

Cured by Swamp-Root Panama's Diplomatic Agent a Frenchman

Suffered With Inflammation--Catarrh of the Bladder and Weak Kidneys.

Hon. D. A. Montgomery's Interview with the Editor of the Nashville American.

HON. D. A. MONTGOMERY.

Mr. Montgomery, ex-Member of State Legislature, was recently interviewed by the Nashville, Tenn., American, regarding his cure by Swamp-Root and made the following signed statement:

"My endorsement of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root cannot be written strong enough. I had been greatly troubled with my kidneys and with what the doctors termed inflammation at the neck of the bladder. Was obliged to pass water very frequently day and night, often with smarting and burning. Sometimes my back would get so lame and sore that I was almost helpless. I tried several doctors and medicines to no good effect, when finally I heard that Dr. Kilmer would send a sample bottle of his kidney medicine, Swamp-Root, free by mail. I sent at once and received a sample bottle without delay. After trying the sample I concluded it was just the medicine I needed, and I purchased a liberal supply from my merchant and friend, Mr. E. J. Eslinger. Today I am a well man, and can ride horseback and drive with any of my friends. I can not recommend Swamp-Root too highly for what it has done for me. You are at liberty to use this letter or refer any one to me, and I will gladly tell them about my past troubles and what a wonderful remedy this Swamp-Root is. I am very glad to recommend it to others at every opportunity. Mr. James Ivens, of Saundersville, Tenn., and many others are taking it with good results.

Yours very truly,

Worsham, Sumner Co., Tenn., Nov. 11th.

D. A. Montgomery

Dowie the Restorer Visits the White House

He Interviews the President, Recognizes a Colored Acquaintance and Gives the Reporters a Pointer

Washington, Nov. 9.—John Alexander Dowie, self-styled Elijah II, the restorer, spent one hour and a half at the White House this morning, half of the time in conversation with President Roosevelt. He was accompanied by the president's offices by members of his personal staff. His listeners, however, cooled their heels in the ante-room while their chief entered the president's private office for his audience with the executive. Time did not hang heavy on the hands of Dowie's staff, however, for they chatted with the door keepers and messengers and launched shafts of alleged wit with the newspaper men who are on duty at the White House.

Dowie emerged from the president's office shortly before 1 o'clock, but stopped at the desk of Captain Loeffler, the president's door keeper, to chat with him and to write his autograph a number of times. He talked with nearly every one of the messengers connected with the president's office. He recognized Arthur Simmons, the North Carolina negro, who is door keeper to the secretary to the president and a pillar of the Afro-American Methodist church in Washington, and saluted him warmly.

"Do you read those healing leaves I have been sending you?" he inquired. "Indeed, I do," Mr. Dowie, replied Simmons, "and they are doing me a great deal of good."

"Peace be with you, brother," said Dowie.

After a half hour's conversation with several messengers and employees, Dowie went back into the president's office and talked a few minutes longer with Mr. Roosevelt. The president soon excused himself and went to the White House for luncheon.

"Peace be with you," said Dowie in parting.

"Delighted to have seen you," replied the president. "Good day, sir."

The visitor remained some time talking with Secretary Loeb. Upon leaving the president's office and meeting the reporters, the prophet spoke and said:

"Of course, I recognize that you are superior representatives of your craft. It will do no harm for you to quote me as saying that I am a great admirer of President Roosevelt and that I hope he will be elected next year. I shall do all I can to help him."

He declined to say whether he had offered a subscription to meet the expenses of the campaign.

Accompanied by a member of his staff, Dowie went to the state department to see about some passports for members of the Zion colony. He did not see Secretary Hay, but had a brief conversation with Assistant Secretary Loomis.

Mr. Dowie's party left Washington tonight for Zion City in the same private car that brought them from New York last night.

A Circumstance That May Prove Inconvenient—He Makes a Break at the Start—Colombia Is Anxious to Make Terms

Washington, Nov. 9.—Phillipe Bunau-Varillas, who has been designated as minister plenipotentiary and envoy extraordinary for the republic of Panama, left Washington unexpectedly this evening for New York, after having had luncheon and a long conversation with Secretary Hay. Mr. Bunau-Varillas telegraphed him by the junta of the isthmian de facto government, but did not formally present them. Neither did he arrange with Mr. Hay to be received by the president.

The fact that the Panama envoy is a citizen of France has proved to be a stumbling block in the way of his recognition by this government as the diplomatic representative of the new South American state. It was declared tonight by an official who is fully authorized to say that nothing in Mr. Bunau-Varillas' credentials or any act on his part had operated to postpone his presentation to the president.

The assertion was made also that a letter which the Panama agent sent today to Senator Morgan of Alabama, the uncompromising friend of the Nicaragua route, in which the venerable statesman was politely requested to crown his long career with laurel wreaths by throwing his influence to the Panama route, had not affected Mr. Bunau-Varillas' diplomatic status. It was admitted, however, that Mr. Bunau-Varillas had done a very indiscreet thing in addressing an official communication on an international topic to any other person than the secretary of state. That he sent it in his official capacity is indicated by the fact that the note was headed "Republic of Panama." There was nothing in the communication itself that was offensive. On the contrary it was a note complimentary to Mr. Morgan. It was the act of sending it to a member of the legislative branch of the government that constituted the fault of the isthmian representative, and it is confidently expected by officials of the administration that Mr. Morgan will not lose the opportunity to make an issue of it.

How long Mr. Bunau-Varillas intends to stay away from Washington can not be stated, but it will probably depend upon the length of the time necessary to have the French government say that it does not object to having one of its citizens act as the diplomatic agent of another government. Such action by France would not be unprecedented.

Secretary Hay laid before the president today a note from Dr. Herran, the Colombian charge d'affaires in Washington, in which, after acknowledging the receipt of information from Mr. Hay that the United States had entered into relations with the de-facto government, Mr. Herran said that while he had no communication from Colombia since this action was taken, he believed his government in protesting against the recognition accorded to the Panama insurgents. No answer has been made to this communication. Mr. Herran said tonight that he was still without any advices from Bogota, not a line having come to him since the revolt of the separatists occurred. Administration officials smiled grimly when they got a telegram today from Mr. Beaupre, United States minister at Bogota, telling of a complete change of sentiment there in connection with the Panama canal treaty. Nearly everybody, he said, was now in favor of letting the United States build the canal on the terms set forth in the Hay-Herran treaty. Mr. Beaupre's message was one of the three that came to the state department in the past twenty-four hours. The two latest each bore the date of November 6, one of them being that mentioned and the other, which was delivered here a few hours earlier, contained the information that news of the isthmian revolt of November 3 had reached Bogota and had caused immediate excitement. Mr. Beaupre had not then received the message sent by Mr. Hay, November 4, informing him that the de-facto government had been recognized by the United States.

This government is satisfied, however, from what has come to it from other sources that Colombian authorities at Bogota know the worst and are keeping it from the people who might start a general revolt of their own against President Marroquin if they heard it. One official who would not admit that he based the statement on any authoritative information, said that an agent of the Colombian government had started for Panama to offer concessions to the de-facto government in the hope of inducing the isthmus to return to its former allegiance.

A private telegram has been received here from Bogota, which, while undated and much garbled, evidently means that the Colombian government will propose to the people of the isthmus that if they will consent to the resumption of the status quo ante-bellum, the canal treaty with the United States will be reconsidered and ratified immediately.

Naval officers say they think Rear Admiral Glass' Pacific squadron will join the Boston at Panama tonight, Admiral Glass will assume command of ships in the isthmian waters.

The Sun reporter has authority of the highest character for the statement that the government had no part whatever, either directly or indirectly, in the plot of the isthmian separatists. It was in accordance with the desire of Secretary Hay that Representative Hill today presented his resolution calling for all the correspondence relating to the revolt and the recognition of the separatists. The Sun's authority declared that the administration could show that it had kept its skirts clean of any connivance at or connection with the revolt. In regard to statements of senators to the effect that the foreknowledge on the part of the administration of what was to happen on the isthmus was very suspicious, it was said that the administration would have been deaf and blind if it had not known what was practically an open secret.

As a result of a conference today between Secretary of the Navy Moody, Assistant Secretary of State Loomis, and Rear Admiral Taylor, chief of the bureau of navigation, instructions were sent to the naval commanders in isthmian waters to stop any attempt on the part of the Colombian government to dispatch troops to the isthmus of Panama.

Upon receiving news that Colombian troops are being embarked at ports in the Atlantic or Pacific, United States vessels will be sent to these places to prevent embarkation.

PERPETUAL ENMITY

The New Pope Places Himself in Antagonism to the Throne of Italy

Rome, Nov. 9.—Pope Pius X. held his first secret consistory this morning. Monsignor Callegari, archbishop of Padua, was made a cardinal and Mgr. Merry Del Val was formally appointed papal secretary of state. Several archbishops and bishops were created. The consistory, which lasted one hour, was closed by the pontiff with the papal blessing. His holiness declared his conviction that the papacy must be independent of earthly power. Therefore he will continue the policy of Pope Leo XIII. in regard to the temporal dominion, while working for the development of faith in Christ. This ends the hope of a reconciliation between Italy and the Vatican.

Roosevelt at the Opera

Washington, Nov. 9.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt and other distinguished persons witnessed the performance of Babette at the new National Theatre tonight. The audience appeared almost as much pleased by the presence of the president as by the performance of the opera. That part of the play in which it is said "diplomats don't steal, they annex," seems to amuse the president very much. He laughed heartily and clapped his hands. Miss Alice Roosevelt and others of the official set accompanied the president.

Hanna Wants to Refuse

Washington, Nov. 9.—Senator Hanna conferred at the White House with the president today. Mr. Roosevelt formally tendered the senator the chairmanship of the Republican national committee. Mr. Hanna expressed a desire to retire from the place, but the president urged him to take charge of his campaign. The senator promised to consider the matter, pending another conference. Senator Hanna declined to discuss the presidential boom in his behalf.

W. T. BLACKWELL AT POINT OF DEATH

He Has Been Paralyzed and the End Is But a Few Hours Distant

Durham, N. C., Nov. 9.—Col. William T. Blackwell, "the hero of Durham," is now in extreme weakness and not expected to live many hours. Physicians say that he may die through the night, or he may live two days. But no hope is held out for his recovery.

While at breakfast yesterday morning Colonel Blackwell was stricken with paralysis and since that time has been unable to move or talk. His arms and tongue are both paralyzed and he has swallowed nothing since breakfast began. Previous to getting breakfast Colonel Blackwell remarked that he was feeling splendid. A few moments later he had lost all control of himself and did not know his mother and other relatives who were gathered about him.

All day yesterday, last night and today his mother, his only son, his sisters and brothers, together with other relatives and friends, have been gathered about his couch waiting for what they know will be the end. Mr. Blackwell is now 64 years of age. He was one of the early manufacturers of smoking tobacco in Durham. The now famous Bull Durham Cigarette Manufacturing Company bears his name. He was early associated with Mr. T. B. Morris, under the firm name of Morris & Blackwell. To him is really indebted for its first success. He was a business Colonel Blackwell amassed a large fortune, close to a million dollars, but a number of years ago he failed. He lost all rather than to lose a number of people whom he had sacrificed and saved himself. He was later postmaster for Durham under President Cleveland. He has two brothers, a number of sisters and a son, Mr. W. T. Blackwell, Jr., who is now civil engineer for Durham. Tonight there was practically no change in his condition of paralysis. He may die at any time.
