

Tar Heels Win a Great Victory Over Virginia

Result of Foot Ball Contest a Great Surprise—Carolina Played a Brilliant Game and Their Opponents Were Unable to Score

Richmond, Va., Nov. 26.—Special. Virginia's flaunting orange and blue, fresh from the field of many victories, were trailed in the dust today by the hardy sons of the Old North State.

At the close of a snappy game, played in freezing weather, but clear, the score stood 15 to 0 in favor of North Carolina. It was a surprise to all, and to none more perhaps than to the victorious team itself. Whatever hopes of success it might have entertained, the reputation of Virginia this year crowded back any dreams of such a victory as this. But it came, nevertheless and the town is in the hands of a whooping, howling, overjoyed Tar Heel. About four thousand people made up a brilliant gathering that witnessed the struggle on the gridiron. There was a good deal of betting and an unusually large sum of Virginia's money passed into other hands.

The game itself was a spectacular one that provoked any amount of enthusiasm. Virginia lost by simply inferior playing. North Carolina put up a great game. Virginia's ends were weak. North Carolina's remarkable strong backs did the work, smothering the ball through in fine style. Virginia fumbled from start to finish, and after the first half was not in it. Several men were knocked out, notably Council and Heald, and two or three of the substitutes had to be run in.

The wildest scenes of joy and enthusiasm were to be witnessed tonight at Murphy's Hotel, where the two teams have their headquarters. The North Carolina players were carried around the lobby on the shoulders of friends, speeches were made and every one was shouting and singing "Carolina" at the same time. As far as possible similar scenes were enacted in the Bijou theatre tonight, where both teams occupied boxes. The old Bijou Comedy Company, favorites in Richmond, were on the boards, presenting "The Night of the Fourth," and every ten minutes, almost, the Carolina or Virginia yell would be given in which the entire audience joined as far as possible.

The people of Richmond are really delighted at the result of the game, although, as already stated, hundreds of them lost money, some a great deal, odds as much as five to one having been given in favor of Virginia. Tonight every few minutes one can hear shouting in the streets, and a look-out of the window is not necessary to understand that happy North Carolinians are the authors of it. They simply can not repress themselves, and no one is trying to make them do it.

The Carolina team will not return to Chapel Hill until early morning tomorrow, but the special train bearing rosters from the Carolina capital will return tonight. The visitors have benefited themselves admirably and not one has gotten into trouble so far as yet learned.

How the Game Was Played

The Carolinians scored once in the first half, but failed at try for goal, leaving their score 5 to 0. In the second half the Chapel Hill men scored twice and Mann kicked goal, but failed at the last attempt.

The story of Virginia's defeat may be briefly told in the one word—fumble. It was to their inability to hold the ball that the first touchdown was directly due. The ball was not carried over the Virginia line; it rolled over it after Watkins had several times vainly tried to hold the elusive oval; and as luck, fate, fortune—what you will—would have it, a Carolina player, Donnelly by name, fell on the spheroid and a score had been made, almost before anybody could realize it. During the rest of the half Carolina was on the aggressive practically all the time, but finally Virginia braced and forced Jacobs to punt. Every time Virginia got the ball and started carrying it down the field, by what is commonly known as straight foot ball, up would come the inevitable fumble or a penalty for offside play or allowing the quarter back to run with the ball; and the gains by line bucking were more than neutralized by the distance penalties imposed.

Carolina was not perfect in handling the ball, but was more fortunate in recovering it. After one fumble a Carolina player fell on the ball in the center of the field, practically without loss of distance. A little later Virginia blocked a Carolina punter, but the ball fell in the bunch between the opposing lines, and a Carolina player fell on it again with little or no loss of distance. Watkins, for Virginia, had just punted to the center of the field when the referee's whistle announced the end of the half.

Carolina suffered two heavy penalties during the first half. Carolina in the first half had rushed the ball to the Virginia 20-yard line when Jacobs dropped back and kicked a beautiful of the war department is making plans to mobilize 50,000 troops, including all the regulars east of the Mississippi and the militia of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, the District of Columbia, and perhaps other organizations, within a few hundred miles of this city early next summer, to take part in a land campaign similar to the annual maneuvers of Germany and France. It is probable that the Virginia and North Carolina troops will be included in the mobilization. This, however, is not fully determined. The plans involve the establishment of great military encampments forty or fifty miles apart, and a hostile campaign between the two bases, simulating all the conditions of an actual state of hostilities. All the branches of the army will be represented in the maneuvers.

Judge Pritchard has broken the court records here during the last two months. During that time 48 persons have been sentenced to imprisonment for periods aggregating 216 years, as against 25 persons for periods aggregating 81 years for the same months in 1902.

A letter from Secretary Sherrill of the North Carolina Press Association states that so far arrangements have been made for 151 persons to make the trip here next week.

KILLED HER SISTER

Result of a Little Girl Handling a Loaded Gun

New Bern, N. C., Nov. 26.—Special. A sad and fatal accident occurred this morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Lancaster on the Neuse river bridge of this city. Mrs. Lancaster was sitting in her room with her three children, Manila D., five years, Weino, 10 years, and Lottie, 12 years of age, respectively.

Manila was standing at her mother's knee, Weino immediately behind her, Lottie was standing by the window. Their father laid his double barreled gun across the foot of the bed and went into an adjoining room to get some shells. Lottie picked up the gun, accidentally discharging it, which was loaded with No. 2 shot, the entire load taking effect in Manila's face and head, passing through, carrying flesh and hair with the shot, which entered the ceiling. Weino received about forty-two No. 2 shot in her back and head, but is not in immediate danger. Doctors have hopes for her recovery. The remains of little Manila were interred at the Cedar Grove cemetery this afternoon, Rev. T. M. N. George officiating.

DIED FOR A WOMAN

Major McClung Killed in San Francisco by Alexander Garnett

San Francisco, Nov. 26.—Major J. W. McClung, a Confederate veteran, died today from pistol wounds received last night in the Palace hotel while he was defending Mrs. Lillie Hitchcock Coit from the attacks of Alexander Garnett. All three belonged to prominent southern families and the two men had been warm friends. Garnett had been the agent of Mrs. Coit's estate, but last week she discharged him because he became abusive over her losses at bridge whist. He wrote a letter of apology, but did not visit her until last evening, when he was drunk.

Major McClung had called to invite Mrs. Coit to go with him and his wife to a ball last evening. When Garnett began to threaten Mrs. Coit, McClung stepped between them and attempted to persuade Garnett to leave the room. This maddened Garnett and he pulled a pistol and fired, the bullet going through the major's breast just below the heart. Garnett was partially sobered by what he had done, and after summoning a doctor he fled. McClung was taken to the hospital.

Mrs. Coit is one of the best known California women. She was the original of the heroine in Gertrude Atherton's "A Whirl Asunder." Garnett comes of a distinguished Virginia family. He always has been erratic and had temper.

GLOOMY VIEWS ON SUGAR INDUSTRY

New Orleans Authorities on the Subject Declare Cuban Reciprocity Means Ruin

New Orleans, Nov. 26.—Col. J. D. Hill and D. D. Colcock, the delegates sent to Washington by the American Cane Growers Association to protest against the passage of the Cuban reciprocity bill, have returned home and express the opinion that there is little chance of defeating the treaty. Mr. Colcock, who is secretary of the New Orleans

Sugar Exchange and the best authority on the sugar industry of Louisiana and Texas, is of the opinion that the treaty will destroy it. It means the loss of $1,672,400 on this year's crop in Louisiana, which is a small one, and an average loss of $2,000,000 to $2,250,000 a year.

It means the eventual wrecking of this southern industry. At first the small producers will be forced out. They can not compete with the Cuban product when the duty is reduced. The larger estates, the planters who own their own modern mills and plants, will continue until the struggle becomes too strong for them even. Then it will be up to the beet sugar interests to compete with the Cuban product.

President Chas. Fairwell, of the American Cane Growers Association, takes the same view. He said:

"A great many of the smaller factories will have to go out of business almost at once. Louisiana, in my opinion, will always make some sugar, but it will not be a general industry covering a vast section of the state. It must cease with the Cuban bill becoming a law. I think the Brussels conference may help us some. It proposes to take steps that will increase the world's consumption of sugar in Europe, getting rid of the world's surplus."

for the Methodist Orphanage at Raleigh. A few minutes later Dr. Atkins said he thought the injection of remarks had charmed the minds of some of the brethren on the matter. Dr. Gibbs rose to a question of personal privilege and stated that he did not intend to argue the matter, but if Dr. Atkins meant his remarks as a challenge it would be accepted. Dr. Atkins disclaimed any such intent.

Dr. Kilgo said he hoped the brethren would not misunderstand each other. He was afraid there was likely to be an unfortunate impression made by the remarks of the brethren and explained that it was not a selfish disposition on the part of any of the brethren of the North Carolina conference, but a desire to be careful and not make obligations about which there could be any doubt of fulfillment. The conference is weighted down with obligations now. Dr. Kilgo's words were listened to attentively and when he had finished Dr. Atkins said he didn't think there was any danger of a misunderstanding. A few more $10 subscriptions were made, running the total amount up to $500.

On motion of Rev. A. P. Tyer the name of Rev. Jno. C. Kilgo was added to the board of education.

Announcements for committee meetings were made. The church was rapidly filling with people as the hour for preaching arrived. It was special order for Bishop Candler to preach a Thanksgiving sermon and the people of Goldsboro were eager to hear him. The aisles were packed and standing people lined the walls along the side aisles and in the rear of the pews. Hundreds were turned away for want of room.

THROUGED HOUSE TO HEAR BISHOP CANDLER'S THANKSGIVING SERMON—BREVARD EPWORTH SCHOOL'S CLAIMS PRESENTED

Goldsboro, N. C., Nov. 26.—Special. The second day of the sixty-seventh session of the North Carolina conference of the M. E. Church, South, was opened in St. Paul's church this morning at 9:30 o'clock. Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. R. H. Willis, presiding elder of the Elizabeth City district, who read a scripture lesson and announced hymn No. 440, "O for a heart to praise my God."

There was a large attendance of the minister and lay delegates at the opening services. It is a matter of comment that such a large number of the members of conference are paying almost undivided attention to the business transacted in the open, public sessions of the conference. Not that any have heretofore been careless about this part of the work, but there is such a strong desire for social intercourse at these annual gatherings that it is generally carried more or less into the conference room.

After prayer by Dr. Willis this morning and a song led by Bishop Candler the roll was ordered called.

Rev. F. A. Bishop moved that the calling of the roll be dispensed with. Bishop Candler held that the motion was out of order until after the roll has been called, that the motion should have been made yesterday. The bishop explained that he was attempting to follow a custom that has heretofore prevailed. Bishop Candler said: "You are trying to make void the laws of your traditions," and the conference laughed.

Bishop Candler possesses a wonderful faculty for keeping everybody in a happy frame of mind and at the same time rapidly dispatch business.

The roll was called and a number of the absentees reported yesterday were found to be present. The journal of yesterday was read by Secretary Cuninghame, corrected and approved.

Dr. Gibbs nominated Rev. N. M. Watson for the vacancy in the conference board of trustees, caused by the death of Rev. B. R. Hall. Mr. Watson was elected.

Assistant Secretary Wilson read the report of the board of church extension, which showed gratifying gains in the work of raising and expending money in the work of church building.

Rev. F. A. Bishop renewed his motion that the roll call be dispensed with. The motion was adopted.

Question 20 was resumed and the name of Rev. T. J. Gattis was again called. Dr. Moore said he had not heard from Mr. Gattis, and would announce, as has been done the last four years, that there is nothing against him except difficulties growing out of a lawsuit, and pending its settlement would ask that his character pass for the present. That course was pursued.

Question 6 was called and the following transfers were announced: Rev. W. F. Sanford from the North Alabama conference, and Rev. R. C. Craven from the Western North Carolina conference.

Under question 8, what traveling preachers are elected deacons the following are announced: Rev. J. Marcellus Cuthbert, who reported all collections in full and gave a good account of the progress made along all lines.

Rev. E. M. Snipes reported all collections in full, an increase of 68 per cent.

Rev. W. A. Jenkins reported all salaries, on missions in full, 66 accessions, $292.50 expended in repairing churches. Other work in good shape.

Rev. W. E. Brown reported an increase in collections, also in membership.

Rev. W. P. Constable reported collections in full and a large ingathering into the church.

Rev. William Towe, circuit paid up in full and gracious revivals on the work.

Rev. W. E. Nicholson was continued in the class of the second year.

Question 5, who are readmitted, was called, and the name of Thomas W. Mansfield was announced from the New Bern district. There were no others and as the committee had not taken action in the case the readmission of Mr. Mansfield was left open for the present.

Rev. Dr. James Atkins spoke in the interest of the Brevard Epworth School, and pointed out the duty of the Methodists in the mountain region of education. There isn't, he declared, a square acre in the entire mountain country that isn't worth our while to cultivate. Subscriptions were called for, and Rev. D. H. Tuttle pledged $100 for his church; Home Mission Society of Centenary church, New Bern, $100; Rev. J. E. Underwood $100, provided he is returned to his present work; Rev. G. A. Oglesby, $50; Mrs. J. E. Underwood $25; Rev. R. H. Willis, $25; Rev. W. W. Rose $25. There were several $10 subscriptions.

While the collection was being taken, Dr. Gibbs stated he thought it was unwise to press the collection too close as a collection was to be taken today

THANKSGIVING EXERCISES

Bishop Candler announced and led in singing an old hymn to an old tune. He followed the hymn with a fervent, touching prayer and read a scripture lesson, from the eighth chapter of Deuteronomy. A New Testament lesson from the twenty-third chapter of Matthew was read.

Another hymn was sung and Bishop Candler announced his text: 147th Psalm, 4th verse, "He hath not dealt so with any nation."

Christianity, he declared, through all centuries has always inspired the most ardent patriotism. We are not simply giving thanks today for what God has done for us this year, but for what He has done in all the years. This land of ours has been filled with as select a people as ever was the land of Palestine with the sons of Jacob. It is sometimes said that Columbus discovered the western world. This part of the world wasn't lost; it has been here all the time. Hatteras was just as stormy for an Indian's canoe as for an

THE CEDRIC IN PORT

Rumors of Sinking Were Baseless and Senseless

New York, Nov. 26.—On winter schedule and all ship shape, the colossus, Cedric, of the White Star line (sunk in mid ocean by a senseless rumor) warped into her North River dock this evening to a tumult of cheers from more than five hundred persons. The usual ropes separating those entitled to go within the customs lines from those who were not, were not stretched, out of regard to the pent up feelings of the friends and kindred of the sea goers, and there were scenes bordering on the lachrymose at the foot of the gang plank when it was run up. Young women flung themselves into their mother's arms as if the unsinkable liner had been in some danger. Flamboyant newspaper head lines of two days ago had got in their nerve wrecking work. Embraces were long, kisses explosive and voices tremulous. The passengers themselves were in some instances boiling with indignation at the unknown author of the rumor.

Two Soft Berths and Wants to Keep Them

Swanson of Virginia Naturally Objects to the Committee Assignment of Kluttz—General Corbin Has a Big Military Scheme

Washington, Nov. 26.—Special.—The appointment of Mr. Kluttz as a member of the committee on post offices and post roads is calculated to disturb the equilibrium of several members of the House and it may result in a protest to Speaker Cannon, but such a movement stands little chance of success. Mr. Kluttz succeeds Mr. Claude Swanson of Virginia, the ranking member on the post office committee. Mr. Swanson does not make way voluntarily for Mr. Kluttz, and when he hears the news he will probably make a vigorous protest.

Mr. Swanson's removal resulted from the fact that he was the only Democrat in the House holding two big committee assignments. Leader Williams told him some time ago that he ought to resign from either the ways and means or the post office committee, pointing out that there were other members who had served almost as long as he had and who did not have even so much as one important committee assignment. The suggestion of Mr. Williams had no effect upon Mr. Swanson, who refused to relinquish either one of his assignments. Then it was, so the story goes, that Mr. Williams decided to take the bit by his teeth. Of course Mr. Swanson will not be satisfied, because he was the ranking Democrat on the committee and in line for the chairmanship. Another ground for kicking is that it is a rather unusual thing to remove a person from a committee.

Mr. Swanson's Democratic colleagues have been giving for some time that he should give up one of his committee assignments in justice to the other members. Mr. Kluttz had almost given up hope of landing on the postal committee and was seeking for appointment on the foreign relations committee. Leader Williams, however, had him in mind for promotion. He told a gentleman a few days ago that in looking over the list of older Democrats in the House he was surprised to find that Mr. Kluttz was not of any important committee. Then it was that he decided to give him Swanson's position. The only other vacancy on the committee had been filled by the selection of Burleson of Texas. It is intimated that Mr. Williams had an understanding with Speaker Cannon before he removed Mr. Swanson that if any fight is made because of the change he will stand by the minority leader.

It was learned today that Gooch of Kentucky gets the other vacancy on the District of Columbia committee, Representative E. W. Pou having been given the first.

As stated yesterday Mr. Small's failure to land on the river and harbor committee was the result of his elimination by Speaker Cannon because of geographical reasons. Mr. Jno. Westley Gaines of Tennessee, who was recommended for appointment instead of the North Carolinian, has learned of the intention of the majority to rub him off the slate. He will kick, but then he is helpless. A Democrat remarked today that the Republican party had arranged to keep Gaines in congress for life. The fact that he is the special object of Republican wrath will make the folks at home solid for him.

President Roosevelt has about completed his message to the regular session of congress. The final copy will go to the printers tomorrow and Monday it will be ready for distribution to the press associations from which it will be mailed to the newspapers. The message has ever written to a regular session. It is about one-third shorter than the message of last year, which was considerably shorter than the first message two years ago. The document will contain fewer words than any message by any of the presidents in a number of years, but it will treat of important subjects in characteristic style.

PROGRESS OF THE JAY TRIAL

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 26.—Special. At the third day of the trial of Dr. Jay for the murder of his children a number of witnesses for the defense testified as to the man's sanity.
