Mr. Stallings on the Ticket.

The County Democratic Executive Committee met in the court house at Warrenton Saturday. Chairman J. H. Kerr presided and T. O. Rodwell was secretary. There were ten men out of twelve present. Mr. Kerr stated the object of the meeting to be for the purpose of naming a man on the board of County Commissioners, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of R. B. Davis. THE READING ROOMS.

Nice Rooms Fitted Up Over Loyd's Store by the Alpha Class.

The Alpha Class of the Norlina Methodist church has fitted up two nice rooms over J. T. Loyd's store. These rooms will be used by the members of the class and the public generally to spend the evenings in a profitable as well as pleasant manner. The rooms have already been supplied with some of the daily and weekly newspapers and the leading magazines, and a library will be started as soon as it is possible to do so. Besides this reading department, some innocent games can be played.

The spirit with which this reading room has been started is to be commended and it is hoped that it will be a means of doing much good.

We are requested to give a cordial invitation to one and all, and especially the stranger within our gates, to visit the rooms and spend a few moments, in reading or social chat.

The rooms at night will be in charge of one member of the class, who will not only look after the comfort of each visitor, but will keep the best of order.

An Unusual Attraction.

As a rule the dramatization of popular books are disappointing. The furnish only the idea, making necessary to take liberties that cause the characters to lose their identity when presented in dramatic form. True there are a few notable exceptions but the cases are rare and rarer still are the books that find favor when taken from play. The one possible exception is "The Virginian," the plan being first produced shortly after the first edition of the book was sold. Book and play alike possess a romantic charm and literary grace that has placed them at the top of unqualified success. The play which has seldom been outside the large cities, is acknowledged to have no counterpart in its class, while the book is bought after and read with the same enthusiasm as when first introduced. Jones and Crane's magnificent production of "The Virginian" will be the attraction at the Opera House in Warrenton on Thursday, Oct. 15th. and that it will prove one of the really enjoyable offerings of the current season goes without saying.

Mrs. John L. Hilliard.

Mrs. John L. Hilliard is dead. This announcement will produce feelings of sadness, mingled with joy, in the hearts of many—sadness that they shall see the face of this good woman on earth no more—joy that she has entered into that blessed world of which she so often spoke of and toward which for nearly 50 years she had been journeying.

Mrs. Hilliard was born at the old Cole homestead, near the Virginia line in Oct., 1840, and died at the residence of her son, Peter E. Hilliard, on Oct. 2nd., 1914, in the 74th year of her age.

In early girl hood she surrendered herself to Christ and joined Mt. Auburn Christian church where she remained a member until she joined the church of the glorified on high.

Besides her sister, daughters and sons, she leaves a large number of loving friends who sorrow because they will see her face no more, but she has gone to meet a large circle who passed over before her, one by one into the palace of the King, and before this she has doubtless met her father, mother, brothers and sisters who died long ago and others, just as dear, who have long been waiting and watching for her coming. Surely of her may be said, "she hath done what she could."

On Saturday afternoon loving friends gathered to sympathize with her bereaved family and to pay the last tribute of love to her memory. They tenderly bore her body to its last resting place beside the members of her family who had gone before. The burial service was conducted by Mr. S. P. Read. A NEICE.

See Warren County Registry, Book 44, Page 265. This, the 8th day of October, 1914.
