Thornton and Roosevelt Make Captivating Speeches in Securing the Nomination—Then Orators of Less Note Insist Upon Being Heard While Delegates Fret in Their Impatience—Ballot Taken at Last, McKinley Receiving Every Vote, and Then Another Demonstration—An Iowa Editor Essay to Place Roosevelt in Nomination, but His Oratorical Effort Fails to Measure Up to the Requirements of the Occasion—At Last It Is Over, and Everybody Is Happy

Convention Hall, Philadelphia, June 21.—There was an early rush of spectators to the big auditorium today, for the third day's proceedings of the Republican National Convention. Slow and uncertain transportation, however, delayed matters, and at 10 o'clock there were not more than one hundred delegates in the auditorium.

The Kansas delegation entered the hall at 10:55, carrying a banner inscribed: "The Kansas delegation was the first to declare for Roosevelt."

Senator Dewey followed Chairman Hanna in the hall, and his progress to the great was also impeded by enthusiastic handshakes. Ex-Senator Quay came in at 10:20 and was vociferously cheered by the delegates and spectators.

For twenty minutes preceding the calling of the convention to order there was a immense jam around the part of the hall allotted to the New York delegation, for here it was that Governor Roosevelt was to be found, and the delegates crowded around him in large numbers and shook his hands and offered congratulations.

It was not decided until late who was to make the speech nominating Roosevelt for Vice-President, and then Lawrence Young, of Des Moines, Ia., was chosen. Mr. Young is editor of the Des Moines Capital, and has been a friend of the governor for many years. Chairman Lodge sounded the gavel for the convention to come to order at 11:05 o'clock, and the band played "The Stars and Stripes."

The audience standing. The chairman called one of the new and fancy gavel presented to him yesterday, but pounded the table with the big mallet bought yesterday by Senator Hanna of twenty dollars. It took a lot of pounding and several appeals for order to get everybody settled, and something like what followed.

Bishop Ryan of Philadelphia offered the opening prayer. For the first time at this convention every person in the audience stood up during prayer. It was eight minutes of 11 o'clock when the convention opened.

Chairman Lodge said the unfinished business of yesterday was in order, and recognized Senator Quay. The unfinished business was the adoption of Resolutions 1 and 12, relating to representation of the Southern States. At this the convention broke into a rousing cheer. The two rules which maintain the present representation were then adopted without opposition.

The next business before the convention was the nomination of candidates for President of the United States, said Chairman Lodge.

He dumped the delegates to a man, and shouts for McKinley rang out from every corner of the hall. "Call the roll of States," said the chairman, when the applause subsided. "Alabama," called the reading clerk. Mr. Barker, chairman of the Alabama delegation, was already standing in his seat.

distinguished Senator from Massachusetts when he took the office of permanent chairman, and he was nominated for a third time when the Senator from Indiana yesterday read his platform. (Applause.) Not only he been thus nominated by this convention, but he has also been nominated by the whole American people. (Applause.)

"From one end of this land to the other, in every mind, only one and the same man is thought of for the honor, which we are now about to confer, and that man is the first choice of every other man who wishes Republican success next November. (Applause.) On this account it is not necessary for me or any one else to speak for him here or elsewhere. He has already spoken for himself (applause) and to all the world. He has a record replete with brilliant achievements (applause), a record that speaks his highest eulogy. It comprehends both peace and war, and constitutes the most striking illustration possible of triumph and inspiring fidelity and success in the discharge of public duty.

"Four years ago the American people confided to him their highest and most sacred trust. Behold with what results. He found the industries of this country paralyzed and prostrated; he quickened them with a new life that has brought to the American people a prosperity unprecedented in all their history. He found the labor of this country everywhere near; he has given it everywhere employment. He has made it everywhere prosperous and joyous with his industry. He found the mines and shops and factories and mines everywhere closed; they are now everywhere open. (Applause.)

"And while we are here to deliberate they are sending their surplus products in commercial conquest to the very ends of the earth. Under his wise guidance our financial standard has been firmly planted high above and beyond assault, and the wild cry of 16 to 1, so full of terror and long hair in 1896, has been put to everlasting rest. (Applause.)

"With a diplomacy never excelled and rarely equaled, he has overcome what at times seemed to be insurmountable difficulties and has given the assurance of complete protection, education, enlightenment, upfitting and ultimate local self-government and the enjoyment of all the blessings of liberty to the millions of Porto Rico and the Philippines. (Applause.)

"A fitting place it is for this party to make such a declaration. Here in this magnificent city of Philadelphia, where the evidences so abound of the rich blessings the Republican party has brought to the American people; here at the birthplace of the nation, where the noble tradition of independence was adopted and our constitution was formed, where Washington and Jefferson and Hancock and John Adams and their illustrious assistants wrote their immortal words, by whose countrymen many historic memories that stir the blood and flush the cheek and excite the sentiments of human liberty and patriotism; indeed a most fitting place for the party of Lincoln and Grant and Garfield and Blaine. (Applause.)

"We are on trial before the world, and must triumphantly meet our responsibilities or ignominiously fail in the presence of mankind. These responsibilities are not ours alone, but they are now and command us that we choose to be our candidate, the next President—the best fit man for the discharge of this great duty in all the world. (Applause.)

"On that point there is no difference of opinion. No man in all the nation is so well qualified for this trust as the great leader under whom the work has been so far conducted. He has the head, the heart, the hand, the special knowledge and the special experience that qualify him beyond all others. And, Mr. Chairman, he has also the stainless reputation and character, and has led the blameless life that endears him to his countrymen and give to him the confidence, the respect, the admiration, the love and affection of the whole American people. (Applause.) He is an ideal man, representing the highest type of the American citizenship, an ideal candidate and an ideal president. With our banner in his hands it will be carried to triumphant victory in November next. (Applause.)

"In the name of all these considerations, not alone on behalf of his beloved State of Ohio, but on behalf of every other State and Territory here represented, and in the name of Republicans everywhere throughout our jurisdiction, I nominate to be our next candidate for President William McKinley."

Enthusiasm Bursts Forth
Senator Foraker concluded at 11:13 o'clock and the entire audience arose and began to cheer for President McKinley. Hats, fans, papers, anything to be had, were waved in the air. The band played lively music, and the California delegation jumped up with their red, blue, and white pampas grass. Delegates of all States caught their standards and waved them wildly.

Senator Hanna, his face wreathed in smiles, went to the front of the platform. He had a long bunch of pampas, and began waving it. This started such a demonstration as rarely happens in any convention. The applause became a deafening roar; the roar grew louder and louder; no distinctive sound was audible save the steady thump of the big drums.

The delegates formed in the main aisle with their standards and marched with a quick step to the platform. They embraced Senators Hanna, Foraker and Lodge. They swept over tables and chairs. They broke down railings and scowled everything before them in one irresistible human wave. Hats were crushed, coats torn and standards broken.

STRANDED IN WASHINGTON

Joseph A. Revis Asked Help to Get Home to Wilkesboro

Washington, June 21.—A cripple who gave his name as Joseph A. Revis and who said his home is at Wilkesboro, N. C., called on Sanitary Officer Frank this morning and asked for transportation to his home. He explained that he had suffered from rheumatism for five years, and had left his home to go to the Hot Springs for treatment. Before he had gone far, he said, he was told that he could get cured at the Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore. Tuesday he called at the hospital, but was not admitted because he was without funds. He then concluded that he would start back towards home, and the city authorities sent him as far as this city. Sanitary Officer Frank sent him to within one hundred miles of his home. Senator Fritchard has selected William F. Hyams as agent for West Carolina under the recent increase provided by Congress, and he has been formally appointed.

A new postoffice has been established at Kip, Rockingham county, with W. P. Hudson as postmaster.

BODY FULL OF HOLES

Something Happened to a Negro Who Insulted a Lady

Durham, N. C., June 21.—Special.—News from Oxford, is that Albert Johnson, a visiting negro, who grossly insulted a lady there yesterday, was found dead this morning, with six bullet holes through his body. A coroner's jury is sitting over the corpse.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Congratulations Follow the News of the Nomination

Washington, June 21.—The President received the news of his nomination at 12:45 p. m. In the cabinet room, with the private secretary, Colonel Bincham, his private secretary, Colonel Bingham, and Colonel Montgomery. After receiving the congratulations of those present the President carried the message to Mrs. McKinley.

There were unusually few callers at the White House this morning, the general public evidently being of the opinion that the President would prefer not to be disturbed. Mr. McKinley received frequent bulletins during the morning direct from the convention hall. Hardly had the news of the nomination been received before congratulatory telegrams began to pour in from all quarters. A large number of the Republican leaders at the convention.

The news of Roosevelt's nomination reached the President while he was at lunch. The President thought the nomination entirely agreeable and expressed his satisfaction to several callers. It is expected that he will send a telegram to Governor Roosevelt.

Immediately after lunch the President called on the highest type of the American citizenship, an ideal candidate and an ideal president. With our banner in his hands it will be carried to triumphant victory in November next. (Applause.)

DOUBLE DECK TURRETS
The Innovation Adopted for Five New Battleships

Washington, June 21.—Superimposed turrets will be placed on the five new battleships, this distinctly American innovation in main battery fire having yesterday received the overwhelming endorsement of the special board appointed by Secretary Long to consider the question on the appeal of Rear Admiral Bradford, the minority member of the construction board; which had decided against superimposed turrets by a vote of 4 to 1. The majority in this instance consisted of Rear Admirals Melville, O'Neill and Hickborn and Captain Sigbee. Admiral Melville's vote having been cast, however, under the misapprehension that it was the only way to secure increased battery, speed and coal.

General Wheeler's New Command

Washington, June 21.—General Joseph Wheeler was at the War Department today arranging for the assumption of command of the Department of the Lakes, to which duty he was recently assigned. He will leave for Chicago tonight or tomorrow, and will enter upon the discharge of his new duties Monday morning.

PEKIN REMAINS CUT OFF

Nobody Knows Whether the Relief Column Has Reached There or Not, Though Reports That It Has Received Credence—Allies Waiting for Additional Troops Before Marching to the Relief of Tien Tsin

London, June 21.—The admiralty has issued the following dispatch which was received from Admiral Bruce: "Taku, via Chefoo, June 21.—There has been no communication with Admiral Seymour for seven days nor west of Tien Tsin for five days. The allies hold the Taku forts and Hong-Ta securely. They will advance to the relief of Tien Tsin when in sufficient strength. Troops are expected from Hong Kong tomorrow and 300 from Wei-Hai-Wei June 23rd.

"It is believed that fighting is constantly going on around Tien Tsin. Our general force should be 3,000. "The following proclamation was agreed on this morning and will be issued immediately: "The admirals and senior naval officers of the allied powers in China declare a general amnesty to all rivers and cities and provinces of China, that they intend to use armed force only against the Boxers and other peoples who oppose them on the march to Pekin for the relief of Tien Tsin. "Canton is becoming a centre of interest since advices of an alarming character are being received from there. It is understood that there is practically no defence for the foreigners in Canton. A Hong Kong dispatch says that, owing to the representations of the foreign consuls at Canton that trouble was likely to break out during his absence, Li Hung Chang has cancelled his passage as a general amnesty to all rivers and cities and provinces of China, that they intend to use armed force only against the Boxers and other peoples who oppose them on the march to Pekin for the relief of Tien Tsin.
