

CONGRESSMAN ZENOR

Uses and Recommends Pe-ru-na For All Catarrhal Affections.

Over Forty Members of Congress Endorse Pe-ru-na.

HON. WILLIAM T. ZENOR.

Hon. William T. Zenor, Congressman from Indiana, in a letter from Washington, D. C., says:

"I have used several bottles of Pe-ru-na for catarrhal and disordered blood troubles, and find that it is a most excellent remedy."

"From personal experience and the testimony of friends who have used this remedy, I do not hesitate to recommend same to those who want a good medicine for these and kindred troubles."

W. T. ZENOR.

Congressman Zenor's home address is Corydon, Ind.

No other remedy invented by man has ever received so much praise from men of high station as Pe-ru-na. Over forty members of Congress have tried it and recommended it to suffering humanity. They use it themselves to guard against the effects of the intense strain of public life; to ward off the ill effects of the changeable climate of Washington. They keep it in their homes for family use. They recommend it to their neighbors, and they do not hesitate in public print to declare their appreciation and endorsement of this greatest of modern remedies.

Alarmist Report About the Health of King Edward

London Feb. 9.—Reynolds' Newspaper Sunday morning again brings up the subject of the king's health. The paper publishes an alarmist statement which it claims was obtained from accurate sources of information in regard to the recent indisposition of his majesty, which was officially pronounced as influenza. The paper says that on January 22 the king was seized with acute abdominal pain. An expert who was called in scouted at the idea that there was an indication of an imminent return of the malady from which the king suffered last June and which caused a postponement of the coronation ceremonies.

The paper says: "How bravely the king struggled to deceive himself that nothing was the matter, but on January 31 he was advised to keep to his room. He disregarded the advice of the physicians and went motoring. When he returned his temperature was much higher and his pulse showed that he was not so well. He made no objection to the suggestion of the physician that he should go right to bed. Nevertheless on Monday, February 2, he insisted on going out to plant trees near the castle. The effort was too much for him and he collapsed in his carriage. Tuesday while it was announced his majesty was 'progressing satisfactorily' he was in a highly delirious state. He was much better Tuesday, but very weak. The king insisted that he was quite well. He did not remember what happened in the previous two days and immediately left his bed. The absence of appetite gives the royal physicians much uneasiness, as does also the present bronchial affection which threatens to become chronic." Reynolds' Newspaper goes on to say that it is fairly certain that the king will die during the year. If February 17 should be foggy or wet he has been advised not to be present at the opening of parliament, as the doctors know that if he contracted a slight cold it would mean a severe illness.

The statement concludes as follows: "It may be taken for granted that in the present circumstances no arrangements for fixed events can be made with any certainty that they will be fulfilled. Those that have been made are liable to alteration at a moment's notice. The king's health is in such a dire state that, although he endeavors by sheer force of will to go through his public program, we may now expect to hear on the eve of any function that his majesty has suddenly collapsed."

The King Doing Well

London, Feb. 7.—Sir Francis Laking, physician in ordinary to the king, visited his majesty at Windsor castle this morning. Afterward it was announced officially that the king was doing so well that further reports would not be necessary. In the afternoon King Edward and Queen Alexandra took a drive in a hooded carriage. The weather was unpropitious and there was a strong wind and drizzling rain. This evening the king and queen entertained a party of guests at the castle. The court will return to London Monday.

MR. J. STAN. WYNNE A CANDIDATE

Announces Platform on which He Will Seek the Mayoralty Nomination

To the Voters of Raleigh: Early in January I stated through the papers that I would be a candidate for mayor at the coming city election, and that I would formally announce myself later. I then thought to do so after adjournment of the Legislature would be sure enough, but an adviser to do so without further delay. Relying upon the good judgment of my friends, I now say to the good people of Raleigh, one and all, that I am in the race, and will greatly appreciate any support or word in my behalf. I ask the support of each and every citizen, pledging, in case of election, my very best efforts towards the up-building and advancement of our city. I do not propose to make a house-to-house canvass or go into the promising business, nor do I expect to talk politics very much; but I do want to say that the time has come when we are going to do for our own sinking and their own well-being.

The city does not need, nor does its people desire harsh or cruel treatment on the part of its executive officer. A little law and a little common-sense, with some knowledge of human nature will guarantee justice to persons charged with disorderly conduct or crime. Can the mayor do anything outside of his regular office duties? He certainly can. Men of means are constantly visiting our city. Many of them are seeking some good and safe investment for their idle capital and if shown proper attention would invest in property and enterprises in our midst. The merchant has no time for his hands are full, looking after his own business. The lawyer has no time, for his hands are filled with other people's business. The doctors certainly cannot spare the time for it might be your family or mine in need of his care. The mechanic has no time to give to the stranger, because he has a family to support, and failure to do his work might delay a train or cause a wreck. Then who is to do it? The man elected by the people to preside over the affairs of the city is the only logical man for this duty.

The mayor should keep posted and hold himself ready at all times to give all needed attention to investors, by taking them over and around the town, pointing out the many advantages possessed by our beautiful city and in every way possible try to induce them to invest and become one among us.

But to do this the mayor must himself be informed concerning the condition of the town and its people. The chairman of each committee, without pay, gets up his report and reads it to the board. Is there any reason why the mayor, who is paid, and who has lots of spare time, should not know what has been done in the way of permanent improvements before it is read by the committee? I think not. And it would be impossible for me, if elected, to sit in the office and not take an active interest in whatever was going on looking to the advancement of the city's interest.

There are other candidates, and of course I am not so foolish as to expect unanimous support. Each one has his friends and no one has a right to think hard of another because he works and votes against him. Those who vote against me must remain my friends, because I am not going to do anything to make them otherwise. I have no fight to make on other candidates, but shall conduct my campaign openly and above little petty politics.

Having said this much, I leave the matter where it rightfully belongs, with the voters, and urge each one to turn out on the day of the primary and vote for the man of your choice. I shall appreciate your support of me. Very respectfully,

J. S. WYNNE.

Escaped an Awful Fate

Mr. H. Higgins of Melbourne, Fla., writes: "My doctor told me I had Consumption and nothing could be done for me. I was given up to die. The offer of a free trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption induced me to try it. Results were startling. I am now on the road to recovery and owe all to Dr. King's New Discovery. It surely saved my life." This great cure is guaranteed for all throat and lung diseases by all druggists. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

London, Feb. 7.—General Miles sailed for New York aboard the Cunard liner Lucania today.

FOLLOW OUT MR. PEABODY'S WISH

It is Thought That the Money Will Be Distributed Next Fall

There is a chance for North Carolina to receive a large sum of money for public education. The Peabody fund, amounting to $2,100,000, is going to be distributed, probably next fall. This fund was established over thirty years ago by George Peabody of Massachusetts for public education in the southern states. He provided that at the end of thirty years the fund might be distributed among the southern states. This period ended in 1897 and there was talk of closing the trust then, but it was not done. Dr. J. L. M. Curry has been the general agent of this fund for many years and has used it to assist normal schools, graded schools, teachers' institutes and other institutions throughout the south.

It is not certain whether the fund will be distributed, or concentrated in one state. There is talk of concentrating it in the establishment of a large teachers' college, and it is rumored that such college will probably be located in Georgia or Tennessee. This step would be a great mistake from every point of view. The history of the Peabody Normal at Nashville shows conclusively that widespread benefits are not to be expected from such a "central institution." Evidently Mr. Peabody expressed in his letter that he wished the fund distributed and not concentrated. The following is an extract: "It is my desire that when the trust is closed and the final distribution made by yourselves or your successors, that all the fourteen southern states, including Maryland, Kentucky, Missouri and Texas, shall share in that distribution according to their needs."

It is thought that resolutions relating to this matter will be introduced in the Legislature so that steps may be taken to secure for North Carolina her equitable portion of this fund. We do not wish the whole fund, nor do we wish another state to have the whole fund. Both the wishes of Mr. Peabody and the interests of education in the southern states will be promoted by a general distribution of this fund among all the southern states according to their respective needs.

Nearly Four-its His Life

A runaway, almost ending fatally, started a horrible ulcer on the leg of J. B. Orner, Franklin Grove, Ill. For four years it defied all doctors and all remedies. But Bucklen's Arnica Salve had no trouble to cure him. Equally good for Burns, Bruises, Skin Eruptions and Piles. 25c at all drug stores.

THE IDENTITY OF W. H. BALLARD

An Illustration of the Value and Completeness of State Regimental Histories

Secretary of State J. Bryan Grimes has received a letter from Mr. R. D. Graham of Washington, D. C., which illustrates forcibly the great value and completeness of the Regimental Histories of North Carolina Troops published by the state and being sold through the state libraries. Mr. O. Sherman, at prime cost of printing—$1 per volume. The letter follows:

"631 Penn. Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C., Feb. 5, 1903.

"Hon. J. Bryan Grimes, Raleigh, N. C. "Dear Sir: Some time since a notice appeared in the Raleigh papers that the widow of a United States soldier in the Confederate war had applied to you to find the owner of a gold pin or badge, bearing the name of 'W. H. Ballard,' which her husband had picked up on some battlefield. The name is given in the index to the State Regimental Histories, and by reference to page 75 of Vol. I. it will be seen that 'W. H. Ballard' was the second captain of Company E of the Fifteenth regiment, and that this company was from Franklin county. If not already ascertained, this may lead you to the information desired.

"And I am very truly yours,

"R. D. GRAHAM."

The percentage of orders for the Regimental Histories from people residing in other states is now larger in proportion than from people in this state. This is not as it should be; not that there should be fewer sent out of the state—indeed, there should be many more—but the veterans and sons and daughters of veterans living within the borders of the Old North State are not availing themselves of the opportunity offered by the state as freely as they should. No patriotic North Carolinian who did honorable service for his country, nor any of their descendants who can possibly afford the expenditure, should be without a set of the Regimental Histories.

Mrs. Baldwin Dead

Mrs. Matilda Baldwin died at the residence of her grand-daughter, Mrs. W. C. Eatman, yesterday morning. She was one of the oldest residents of this city, being ninety-six at the time of her death. She had only been living here about five months with her grand-daughter. She was a native of Bath, S. C. For the past four months she had been a great sufferer, but bore all with Christian patience. She was a consistent member of the Baptist church in her native home. The remains were taken to her old home last night, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Eatman. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. B. W. Trader of Atlanta, and two grand-daughters. The funeral will take place this afternoon.

All Parties Reach Some Sort of an Agreement

The Question of Preferential Treatment to Be Referred to The Hague Tribunal--Protocols in Preparation

London, Feb. 7.—The announcement from Washington that the Venezuelan protocols are in course of preparation has created great satisfaction, and the British ministers are hopeful of an early settlement.

There have been private expressions of intense irritation at Minister Bowen's alleged breach of etiquette, but these never have been allowed to interfere with the determination to secure a termination of the difficulty through any feasible channel. Ambassador Herbert's strictures found sympathetic support in Downing street, and apparently formed the subject of exchanges of messages between Berlin, London and Rome, whence the representatives of those powers at Washington were instructed to present a united front.

The refusal of President Roosevelt to arbitrate the question as to whether the powers shall receive preferential treatment in the settlement of their claims against Venezuela is regretted, but was anticipated here.

There is a strong disinclination on the part of the British foreign office to have recourse to The Hague court of arbitration, but England will, of course, do so if this is necessary, and it is believed that The Hague will decide for preferential claims.

Report Confirmed in Berlin

Berlin, Feb. 7.—An official statement, issued today, confirms the report emanating from Washington that a proposition is under consideration to have a protocol signed by the emissaries of the allies and Mr. Bowen that the question of preferential treatment be referred to The Hague tribunal and that another protocol be signed by the Venezuelan envoy and the representatives of the allies, providing for the carrying into effect of all the points heretofore agreed upon.

The statement adds that Germany and England are each to receive an immediate payment of £5,000. It is not known what amount Italy will receive.

Views on Germany

Berlin, Feb. 7.—The North German Gazette states semi-officially that the Venezuelan question appears to have entered a new phase now that the preferential negotiations have failed to result in an understanding. The Lokal Anzeiger observes that so far as the ambassadors are concerned Mr. Bowen appears to have ceased to exist. Consequently the question of preferential treatment of the allies will certainly be referred to The Hague arbitration tribunal.

The official account of the recent negotiations at Washington between Mr. Bowen and the representatives of Great Britain, Germany and Italy, which is published today, is to this effect:

Baron Von Sternberg, the German minister on a special mission, proposed that the allies should have the whole of the customs receipts for three months, and it seemed that this would be accepted until Sir Michael Herbert, the British ambassador, came forward and demanded larger concessions. Thereupon the disagreement occurred between Mr. Bowen and Sir Michael Herbert. Germany and Italy sided with the British ambassador. As such a situation could not result in any definite agreement an appeal was made to President Roosevelt to arbitrate the point of preferential treatment. The president declined to do so, and accordingly this detail will now go to The Hague tribunal.

An Interesting Statement

Cologne, Feb. 7.—The Cologne Gazette publishes an article, which was evidently inspired by the foreign office at Berlin, in which it declares that the negotiations at Washington for the settlement of the Venezuela affair are apparently not proceeding very smoothly. The paper says that as a result of this state of affairs a welcome opportunity is furnished the foreign press to discuss at great length the question as to whose fault it is that the deliberations have been so prolonged. For some time, the Gazette says, the American and French newspapers have blamed England for the delay in the settlement of the trouble. Lately they have turned and fixed the entire responsibility on Germany. This shifting in the press, says the paper, will not deceive well informed people in Germany or the other countries of the world as to the real cause of the delay. It is purely and simply a result of the refusal by President Castro and his representative, Mr. Bowen, to recognize and satisfy the just claims of the allies or to furnish proper guarantees for their settlement.

After Cash Gold

"I was troubled for several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility," writes E. J. Green, of Littleton, N. H. "No remedy brought relief until I began using Electric Bileg medicine I ever used. They have kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bileg is just splendid for female troubles, and they are a grand tonic for the stomach for weak, run-down people. No other medicine can take the place of our family." Try them. Only the satisfaction guaranteed by an Analytical

New Wrinkle in Lynching

Augusta, Ga., Feb. 7.—A negro, named Hall, a negro, mortally wounded by a shot fired into his back, was taken to the Washington county jail, where he was attempting to arrest him on a minor charge. Over three hundred men stormed the jail last night and took Hall out. Half a mile from the jail, in a clump of trees, they stopped and Hall was then cut out from ear to ear and before time to bleed to death over his body shots were fired into his back. His ears and fingers were cut off by members of the mob as souvenirs.

Hanna Bill Endorsed

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 6.—The Hardie United Confederate Veterans' regular meeting Saturday night adopted resolutions endorsing the Hanna's bill, recently introduced in the Senate, providing pensions for slaves. The resolutions emphasize the fact that they remained peaceful home cultivating the crop and raising food for the families of the soldiers while the latter were in the fighting for the south's rights. The resolutions also say that the slaves were not by any act of their own responsible for the war. Congress is urged to pass the Hanna bill and reward these faithful old servants.

AS THE WEATHER CHANGES SO DO PRICES!

Our $3.50 & $4 shoes continue to be sold at $2.85

Call Early and Avoid the Crush.

PERRY & ROSENTHAL.

RALEIGH IRON WORKS CO. FOUNDERS OF MACHINISTS.

Here's a Pointer!

Any man who wants a good suit or Overcoat and who would like to keep a third of his money, had and see what's going on here during this

DISSOLUTION SALE

There isn't anything to look out for. No, sir, not at this store. The clothes are as good as they anybody, who isn't happy with his bargain, our purse-string is always open—your money back, if

HALF PRICE LOTS.

200 Coats and Vests, no pants to match, go at actual half price. 10 doz. stiff bosom percale shirts, regular 50 cent shirts go at 25 cents. 8 doz. Madras and Percale shirts, regular $1 and $1.25 values go at 50 cents. Be quick for want of the lots. The dissolution sale positively ends on March 1st; until then your chances for bargains are still open. The prompt attention of those who owe this firm will be duly appreciated as the money is needed by our outgoing partner.

S. & D. BERWANGER, DISSOLUTION SALE.