

State Aid Question Arouses the Baptists

Editor Bailey Leads the Attack—Drs. Hufham and Blackwell Enter the Fray—Business After the Storm

Durham, N. C., Dec. 12.—Special.—A meeting of the Baptist State Convention was a genuine love feast last night, but today it resolved itself into a very warm meeting and several of the prominent members of the convention were drawn into a fight that was not expected up to a few minutes before it was precipitated.

The main fight was between Dr. Calvin S. Blackwell of Wilmington, Dr. J. D. Hufham of Henderson, and Mr. J. W. Bailey, editor of the Biblical Recorder. The report of the committee on general education, which was presented by Mr. J. W. Bailey, recommended, among other things, that the legislature be petitioned to so increase the appropriations for public schools that all schools may be run four months in each school district.

Mr. Bailey made a talk on the report and said that the forces of the state, both political and religious, were pledged to primary education of the masses, and the consolidation of the school districts means that the secondary denominational schools will retrograde and finally die out. "Communism in education is driving out denominationalism in secondary schools," he declared. He referred to the fight of the brethren in Great Britain against contributing to the Episcopal schools and commended them for such action. He believed the church was called upon today, as never before, to educate, and he expressed the hope that the Baptists would patronize their own schools, of all grades, "for we are today facing a crisis in this matter."

Dr. Hufham also made a very earnest talk and regretted to see Mr. Bailey disposed to take a gloomy view of the situation. He said he did not believe there existed any crisis. Instead he would call it a great opportunity. North Carolina, he said, has too broad a spirit of Catholicity to allow the dangers Mr. Bailey feared to befall us. "He who laid the foundation of Wake Forest College," he said, "was a graduate of the State University, which great institution has a faculty with six of the members Baptists, James Hall and others who helped to lay the foundation of our Baptist empire were educated at the University. The spirit of Catholicism is in our state and no one will try to throttle the spirit of education, such as we desire to see fostered." He believed that Wake Forest, the Baptist Female University, the excellent schools at Oxford, Murfreesboro, Mars Hill, Bute's Creek, Bethel Hill and others would continue to flourish and accomplish a great and good work.

At the conclusion of Dr. Hufham's talk Mr. Bailey was on his feet in a moment. The fight was on and state aid to the university was really the bone of contention. He expressed surprise at some things Dr. Hufham said in his plea for state education. Dr. Hufham expressed the opinion that there was a field for all, he said, but he, for one, wished it understood that we are not to depend on state institutions for the sources of our inspiration and power.

At this point Dr. Blackwell came into the fight with flying colors. He deprecated the aid of certain schools, regarded as denominational, were receding from the state. He declared with emphasis that it was unwise, un-Baptistic, and fraught with grave complications. The position of Baptists has been known for generations, he declared, as unalterably in favor of separation of church and state, "and here we are," he said, "furnishing the Roman Catholics with ammunition to hurl at us when they begin their aggressive campaign in the near future for a division of the school fund." He was in favor of washing the hands of the denomination of state aid absolutely.

Mr. Bailey engaged in a colloquy with Dr. Blackwell and called on him to desist from his talk. The aged minister said he would not. Finally Mr. Bailey brought the matter to a head by introducing a resolution reaffirming the purpose of the convention to discourage state aid for Baptist schools, and expressed regret for the necessity of such action. The resolution was adopted.

Rev. Dr. Thomas Hume of the university, was recognized and expressed approval of the position taken by Dr. Hufham. He said what we need above all things is Christian men in our schools. He believed in the correlation of the schools as proposed in the report of the committee. The report was then adopted.

The convention opened this morning with devotional exercises. There was some miscellaneous business transacted, and then the fight over the report of the educational committee came on. The correlation of the secondary schools of the denomination as told in this correspondence several days ago, came about when the report of the committee was adopted this morning. The general idea is that each school will remain in its own field and not encroach on another and that the students will be educated with an idea of sending them to Wake Forest Female University.

President Marsh announced the appointment of the new educational committee with Mr. J. W. Bailey as chairman. At this point Dr. Marsh announced that the report of the committee on home missions was the special order of the hour. Rev. W. D. Hubbard read the report. The report indicated great prosperity throughout the field and recommended an aggressive movement, as opportunities were many and great throughout the south. Mr. Hubbard made an earnest talk on the subject and expressed the hope that the high tide reached last night regarding foreign missions would again be reached in naming the amount for home missions this year. Dr. F. G. McConnelly of Atlanta, secretary of the mission board, was introduced and made an earnest plea for the cause. His address was eloquent and forcible. At the conclusion of the address the amount was fixed for home missions at ten thousand dollars instead of six thousand as last year.

The afternoon session of the convention was devoted largely to the report of the committee to nominate the different boards for the year. This committee reported on missions, Sunday schools, and education boards and the report was adopted. The committee on a woman's work also reported and endorsed and recommended the work being done. It showed that during the past year the women of the denomination raised over eleven thousand dollars for missions. During the summer months twenty-four young ladies went out and taught schools in the mountains and rural districts free of charge, this being under the direction of the woman's board. During this time they taught eleven hundred pupils.

Rev. Mr. Simms introduced a resolution of condolence and sympathy for Mrs. Norman and the Methodists of Durham and the state upon the recent death of Rev. W. C. Norman. Feeling talks were made by Rev. Mr. Skinner, Dr. W. C. Tyce and others. The resolution was passed. On behalf of the Methodists of the state and of of the Washington government is not the gracious act of condensation on the part of the United States that it has been represented as being. The real reason for not applying the Monroe Doctrine, the paper adds, is not that Venezuela has misbehaved, but that the United States is powerless to avert the punishment.

The statement that the United States will only interfere in such dispute to prevent the loss of territory is an idle boast and will remain so as long as the United States does not possess a navy equal to the combined navies of the great powers of Europe. The Imperialist Outlook says there is no benefit in this affair of having Germany on the British side. The English are in a false position sentimentally, however, they may be justified by international law.

England's Position Reviewed
London, Dec. 12.—Lord Lansdowne, secretary of state for foreign affairs, was a guest of the United Service Club at the Hotel Cecil this evening. He made a conciliatory speech, in which he reviewed England's position. He said he did not believe that in any part of the world the English were open to the charge of having inveterate antipathy against any one. They certainly need not have inveterate antipathy even against Venezuela.

If that Republic would desist from committing outrages against their subjects and British property, if it would pay its just debts to its creditors, if it would reply to its diplomatic representations made in perfectly courteous language, if it did that, England need have no quarrel whatever with Venezuela.

He might also add that if she would put herself upon a moderate allowance in the matter of revolutions. In less than seventy years she had indulged in the luxury of one hundred and four revolutions.

In Venezuelan waters at this moment, he was glad to say, German and British warships and sailors were acting side by side in enforcing just demands.

Whence Mediation Must Come
Paris, Dec. 12.—A foreign office official made the following statement today: "No exchange of views has occurred between the European powers concerning the Venezuelan situation, and no such exchange is intended, as it is definitely held that the affair is one in which the United States should be left free to take the initiative in mediation."

This statement was called out by the suggestion of the Temps that it was time for Europe to speak in the interest of universal peace.

The official said: "It is fully recognized here and at the other capitals that the United States is the only power in a position to act as an intermediary. Hence there is no intention on the part of European powers to take concerted or individual action."

The release of the French steamer Oesum seized by the Germans at La Guayra, has not yet been reported to the foreign office, but the officials accept the unofficial reports of her release, thus relieving the incident of its gravity.

Threaten to Bombard
Williamstad, Dec. 12.—The foreign residents of Puerto Cabello, Venezuela, are taking refuge on board the German war ship Vineta and the British war ship Ariadne which threaten to bombard the town.

No Interior Forces
Berlin, Dec. 12.—There is reason to believe that neither Great Britain nor Germany proposes to despatch an expeditionary force into the interior of Venezuela, both powers intending to confine their operations to the coast. It is understood, however, that a joint force will occupy the cable station at La Guayra enabling direct communication with Europe by way of Wilhelmstad. It is stated in official quarters that Germany believes the only feasible method of punishing President Castro and his coadjutors is to deprive them of their monetary supplies, which can be effected by seizing the custom house.

The reports of the sinking of the Venezuelan war ships are doubted here pending confirmation.

War Ships Sail Tomorrow
London, Dec. 13.—No official news concerning President Castro's arbitration proposal can yet be obtained. The attitude of the press towards the subject is divergent. The Conservative Standard and the Liberal Chronicle agree that matters have already reached the stage at which arbitration is appropriate. The Chronicle maintains that if the United States identified itself with the arbitration proposal and guaranteed the execution of the award Great Britain would be glad enough to have her chestnuts thus pulled out of the fire, but the paper points out that no such situation exists.

The war ship Samora is being commissioned for service in Venezuelan waters. She is expected to sail tomorrow.

Little Removed from Piracy
London, Dec. 12.—The considerable popular irritation caused by the identification of Great Britain with Germany finds expression in various quarters. The Daily News declares: "We are no longer masters of our own household. An itinerant, energetic emperor has stolen our independence in the intervals of partridge shooting at Sandringham. We are accordingly involved in operations little removed from piracy." The paper asks what is the bargain under which Great Britain

MISS ELEANOR GRAY,

President of the Woman's Art Association of ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA.

43 King Street, ST. AUGUSTINE, FLA., Feb. 5, 1902.

I have not enjoyed good health for the past five years, and were it not for Wine of Cardui I would still be a sufferer today. I was troubled with profuse menstruation, was very irregular and often menstruated every three weeks instead of at the proper periods. Each time I would have severe cramps and bearing down pains with backache unfitting me for office work, and compelling me to lie down for several hours each day and sometimes the entire day. I used several remedies and spent hundreds of dollars trying to get relief, but all of no avail. Fortunately, one of your Ladies' Birthday Almanacs came into my hands and I became much interested, naturally hoping that it would cure me as it had cured others. I took my first dose that night and kept up the treatment religiously. My vitality, which had been well nigh spent by the heavy loss of blood, was gradually restored. I noticed a marked absence of pain at the next period, also a more natural flow. I kept up the treatment for four months and found to my joy that I was entirely well, and the functions of nature were performed naturally and easily. Wine of Cardui is certainly a grand medicine and gladly do I give it entire credit for my wonderful restoration to health.

Eleanor Gray

MISS GRAY took Wine of Cardui and stuck to it. That is what she means when she says she "kept up the treatment religiously." She is rid of her terrible suffering because she took this mild and simple remedy, because she did not put off the treatment. She did not take it a day or a week and then stop. She took Wine of Cardui and gave its curative qualities time to build up her weak parts, regulate her functions and cure the terrible pains in her back. And Wine of Cardui so used will never fail to benefit any case of female trouble however serious it may be. Wine of Cardui cannot restore dead organs, but it does cure menstrual troubles, which sap the body of its strength and result in back-breaking, bearing-down pains. Wine of Cardui is a simple vegetable remedy that has cured hundreds of thousands of women suffering from leucorrhoea, bearing-down pains and all the common menstrual disorders when they have taken it according to the directions on the bottle. If you will secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist and take a few doses of it every day you will have the same relief Miss Gray enjoys. Never let anyone sell you a substitute for Wine of Cardui.

is allowing herself to be towed in the wake of a German ironclad. The Daily Mail contends that Great Britain has nothing to do with German tactics. It would never occur to a practical Englishman to sink the Venezuelan ships. The British must go their own way in collecting debts. They will not involve themselves in any great expeditions. If the Germans choose to send a force to Caracas that is their concern.

Justice Must Be Done
Berlin, Dec. 12.—The Némeste Nachrichten, writing before the arbitration proposal was known refers to an unofficial suggestion that the United States might mediate. It says that if the United States had earlier undertaken to guarantee satisfaction of the Anglo-German demands extreme action might have been averted. Now the matter has reached such a point that the unbounded audacity of the Venezuelans must be punished and reparation for gross insults exacted.

Anxiety for Archbishop
London, Dec. 12.—The weakness of the Archbishop of Canterbury, who has been increasing since his collapse in the House of Lords on December 4, while he was speaking on the education bill, has become extreme. Dr. Temple Barlow was summoned this evening to consult with the physicians in attendance upon the archbishop. After the consultation a bulletin was issued to the effect that Dr. Temple had lost strength during the day, and that his condition was causing anxiety. Special prayers for his recovery will be offered in all the English dioceses Sunday.

Revive Whipping Post
Richmond, Va., Dec. 12.—A bill to revive the whipping post in Virginia will be introduced by Delegate S. M. Newhouse of Culpeper and will probably become a law.

Uncle Sam says it's all right

Uncle Sam is the person of his government officials, is always in charge of every department of our country.
