THE Southern Baptist-Convention meets this year at Washington, D. C. The question which will probably create most interest in its discussions will be the young people's movement. There is a great diversity of opinion as to the prominent position being taken by the young in religious matters, which portends an entire revolution in religious methods. The wisest cannot foresee the result. Progression in commerce, in the arts and sciences seems to be all right—but progression in religion, on the basis of commerce—we don't know about it.

TO THE MERCHANTS OF Wilkes, Ashe, Alleghany, Alexander, Watauga, Caldwell, and ADJOINING COUNTIES:

I have just returned from New York where I bought the largest stock of goods ever brought to Northwestern North Carolina. This stock of goods was bought expressly for the jobbing trade, and I will sell them as cheap as any house in Baltimore or Richmond, with the freight added, and on a great many goods I will save the freight. To cash customers, I will give regular terms and discounts. I also take country produce at the highest market prices in exchange for goods, which is a great advantage to country merchants. I cordially invite all the merchants in the surrounding country to call and examine my IMMENSE STOCK. Respectfully, L. A. JARVIS, North Wilkesboro, N. C., Feb. 12, 1895.
