BRADSTREET'S REPORT, Preparing for the Opening Up of the West Indies.

While as yet showing little actual effect upon distributive trade, there is A Scene of Wild Excitement and evidence that the improved prospects for peace, with probable wider markets for American products, have given a more hopeful tinge to the trade outlook, more particularly at the East. This is reflected in active preparations by shippers and coasting trade interests to share in the expected widening of demand from the West Indies. As for some time past, however, reports of solid business returns came mainly from the Western part of the country, and in the markets of that section are reported signs of the ground swell of fall demand. Signs of cumulative improvement come from the iron and, steel industry, more particularly reported signs of the ground swell of steel industry, more particularly from west of the Alleghenies, where slight advances in prices accompanying a good volume of domestic and export business are reported. Expected activity in ship-building is reflected in the demand for plates at Eastern points. A rather better tone is found reigned.
