One of these was the fact that Commissioner of Labor Carroll D. Wright had returned to the city at the earnest solicitation expected to return when he left Wash-J. Pierpont Morgan had a long conversation with Secretary Root over the long distance telephone this afternoon. No information was given as to what quest from the legislature or the govpassed either between President Roose, velt and his advisers or between Mr. Morgan and Mr. Root, but the fact that the New York financier had conversed with a member of the adminisration and that there was a consultiion between Mr. Root and the president was enough to create the strong impression that a critical juncture in

R. and General Gobin of the Pennsylvania National Guard had a talk with President Roosevelt. The Pennsylvanians were in the president's room during a part of the time that Secretary Root, Attorney General Knox and Commissioner Wright were there. part in the White House conference. President Roosevelt's desire that Com-missioner Wright should hasten his return to Washington was based upon a tentatively formed plan of his for appointing a federal commission to investigate the conditions in the anthracite region on a large scale. It cannot be learned that Mr. Roosevelt has definitely decided to appoint such a commission, but the question was undoubtedcoal strike. Secretary Root denied tonight the report from Tamaqua, Pa., that the war department was about to send officers to the mining region for the purpose of examining into conditions there. The government still maintains that it is not warranted in taking any steps looking toward the sending of federal soldiers into Pennsylvania without a reernor of the state.
