DIVING ELEPHANTS
Famous Hagenback Herd Now With the Robinson Circus.

At the great Water Carnival in Germany every year, a feature of the festival is always furnished by Hagenback, the world famous dealer and trainer of animals. Residents of this country who have traveled on the other side know that Hagenback as an amusement caterer, is to the old world what John Robinson is to the new. Just two months ago John R. Robinson, the acknowledged King of Showman, purchased a herd of four educated elephants from Hagenback. Their act is now a feature of the John Robinson show, which will exhibit at Raleigh, Thursday, October 10.

Advertising for Trade

An English journal (Newspaper Advertising) announces that "foreign manufacturers—a number of them in England particularly—will invade America for the purpose of creating a demand there, and thus building up their trade. The journal then remarks that this work will be done "mainly by newspaper advertising." The success of several American advertisers in England has produced this effect.

WOMEN'S TAILORED SUITS

The Most Stylish of Costumes

The Coat and Suit Department will be a centre of marked attention tomorrow and succeeding days. The New Fall Suits get their first important showing, and the occasion will be one to warrant your closest attention. Scores of new styles have come in since the Grand Millinery Opening of last week and will be shown for the first time. Here are the newest shaped Blouses, Etons and Fly Fronts. Also the double breasted effects with the newest shaped coats and skirts.

In connection with their modish qualities, there is the important item of price which we have made as exceptionally low as the suits themselves. Unusually favored this season by the promptness of the manufacturers, our stock is as near complete as it is possible to make it and doubly as large as carried by any other house in this city.

In addition thereto will be shown the "swellest" things in Automobile Coats, half, three-quarters and full lengths; Coats, Capes and Jackets, Rainy-day and Walking Skirts, Taffeta Silk and Mercerized Petticoats.

Japanese Silk, Quilted Kimonos, Dressing Sacques, Robes richly embroidered in Oriental designs.

Autumn's New Dress Goods

All the most correct fabrics for fall and winter wear are now on view. Complete assortment of French Flannels and all Silk Taffetas for waists. Dress Trimmings to match anything to buy.

New Millinery
