet days, then a promiscuous crowd by a sort of conventional courtesy of precedence, tell their griefs, expand upon their services, and submit their applications. The scene is generally amusing, but some sad episodes of privation and distress often tinge these unceremonious receptions, at which everybody walks in unannounced, and waits for his turn as asleep; great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

To make the first at a postate. It into the first at a postate. It is into the first at a postate that may be thrown in. He is a man of methodical habits, of Conestoga constitution, and robust health He rises early, breaktasts early, reads the papers, and then sits down to work more ercise is taken in the evening, after which he returns to his office or the drawing-room, and either

GENERAL JAIL DELIVERY .- Yesterday afternoon, says the Charlotte Bulletin of Friday, four prisoners, one convicted at the last Court (Floyd,) and under sentence of death, broke jail through the aid of Wall, awaiting trial for Larceny and escaped beyond limits of the city before it was known that they had broke jail. Pursuit was immediately made by the Sheriff and several officers with a number of citizens. About a mile from town; Floyd was overtaken by Mr. S. A Harris and Gen. Young, and brought back to the jail, where he has been safely impris-

Wall, Stockton and a free negro man, (the two former confined to await their trial under the charge of larceny, and the latter for a misdemeanor,) are yet at large. It appears that Wall, succeeded in picking the ock of his cell, and then liberated his fellow prisoners, who congregated, in the Debtors room on the 2d floor, and when the servants had passed the room to ascend to the 3d story to supply the

As soon as the alarm was given every effort was made to recapture the party, but, as we All impediments to Marriage, Physical or Mental have already stated, only Floyd has been re-Disqualifications, Loss of Procreative Power, Ner- taken.

KOSSUTH ON SYMPATHY .- In the speech of Kos-

"I have lived too long and too practical a life," said he, "to do vain things. Sympathy-what is that? A sigh that flutters from the lips of a tender girl, and dies in the whispers of the breeze. People in their individual capacity may know of sympathy, but when a people's aggregate sentiments become collected in the crucible of policy. sympathy vanishes in the air, like the diamond when burnt, and nothing there remains but an empty crucible, surrounde I with the ashes of gross egotism. The time has not yet come when nations will act from sympathy. That may be done when the world shall know of one Christian natfon on earth. Until now, I know of Christian men and women, but I know of no Christian nation, because I know of none which, in its national policy, ever has acted upon the Christian command, 'Do unto others as thou wouldst have others do unto thee.' " A DELICATE REBUKE.-Mr. Webster wrote after continued provocation, to the editor of newspaper, which referred to his private affairs, and especially on his not paying his debts. He said substantially: "It is true that I have not always paid my debts punctually, and that I owe money. One cause of this is, that I cave not pressed those who owe me for payment. As an instance of this, I enclose your father's note, made to me thirty years ago, for money lent him to educate his boys.' REWARD .-- Ranaway from the sub $50 REWARD. There are serribor, Negro boy EDWARD. There are strong reasons for believing he is lurking in and around Newbern. He is light colored, somewhat knock-kneed, about 18 years old, and about a height ranging between five feet six or eight inches; he has rather an aquiline nose, and generally smiles when spoken to, with rather a confidential air, not very strongly built. I will give $50 reward to any person who will deliver to me, or so safely confine him in jail or otherwise that I can get him. His father, Dick Tucker, belonging to Mr. John Flanner, lives in Newbern, and raised him. His former owner is Mr. Raymond Castix, all
