The history In butiles of two sizes and two pricesof every boom should prove a warning to the south to beware of a wild speculative boom in cotton. It is much better to have lost the chance of possible profits in co'ton speculation and to have attended to legitimate business than to have run the risk of being swamped with debts by losses in cotton or any other speculative operation. Upon the bankers of the south will rest a great responsibility as to whether they encourage or discourage the present speculative operations, not only of cotton people who are familiar with the ups and downs of the trade, but of the general public, which, according to reports, is being drawn into this maelstrom of speculation."

The vote in the joint session today resuited as follows: Rayner 37, Smith 32, Miles 4, Jackson 5, McComas 37, Carter 11.

The feature of today's session was the vicious attack made upon the Democrats by Mr. Hiteshewa, a Republican delegate from Frederick county. He declared that the present situation showed the incompetency of the Democratic party and said the people of Maryland expected them to do something besides drawing their pay. The deadlock, he asserted, was seriously interfering with the business of the legislature.
