JOS. A. HAYWOOD, Ch'm'n Dem. Co. Ex. Com. W. W. WHITE, Ch'm'n Rep. Co. Ex. Com. RALEIGH, Sept. 26, 1876. Let Republicans beware of men who ask them to swap their votes. The revolutionists are desperate about Vance, and if they can swap a vote for Hayes they will do it. Vote the whole Republican ticket from President down. No swapping with Democrats.

The Vancieites' only hope now is in the falling off in the colored vote. Let every colored voter in the State be on guard. Let no reward, or hope of reward, keep a single colored voter from the polls. Remember, your liberties are at stake in this fight. Tilden is now husbanding his resources. Says he won't spend another dollar. It's well he can husband something. Perhaps the "Buckeyes" have stopped his piles. Old folks say that "Buckeyes" will stop piles.

The elections of Hayes and Wheeler. Northern State certain for Hayes and Wheeler. The fate of poor old Horace Greeley awaits the Tammany chief. Go West, Tilden; go west. If the Republicans carried Ohio on Tuesday last by nine thousand, how much should they carry New York in November? Every sensible man must answer, by at least seventy-five thousand. The official returns from Ohio will swell the Republican majority to near ten thousand. Put "old Buckeye" down for 25,000 for Hayes.

ALL SAFE. The latest comparison of the vote of Indiana proves that the State has gone Republican on the Congressional vote. The Democrats sacrificed their members of Congress to save Williams. Leaving out the independent vote, the Republicans have certainly carried the State. Indiana is now certain for Hayes in November. "We are ready for four more years of war." This is what Daniel G. Fowle is reported to have said in his speech at Metropolitan Hall a few nights since. Mark the words: "We are now ready for war!" Is this the effect of the cavalry parade around Vance? We suppose the bargain is, that Hampton is to furnish the rifle clubs and Vance the cavalry. Can we meet them with the artillery of an indignant people's votes? We can. Let us do it. We did it in 1861. We will do it again.

The democrats in some sections of the State are putting out the impression that a portion of the amendments can be voted for while others may be voted against. This is not so and is calculated to mislead some of our friends. The democrats of the opposition refused to submit the amendments to the people separately. They must be voted upon altogether, and every good Republican and Conservative will vote "Rejection."

Will Judge Fowle state exactly what he said in his recent speech in Raleigh, about another four years war. Your speech, Judge, is public property, and we have a right to call for that you said. State it exactly, Judge, for many persons heard it. Do not let it to suit yourself, but give it precisely as you said it.

The Colored People Praying.

We learn that the colored people of the city of Raleigh are praying to God to avert the wrath that will fall upon them; in the event of the election of Tilden and Vance. These poor colored people are very grateful to God for the freedom they have enjoyed in this State, to a greater or less degree, for the last eleven years; but they are fearful, from the signs of the times, that they may lose this freedom, even as their race has lost it in nearly all the States South of us. They cannot tell what God has in store for them, but they are humbling themselves, and they are pleading with their merciful Father to preserve to them and to their children that great gift of civil and religious liberty which they have received at His hands, and not from the hand of man. God rules absolutely in all things. It is not nature, but God, who is always in us and around us. Nothing, however small in our eyes, can occur without His direction or permission. He rules over nations, over tribes, over communities, over all the descendants of Noah, whether in the aggregate, or in nationalities, or as individuals. The distressed and the oppressed cry to Him. In view of impending danger they cry to Him for vain is the help of man. It is proper, therefore, that the colored people of this State should, in this awful crisis of their fate, confess their sins, humble themselves, and pray to Him for His guidance and protection in the dangerous and not distant future that confronts them.

We have said, vain is the help of man. We repeat it. He who depends on man, or on men for succor, for help, for salvation of any kind, when he differs widely from them in his opinions, and does what he thinks is right without regard to any man or set of men, depends on a reed which will break and pierce him through his vitals. John W. Stephens no doubt prayed to men—to the cruel Ku Klux who had the rope around his neck, and the knife drawn to plunge into his heart—but the poor man prayed in vain. They killed him, these Democratic Ku Klux men, and they are now praying to those masked Ku Klux who took him out of his house at midnight, put a rope around his neck and hanged him in the court-house yard in Graham. It is said his aged mother and his little boy clung to him, and prayed to men that they would spare his life, but they prayed in vain. They hung him on a tree near the temple of justice, and the Christian people of Graham passed his body to and fro the next day on their way to church, and did not dare to take him down! They killed him, these Democratic Ku Klux did, because he was a Republican, and had presumed to accept a civil office at the hands of the State government.

But space would fail us to tell of all the murders, assassinations and whippings by the Democratic Ku Klux in this State, during the years 1868, 1869, and 1870. All these people, men and women, thus murdered, or whipped, or cursed, or threatened, or cowed out of their privileges as citizens, no doubt prayed to their enemies to spare them, but they might as well have appealed to the wind or stars. The Dem had ordered it, and the work was done. The colored people can judge of the future only by the past. These same Ku Klux are again aiming at supreme power. They have taken off their masks, they are clothing their faces with smiles, and they are approaching the people with velvet feet and asking them for their votes. Shall we trust them? Have they repented of their sins? Have they offered to make amends to the families of those whom they whipped and murdered? Can the colored people trust them? No! A thousand times No! We do not wonder that the negroes are alarmed. We are not surprised that they are praying. We do not marvel that their "hearts are falling them for fear, and for looking after those things" which may come upon them. Gov. Vance, to express his contempt for them, said in Raleigh, in the presence of ladies, that the negro had nothing but "outstinks." That chaste gentleman is mistaken. The negro has the instinct of liberty as keen in itself and as fully developed as it is in any other race. He learned to love liberty, in the very presence of liberty, for two hundred and fifty years with fetters on his limbs.

Keep it before the people, that M. W. Bansom, the Democratic United States Senator from North Carolina, was introduced at Wentworth, Rockingham county, by a man who is charged with rape and forgery. If this is denied, we stand ready to prove it. How is this for the wealth and intelligence? White men of North Carolina, do you remember that during the war you were not allowed to go beyond the confines of your neighborhood without a pass from some Confederate satrap? Who were those Confederate satraps? They were the same men who now ask you to vote for Zeb Vance for Governor. Chronicle is very true. Mr. Evans does not like "Holden" as well as he should, because "Holden" exposed him for trying to vote twice in 1844 for Henry Clay. And now answer us this, Mr. Evans: If Republicans murdered Stephens, how is it that Democratic grand juries in Caswell have not found bills against them for it?

Those Rifle Clubs. As was expected, the order of Governor Chamberlain, of South Carolina, ordering the rifle clubs to disband, greatly exercises the vituperative powers of the Democracy. But why? These rifle clubs form no part of the militia of the State; they are political clubs formed from the armed bands of the old feudal barons of Rebeldom. Simply the violent instruments by which Democratic reform works for a "solid South." They consequently threaten the peace of the State, menace the liberties of the citizens, and set at defiance the administration of laws. Their disbandment is demanded by every rule of justice and right in support of law and order—in maintenance of the peace and liberties of the State; but their disbandment will be a fatal blow at the revolutionary schemes of the old barons for a "solid South." Hence the rebel yell.

POLITICAL CATECHISM. Who was it that plundered the stores in the city of Raleigh? Who was it that burned the North Carolina Railroad Depot in Raleigh? Who was it, that by such mad conduct, nearly caused the destruction of our beautiful city and endangered the lives of our women and children? Answer.—Wade Hampton's cavalry. Who was Governor at the time, and raised not a hand to stop these fearful outrages? Who was it that fled with Wade Hampton? Answer.—Z. B. Vance. Who is now Vance's right-hand friend? Answer.—Wade Hampton. Who else? Answer.—Robert Toombs. Why is Toombs Vance's friend? Answer.—Because Toombs wants to call the roll of his slaves on Bunker Hill, and he thinks the best way to accomplish it, is to vote for Tilden and Vance. Why is Hampton Tilden and Vance's friend? Answer.—Because he thinks if Tilden and Vance are elected the niggers will be paid for.

The elections of Tuesday have decided nothing, or next to nothing, outside of the States in which they were held.—New York Herald.

Gov. Chamberlain Cuts for Troops.

Governor Chamberlain of South Carolina, has made a requisition on the President of the United States for troops to quell disturbances and preserve the peace in that State, which is now broken by illegally organized and armed rebel forces. In his request for aid the Governor states the facts contained in his proclamation, commanding the Democratic rifle clubs and regiments to disband and disarm in the days. He furnishes documentary proof of the demand and (unpublished) existence of these organizations, and of the disturbance of the peace by them. He also states that they have refused to obey his proclamation, and that he is without sufficient militia to enforce his commands, and, therefore, in compliance with the Constitution of the United States, he seeks Federal aid to suppress this resistance to the legal authority of the State. The matter will receive the early attention of the President.

Take Your Choice. You have had more than any other man living or dead, vote for Samuel J. Tilden. If you want a man at the head of the nation who had no sympathy for the soldier or for the cause he fought for during the rebellion, vote for Samuel J. Tilden. If you want a man to fill the highest office within the gift of the people, who was the bosom friend of Boss Tweed, accepted his money for political purposes, and stood by him more than a year after his rascality was known to the world, vote for Samuel J. Tilden. If you want a man as commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States who believes in secession, who still believes in the Calhoun doctrine of States' rights, and who, if elected, would be the sign-board of Southern Democracy, vote for Samuel J. Tilden. If you want a speculator, a monopolist, a crafty, unprincipled politician, who would use any means, fair or foul, to promote his own selfish interests, vote for Samuel J. Tilden. Every man who believes in secession, who believes in repudiation, who still clings to the shadow of the lost cause, who still hates the Federal Government, and who would gladly rebel against it if an opportunity offered, all such should vote for Samuel J. Tilden. But if you want an honest man, loyal and true in everything that makes a good citizen and good official, a man that has proved his devotion as a patriot and his ability as an officer; who will shed lustre on his country and win for himself while conferring justice on others, the gratitude of his countrymen, vote for Rutherford B. Hayes. He is a noble man, and will make a noble President.

[From the Louisville Commercial.] The large gains which the Republicans have made in the Indiana and Ohio Congressional delegations, show very clearly that the people don't appreciate the false economy of the last Democratic Congress, which, having first supplied nearly every branch of public service by cutting off necessary appropriations, introduced bills for the payment of hundreds of millions of fraudulent Southern claims for war damages, and opened the door for $2,000,000,000 claims of the same character, an amount equal to the whole National debt and tending directly to bankrupt the Government, as they were probably intended to. The people have taken the proper steps to prevent this mammoth raid on the public treasury by reforming Congress and electing Republicans to fill the seats dishonored by Democrats. The taxpayers should prosecute the reformation every where, so that the contemplated fraud may be at once crushed out. Indiana and Ohio have done well, and but for the palpable Democratic frauds would have done still better. The country will not only have a Republican President, but a Republican Congress also, to arrest the wholesale increase of the public debt inaugurated last session by the Democrats.
