Resolutions.-A correspondent of The N. Y. World thus writes concerning the resources of North Carolina: "Few people outside of this State know what its resources really are. To ride along through it on the cars and see the barrenness of the soil in many places, and the poverty of the inhabitants in all parts; immense wastes of land uncultivated, and the towns along the route mere hamlets of half a dozen squallid looking houses, is not calculated to give a very high idea of the condition of the State; but a closer inquiry will reveal the fact that in the State is produced almost every article known to commerce. Its mineral wealth is inexhaustible. Gold, silver, lead, coal, mica and other minerals abound in some portions of the State. In the west is some of the finest grazing land in the world. The South grows excellent cotton, the North tobacco and corn. Turpentine is produced in large quantities in various parts of the State, and all kind of vegetables are found in every part. All that the State needs to increase greatly in prosperity is proper and wise legislation."

The Boon Hill Tragedy.-Of the suicide of Mrs. R. D. Perry of Boon Hill, The Goldsboro' Messenger of the 20th inst. We have seen and heard so many conflicting reports and rumors touching this affair that we have taken the trouble to procure correct information and full particulars. The unfortunate lady was the wife of Mr. Reuben D. Perry, a young merchant of Boon Hill. She was a daughter of Joshua H. Hening, Esq. of Lenoir county, and had been married to Mr. P. only about ten weeks. The young couple were comfortably settled in the village. There had been nothing occurred in their household generally known as family disturbances. The young bride was esteemed and visited by the superintendant here to manipulate a small pistol that she could even entertain the idea of self-destruction. It is true, however, that on several occasions, when alone with her husband, she would ride out with him, she exhibited melancholy symptoms. Thus on one occasion she desired to know how many apples one could eat to produce death. Again she desired to know how to shoot a body if death was desired. On another occasion a pistol fired accidentally while she was handling it in her own room. It is also stated that she went to the turpentine distillery of her husband, a short distance from the residence, and asked the superintendent how to manipulate a small Smith and Wesson pistol that she exhibited. But nothing in her demeanor had excited the least suspicion of those around her. On the day preceding the tragedy her father, Mr. Herring, who had paid her a visit, returned home. She hid him a hearty farewell and remarked that she felt as if she would be home in an hour. On her return she found a note pinned to the door. On the same day a married sister of Mr. Perry's came to the house to remain on a visit. She was accompanied by a young man and apparently in the best of spirits. On the following morning, Aug. 14th, she was seen going to the garden house. Shortly after the report of a pistol was heard from the house but nothing thought of it. On her not returning search was made. A brother of Mr. Perry's opened the garden house door and found the body of the deceased lying on the floor with her arms and feet resting on the bench. The pistol had fallen to the ground. When taken hold of she rolled her eyes and expired. Her shots had penetrated under her chin and two others had glanced her head. The weapon was a small Smith and Wesson, and had a small bullet which had penetrated her brain. She is supposed to have bled to death. That she did the work herself was very evident and beyond a doubt. Her eyes and ears were open, and rendered their verdict accordingly. The following is a verbatim copy of a note found in her husband's tobacco-pouch, which was in Mrs. P.'s own hand writing: "My husband, I love you better than life but I must leave you. My mind, mind, mind, mind, Farewell, God bless you. Your wife R. D. Perry." No cause can be assigned for the rash act. The general impression is that she committed the deed while in a state of temporary mental aberration. Her age was 20 years. Some weeks ago, while riding out with her husband and passing the cemetery and Mr. Perry's father's place she melancholy asked that she be buried there when she died and said she desired to be dressed in white. This was learned as follows:-

Southern Claims Commission.-The following are the names of the special commissioners of the Southern Claims Commission in this State. These commissioners are authorized to take the testimony of claimants and witnesses in support of any claim not exceeding five thousand dollars in amount, on direct application made to themselves; but where testimony is to be taken in any case over five thousand dollars, in all, it is necessary to apply first to the commissioners at Washington. These special commissioners are the only persons authorized to take testimony for the Claims Commission in this State. In Florida and Texas, and other States where they have no sub-commissioners of their own, the commissioners at Washington permit the commissioners of the United States circuit courts to officiate, provided they follow the rules laid down for the regular sub-commissioners. Where claimants who have filed claims exceeding $10,000 in amount desire to reduce them below that sum, in order to escape the requirement of the late act of Congress that all claims above $10,000 should be heard orally before the Commissioners, and not otherwise, they are to be permitted to file an amended account of items to effect the desired reduction, accompanying it by an express relinquishment of so much of the original account as exceeds $10,000. This amendment to the original claim is to be subscribed and verified by the claimant in every case, and not by the attorney. The commissioners appointed for this State are:- North Carolina-John Minor, Fayetteville, Cumberland county; Joseph Dixon, Hookerton; Greene county; Elmore W. Pundleton, Woodville, Perquimans county; E. R. Hampton, Webster, Jackson county; S. H. Glenn, Red Plains, Yadkin county; W. H. Wiley, Salisbury, Rowan county; J. N. Snelson, Asheville, Buncombe county.

Frightful Accident.-Mr. J. J. Harper, of Bentonsville, Johnston county, furnishes The Goldsboro' Messenger with the following particulars of an accident that happened there on the 15th inst. "On Thursday morning, the 15th inst., about 9 o'clock, little Bobbie Hood, eight years old, son of the widow of the late D. W. Hood, while drawing water from a well, lost his balance and fell into the well. A distance of thirty or forty feet. A number of men immediately ran to the spot, among them William Joyce, a painter in the shop of Messrs. Bentler, Broder and Son, of this place, who volunteered his services, and wrapping the rope round his hands, was let down into the well in time to rescue the child from immediate death. He had sunk to the bottom and was apparently dead, but was restored after some time rubbing. His head struck the curb in the bottom of the well, inflicting three severe wounds, slightly fracturing the skull. The professional services of Dr. T. Underwood were promptly rendered, and up to this time it seems to be doing well, and hopes are entertained of his recovery. Mr. Joyce deserves much credit for his intrepidity on this occasion."

Murderer Caught.-The Goldsboro' Messenger says during the early part of 1871, near La Grange, in Lenoir county, a negro man, Jerry Lassiter, beat a small negro boy to death, and ran away. All efforts to capture him at that time proved unsuccessful, and the affair had been almost forgotten. On the 11th inst., Jerry was caught near La Grange and is now lodged in Jail at Kinston. The capture was effected by Mr. Walters and another gentleman who had been missing melons from their field and had gone out to trap the thief when they overhauled the murderer.

Democratic Friends.-Attention is directed to the Card of Mr. James Sinclair, J. P., in another column. There are five thousand cases throughout the State similar to those referred by Mr. Sinclair. Let them be prosecuted.

Godley's Magazine.-Read the prospectus of this Magazine in another column, and then subscribe. Such a book should be in the hands of every Lady. It is chaste and elegant.
